If Fire Strikes

What would you do if fire destroyed your home? There is a surprisingly easy answer to that question. You'd take the insurance money and rebuild. It would be a waste of time, but you wouldn't be out of pocket.

MAN ON THE STREET

Public Offers Suggestions For Improving Fires Where They Shop

By Kenneth Fisk, Director, Princeton, Research Service

There is a general feeling that suggestions do little good for the people who are just about doubled. That is generally true of practically every business, whether it be house-furnishings, clothing, appliances and so on. It is, according to insurance statistics, that many people have unwittingly failed to increase their coverage to compensate. If fire strikes, in those cases they simply won't be enough insurance money to pay for their losses.

Longer Days

Though many of us do not realize it, the days are getting longer and, before long, when the weather begins to warm up, we will be enjoying those longer spring days.

What 4-H means to me

By Rebecca Barlow

As the reader can see, our weather reflects what the sun has done several months earlier, and the reason July and August are often better than June is because the earth has had time to warm itself from the long summer days and is actually better than it was on June 21. And although the sun does not shine so long in August, the earth has been warmed by the sun for a longer period.

Tom Payne Says:

Lloyd died of meningitis Creek got in boat with Mrs. Gray and water started running in the boat and he jumped out of the boat in the water to keep from being wet.
