Black Watch to

members of the group wear the red hackle a red vulture feather in their great black feathered hats.

History of the Black Watch dates back to 1725 when six companies of loyal Highlanders were formed to keep peace in that wild section of Scotland. At the time continual clan fighting and raiding of the Lowlands made some sort of police force a vital necessity. Members of the Black Watch were picked from the most loyal clans and were the only Highlanders permitted to bear arms.

They became known as "The Black Watch" because of the dark tartan they wore and since their duties often kept them out in the late hours. In 1861 Queen Victoria made the name an official one.

Battle history of the unit is long and varied. Fighting in Flanders against the French in 1743 brought admiration for their bravery from the British as well as the enemy who dubbed them "Highland furies."

The unit fought during the French and Indian War and the Revolutionary War in America although their official history states, "We can boast no battle honors for our part in the American War of Independence, because it was rightly decreed that battle honors should not be granted for a war with our kith and kin."

As the result of campaigns in Flanders an dthe Napoleonic Wars the regiment won the right to wear the red hackle in its bonnets, a distinction not granted any other military unit.

The Black Watch fought valiantly in World War I and II and served in Korea alongside the 1st U. S. Marine Division.

King George V was the Black Watch's first Colonel-in-Chief, and Queen Elizabeth, the present Queen Mother, its second. One of her brothers having been killed while serving with the regiment in the first World War.

The colorful organization, with shrilling bagpipes and flashing sword dancers, will present an evening performance at 8:00 p.m. (CST) on October 15 at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center. Tickets will be available in mid-September at The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times Readers Service Bureau at $3, $2 and $1

Watts urges Burley price support increase

Congressman John C. Watts, Representative of Kentucky's Sixth District, which is in the heart of the Burley Tobacco-producing area, today called upon the Secretary of Agriculture to establish the price supports for the 1957 Burley Tobacco crop on the basis of an equal across-the-board spread on all grades of Burley.

Mr. Watts pointed out that the estimated production for 1957 would be materially less than the acreage allotment of this type of tobacco in the domestic and foreign trade channels during the current marketing year. He maintained that this would result in virtually all of this crop going into trade channels, rather than under government supports.

As the increased parity level would provide for an average approximately three cents plus per pound on this year's crop, Congressman Watts maintained that unless this was spread across all grades it would be of no material benefit to Burley producers. Watts said that if all the increase in the support price should be applied to the lower grades of tobacco, which have recently been selling at from ten to fifty percent above the support levels, the anticipated three cent-plus pound increase would not add one cent to the Farmers' income. He believes that his recommendation, if followed by the Department of Agriculture, will not only provide a net gain to farmers, but also encourage the continuing production of quality type Burley which has traditionally been superior to Burley grown in other countries.

Viewing the buying patterns of the 1956 market year, Congressman Watts predicted that trade channels would absorb practically of the 1957 crop at prices comparable to those received last year. To provide any parity increase to the individual farmer, however, he maintained that a proportionate increase would have to be made on quality grades as well as those so-called lower grades which were marketed with above support prices last year.

Carlisle Muskies to play Paris

The Carlisle Musketeers started football practice about a month ago, as many people know.

The team is faced with a small squad again this year, but the spirit of the coaches and players is splendid. Also they have been hampered by the boys working every day in tobacco, etc.

The Muskies had a bad break when their fullback, George Gaffin fell during practice and broke his ankle. He will be out all season it is expected.

Even with this happening, the squad is still hoping to put up a good battle and whip the Paris Greyhounds.

So come on over to Paris Friday night and help support the team. It helps the boys to know that the home people and school children are pulling for them—yelling them on to victory!

BICYCLE RIDERS ATTENTION CALLED TO STOP SIGNS

Several Carlisle youth have had their attention called to the necessity of stopping their bicycles at intersections with stop signs as well as those with stop lights. The signs apply to bicycle riders as well as operators of motor vehicles.

PROGRESSIVE'S FILE FOR CITY OFFICES

A petition for the city offices of mayor and councilmen was filed August 30 with County Clerk John F. Sugg. Heading the ticket was incumbent William Power, for mayor; for councilmen were William Harper, William Frey, H. C. Galbraith, Oliver Barton, G. N. Maxey and Frank Lynam.

Friday is the last day on which a petition can be filed the County Clerk stated.

TWO WATER TANKS AND SPRING HOUSE—Sterling Blake has developed a spring on his farm on Locust Grove road by building a spring house and two water tanks, one for sheep and another for cattle. Water is piped from the spring house to the large round tank and the overflow feeds the small shallow tank. A fence will divide each tank to provide water in two fields. The circular tank forms may be rented from the Nicholas County Soil Conservation District and the rectangular ones from the Robertson County SCD. Interested farmers may contact W. P. Threlkeld of the USDA Soil Conservation Service, or any member of the Nicholas County SCD Board of Supervisors of which Lovell Hollar is Chairman.

WATER TANK BELOW POND—Russel Selvage, farm manager of Forest Retreat farm, supervised the installation of this water tank below a pond. Unlike a tank below a spring, this tank requires a float valve to regulate the flow of water from the pond to the tank. The pond, built in April this year, has been fenced to insure better quality water. The excellent vegetative cover on the dam is the result of a heavy application of seed, fertilizer and mulch. Straw was used to mulch this dam, and as Selvage says, "The use of a mulch means the difference between success and failure in most cases." USDA Soil Conservation Service personnel W. F. Threlkeld (right) and L. T. Robinson, inspect the tank. Adequate water in a field of abundant pasture, such as seen here, has long been recommended by the SCS, Extension Service, and other agricultural agencies.

STEEL TANK FORMS READY FOR USE—This steel tank form, recently purchased by the Nicholas County Soil Conservation District for farmers' use, is being used by Dr. W. G. Irvin, L. T. Robinson of the Soil Conservation Service is shown inspecting the installation. The form will make a circular 500 gallon concrete tank for livestock water. A spring will supply the water.

CITY P.T.A. MEETS TUESDAY NIGHT

The Carlisle P.T.A. will hold its first meeting of the school year Tuesday, September 10 at 7:30 in the recreation room of the city school. Mrs. Paul Guthrie, the new president will preside over the business meeting which will be followed by a reception for the superintendent and teachers.

It is hoped that all members of P.T.A. will attend and take the opportunity of meeting the faculty.

ROTARY POSTPONED

The Rotary club will not meet Thursday night but will meet Friday night with the Chamber of Commerce at the reservoir at 6 p.m. The meeting is for members and their wives.

TOBACCO ON TILED LAND—James D. Gaunce, left, and Clestus Ritchie harvest Gaunce's tobacco, along the Bartersville road, where the yield is estimated to be twice as much this year as it was last year. Gaunce attributes the increase to 5000 ft. of tile installed last February. Excess water in the subsoil was removed by the tile drainage system designed by the Soil Conservation Service. Above the tobacco, at the base of a hill and not shown in the picture, is a diversion channel which diverts surface runoff water from the bottom land to a prepared waterway. The gently curved rows indicate the tobacco was set on the contour. Gaunce has followed many of the practices recommended by the Extension Service, Vocational Agriculture and SCS, in producing top quality tobacco.
