Control measures for tobacco insects

A number of insect pests that damage field burley stands must be controlled for a successful crop, says the UK Agricultural Experiment Station entomology department.

Here they are:

Flea-beetles: Most important pest year in and out, control with DDT, Endrin, or Dieldrin either spray or dust form. Use a 10 percent DDT dust at the rate of 15-20 pounds per acre, as a spray, 1 to 2 pounds of a 50 percent wettable powder in 50 gallons of water to cover one acre.

No Dieldrin SPRAY is recommended; use 1½ percent Dieldrin dust at 15 to 20 pounds per acre.

Endrin should be used as a spray at the rate of 0.2 to 0.4 pounds (emulsion concentrate) actual per acre; this figures out to 1 to 2 pints in 5 to 15 gallons of water per acre.

Cutworms, a pest just after transplanting, can be controlled with DDT dust or spray, or Endrin dust or spray. The same rates apply here as for use against flea-beetles. Treat soil about the plants, the specialists note.

Two kinds of hornworms hit field plants. TDE (also known as "DDD" or Rothane) controls them. As a spray, use 1 pound actual TDE per acre (about two quarts of the emulsion concentrate). From 15 to 30 pounds per acre of a 10 percent TDE dust is recommended.

Endrin also will control hornworms. A 1.5 percent Endrin dust used at 15 to 30 pounds per acre is recommended, as a spray, use 1 to 1½ pints of Endrin emulsion concentrate in 5 to 15 gallons of water. Hit hornworms when they are small, for better control.

Budworms, which will be found when field plants are from knee high to harvest time, can be stopped by Endrin and TDE, both used at the same rates as against hornworms. DDT can also be used, in identical dosages to TDE.

The specialists note that budworms eat the central buds of plants and are hard to control. Don't drench the buds if emulsion concentrates are being used; such materials will burn the buds badly.

Grasshoppers are a problem in July and August. They move into tobacco fields when food sources in field margins are exhausted. Dieldrin is one control material. Use a 1½ percent Dieldrin dust, 15 to 20 pounds per acre. For sprays, use an emulsion concentrate at the rate of ½ pint (1½ ounces actual) to 5 to 15 gallons of water.

Aldrin also can be used to control grasshoppers, but the emulsion concentrate spray is recommended. One pint of the concentrate (4 ounces actual) in 5 to 15 gallons of water will cover an acre.

A good way to control 'hoppers in tobacco is to kill them in field margins and adjacent fields BEFORE they invade tobacco areas.

Recipe of the week

Although drinking milk is the simplest way to get the recommended daily amounts, there are many other opportunities to include this health-giving food in the diet.

Even relatively small amounts used in soups, main dishes and desserts will help supply the needed calcium, the nutrient most often lacking in poorly-fed families, says Mrs. Pearl Haak, UK Extension foods specialist.

Lemon Sponge Pudding
¼ c sugar
¼ c flour
¼ t salt
1 T melted butter
½ t grated lemon rind
¼ c lemon juice
2 eggs separated
1½ c milk.

Mix together sugar and flour, add salt, butter, lemon rind and juice. Beat egg yolks well and add milk. Combine with sugar mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry and fold into milk mixture. Pour into greased custard cups or baking dish, and set in a pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 40 to 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings. ¼ c of milk per serving.

Menu: Broiled chicken, steamed rice, summer squash, lettuce-tomato salad, corn sticks, butter, lemon sponge pudding and milk to drink.

Nigeria annually exports 100,000 tons of chocolate beans. This British colony of Africa's west coast accounts for about 15 per cent of world production, says the National Geographic Society.

"Blubarb" jam, a combination of blueberries and rhubarb, has been developed for commercial use by the USDA Western Utilization and Research Development Division.

Burley in low lying areas was flooded Tuesday night.

NEW DRAG STRIP—Reports point up the fact that many county and city roads are being used as drag strips late at night. These photos show the result of one such race which ended in approximately $1,000 property damage at the Bretz Grocery near the eastern city limits Monday night. Involved in the incident Monday night were Donald Brown Hollar, driver of the vehicle which leveled the gas pumps and Floyd Bussell. Examining trail has been set for Friday in county court. The pictures were taken Tuesday morning.—Campbell photos

Accepts call to Carlisle Baptist church

Rev. Delbert Butts, a native of Louisville, has accepted the call to become pastor of the Carlisle Baptist church, and will take charge about August 15, according to announcement made this week by the church.

Rev. Butts is a graduate of both Georgetown College and the Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville and is now preaching in Scott county at the Dry Run Baptist church. He is married and has two sons, nine and six years old.

Rev. Gerald McNeely and family, who have served the church for the past four years, have been accepted as missionaries to Spain and will leave in a few weeks for their new field of labor.

4-H club members can win $800 in '57 contest

Kentucky 4-H Club members can win $800 in U. S. Savings Bond prizes in the 1957 State Achievement Contest in Home Economics and Agriculture.

Two state awards of $100 bonds will go to the champion in home economics and the champion in agriculture selected on the basis of projects, leadership and participation in 4-H Club, community and county activities.

The top agriculture boy and home economics girl in each of the six agricultural extension districts will receive $50 bonds. In addition, these fourteen winners and their parents will be guests of honor the twentieth annual Farm Awards Luncheon in Louisville, next spring to accept their grants.

Certificates of merit will be awarded to the top achievement winners in each county.

Deadline for reports is October, 1957. Contest may be obtained from county or home demonstration extension agents.

A 4-H Club Achievement Contest is one of five competitions in the farm incentive program of The Courier-Journal, The Louisville Times and WHAS, Inc.

Mrs. Bromagen resigns 41-year school stint

Mrs. Bess Bromagen, Carlisle, has resigned as a member of the teaching staff of the City school and plans to retire.

She taught in Bath county at the Bethel Grade school for seven years, thirty-one years in the Nicholas County schools; twenty-five of those years were in the Moorefield Grade school.

Most of her college work was done at Eastern Teachers College, with some work at the University of Kentucky and Morehead Teachers College.

Mrs. Bromagen is a member of the Moorefield Christian church, and has been teacher of the Women's Bible Class there for many years. She is also serving on the official board of the Parent-Teachers Association; Youth Center; Moorefield Homemakers and Nicholas County Memorial Library.

She said she has enjoyed teaching very much, and that if she were choosing again, she would choose the same profession—not for the material gain, but for the satisfaction of seeing her boys and girls grow up fine men and women, and add their share to make their community a better place in which to live.

Rural route 2 was extended to include the new Somerset road with delivery extending to the home of Rex Ratliff. The new delivery becomes effective June 28. Also extended was rural route 3 to include the new Mt. Moriah road which serves some eight homes.

Route 2 is carried by Gaylord Barton and route 3 by Paul Donovan.

Get that safety sticker now

In a statement Monday Mayor Bill Power said all persons who failed to have their cars checked in the recent safety lane could "still comply by having their favorite garage make the necessary checks and affix the safety sticker." Garages may secure cards and stickers from Paul Smoot, chairman of the drive.

Mayor Power added, "the checkup is not compulsory, but all cars with safety stickers will be looked upon as citizens who are interested in the safety and protection of our children and citizens of our community. Have your vehicles checked and be proud to be one with a safety sticker."

July to be "Lamb Month" product program is set

Kentucky's famous export—lamb—will be featured and promoted during July, a 31-day period which already has been proclaimed by Governor A. B. Chandler as "Lamb Month."

The week of July 8-13 inclusive has been specifically designated as "Lamb Week."

Idea of the month-long observance is to acquaint Kentuckians with the value of one of their principal agricultural products as an export commodity, and to let them know as well of the high quality and value of lamb as food.

A committee called "Kentuckians Want First for Kentuckians" headed by A. L. Larimore, Lexington meat packing plant official, will direct the observance.

The committee will try to have lamb available for every family in Kentucky during Lamb Week as part of its promotion of the product. Producers, stockyards personnel, packers, wholesalers, retailers, members of hospital, hotel, restaurant and bankers associations, chambers of commerce, the Farm Bureau, the Rural Electrification Association, state Department of Agriculture and the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics, and Experiment Station, all have joined the group.

Kentucky produced about 600,000 lambs in 1956 and probably will produce more than that in 1957 and 1958, the committee says; yet, 98 percent of these lambs were shipped out of the state

Kentuckians annually consume less than a pound of lamb and mutton per capita, while the national average is 4.5 pounds per person.

"If Kentuckians consumed lamb at the national rate, a demand would be created for an additional 300,000 lambs a year," the committee says. "If we assume that a lamb is worth $20, this would mean an additional gross income of $6,000,000 to Kentucky sheep farmers, as well as added income to lumbers, wholesalers and retailers. Most

Waterfield to crown festival queen July 5

The Blackberry Festival, three-day annual homecoming celebration, will open July 4.

The festival will be sponsored by American Legion Post No. 17 with Commander John D. Power in charge.

Highlighting the event will be the crowning of "Miss Nicholas county" as queen of the festival. The coronation will take place at 8 p.m. Friday, July 5. The queen will be crowned by Lieut. Gov. Waterfield. The queen selected will be presented with a trophy with her name and the date engraved on it.

The queen will be elected by penny votes in jars located in several of the Main Street stores. The contest will close at 4 p.m. the afternoon of the event.

Candidates for queen of the festival are Misses Ann Garrett, Moorefield; Patty Bromagen, Taylor's Creek; Beverly Mellvaine, Mt. Zion; Wanda Wagoner, Parks; Ann Smith, Concord; Maxine Dotson, Carlisle; Barbara Lail, Carlisle; Brenda Moss, Ellisville; Brenda Hollar, Sulfield; and Alice Faye Terrell, East Union.

Driving tips for a safe July 4th

As millions of fun-seeking motorists head for the lakes, mountains or beaches over the Fourth of July holiday, Safety experts have hoped that extra care and caution will keep the highway accident toll at an all-time low.

To help achieve this goal, Jeanne Smith, Dodge safety consultant, has prepared this list of 10 driving tips.

1. Control your temper when behind the wheel. Highways are crowded and travel is slow; don't "blow-up" and take unnecessary chances.

2. Start early, expect frequent delays and leave for home early, preferably during daylight.

3. Watch out for careless drivers who are over-anxious to reach their destinations.

4. Slow down, to allow passing cars extra room to get back into the right lane ahead of you.

5. Always give the other driver more than his share of the road.

6. Get into the proper lane well in advance of turning—and always signal your intention to turn or stop.

7. Pull your car entirely off the road when stopping for sightseeing or a roadside picnic.

8. Check traffic in all directions, especially to the rear, before pulling out of a parking spot onto the highway.

9. Reduce speed at sundown and drive within the range of your headlights.

10. Concentrate on your driving—it's a full time job.
