CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The fact that all things are possible to God will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Spirit."

Luke's account of Christ Jesus' healing of the "woman having an issue of blood twelve years" (Luke 8) will be included in readings from the King James Version of the Bible.

Selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following (182:32-4): "The law of Christ, or Truth, makes all things possible to Spirit; but the so-called laws of matter would render Spirit of no avail, and demand obedience to materialistic codes, thus departing from the basis of one God, one lawmaker."

The Golden Text is from II Corinthians (3:17): "Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty."

HOUSE WITHDRAWN

Remove cellophane from lampshades

Lampshades that are wrapped with Cellophane when they come from the store should have that protection removed at once. The shiny, glistening surface is not attractive and, more important, it will cause the lampshade to warp if allowed to remain on too long, say home furnishings specialists at the University of Kentucky.

Meat production for the first 11 months of 1956 was up 6 percent from the 1955 figures, says the USDA.

Crows Help Turkey Grower Bag Large One!

I have been informed by my good friends the DeWitt Brothers of Michigan, that it took the help of a flock of crows to catch the bird who killed twenty of Mr Tilford Williamson's turkeys near Deekerville, Michigan.

Federal food laws do not permit green, immature oranges to be colored, instead only those that are fully ripe but partly green in color by nature.

While his Burbon Reds and Narragansetts were putting on size pretty rapidly, some marauder began killing himself a turkey nightly, and was choicy about the eating, just ate the breast. He suspected foxes, skunks, raccoons, dogs. Finally he found a dead turkey where only a big owl could have left it.

A steel trap on a pole didn't catch the turkey killer. And Mr. Williamson was getting tired of the nightly slaughter.

Then one afternoon he heard a flock of crows making a most unholy racket in the woods. He hurried back there with his shotgun.

There perched in a tree was a big owl. The crows were attacking him steadily and furiously. "Usually you can't get in rifle range of a crow" he says, "but those birds seemed to know I wasn't after them. They just ignored me and kept that owl so busy fighting them off he couldn't get away. I got him the first shot."

The owl's wing tips reached from one side of a hay rack to the other Mr. Williamson lost no more turkeys.

Believe you me that was some owl with I could have obtained the correct measure in feet and inches.

I have been informed unofficially however, that the Michigan legislature at its last session made it illegal to kill any kind of hawk or owl, with the exception that a farmer may kill those actually found raiding and killing his poultry. The state of Connecticut has a law similar to the one recently enacted in Michigan.

* * *

Most of the states protect some species and nine states provide no protection at all for either owls or hawks.

It is claimed that the benefit derived by the ratching of insects, rats, mice and gophers, more than makes up for, the small damage they do.
