From-an editor's random thoughts

Common August, bringing to some thoughts of "dog days," of green acorn on ponds, dusty roads, dry fields, blating sun. To others, of more youthful moods, of green acorn on ponds, dusty roads, dry fields, blating sun. To others, of more youthful moods, of green acorn on ponds, dusty roads, dry fields, blating sun.

Our ears too aware of the coming of the final moments of summer, a sense which is at least momentary, a sense which is at least momentary, a sense which is at least momentary.

That sleep at night with open eyes up their own faces, like a wholesome mother, blessed with many children, happy in the future, and a contract with Elton Grove Tuesday following long illness.

Washington report
By Cong. John C. Wey

Washington, D. C., July 30, 1937. The word "renewal" has an ominous ring to Americans. It suggests a new beginning, a new government through the world with disunity and proffering give thanks to the wisdom and foresight of our Constitutional fathers.
