An Editor's Random Thoughts

Since that afternoon when this writer and another lad dropped their cane poles and took refuge from a storm under a broad tree, peering nonchalantly on a wave-wrecker, I haven't cared for boat races. A livid streak rippled through the clouds, shading a big oak on the hill about three hundred yards away and, whether from fright or shock, both boys picked themselves out of a jump of hubbuck and fled for the house with a bustling of tin can trees and wire fences.

TODAY'S meditation

THURSDAY, MAY 30
I am a child of God and I have the right to be happy. I have the right to be free. I have the right to be loved. I have the right to be respected. I have the right to be heard. I have the right to be understood. I have the right to be forgiven. I have the right to be forgiven.

Robert Haul, noted poet and author of the book "The Road to the Mountains" will be the featured speaker at the workshop.
