Kentuckian's income outgains that of nation

Frankfort, Nov. 20—The average Kentuckian made greater financial gains between 1950 and 1956 than did the population of the nation as a whole and the 12-state Southeastern region.

The State Department of Economic Development has disclosed that a study of federal government data showed a rise of 38.2 percent in Kentucky's per capital income, from $956 to $1,324, between 1950 and 1956. Only four states in the nation and only one state in the South east registered larger increases. The average gains for the nation and the region were 30.1 and 35.6 percent.

Kentucky's per capita income in 1956 represented 68.2 percent of the national average of $1,940, as against 64.3 percent in 1950. The average for the 12 Southeastern states was 70.3 percent last year and 67.7 percent in 1950.

Total personal income in Kentucky last year amounted to $3,995 million, a six-year gain of 40.9 percent, the development agency said. Higher national and regional advances of 43.8 and 45.8 percent were attributed to Kentucky's slower rate of population gain.

State researchers said new and expanded industrial facilities contributed a lion's share to Kentucky's economic growth since 1950. Total manufacturing payrolls jumped from $451 million to $772 million, an increase of 71.2 percent. During the same period, factory wages in the nation and the Southeast increased an average of 57.1 and 57.4 percent.

State agency protects health of dairy herds

Frankfort, Nov. 20—The State presently is engaged in two major programs to eradicate cattle diseases, Assistant Agriculture Commissioner Mancil Vinson reports.

He adds:

An intensified program of brucellosis control is being conducted. The first and most important step is vaccinating all heifers between the ages of four through eight months with one supplied by the State Agriculture Department through accredited contract veterinarians.

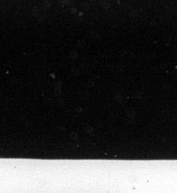
Entire herds are also blood-tested by the veterinarians. Infected animals are branded and appraised by the Department and cash indemnities are offered for destroyed animals to the farmer to alleviate financial hardship.

To facilitate the program and enable the Livestock Sanitation Division to spot infected herds, the "ring test" is conducted at each milk plant, followed by the usual blood testing. Laboratories are maintained at Frankfort and Henderson to check blood samples in addition to the trailer lab traveling the State. To prevent re-infection of herds, sales yards are required to see that cattle moving back to the farm are tested or covered by a health certificate.

The agency also conducts a tuberculosis eradication program.

It also is based on the test and slaughter method, with indemnities paid for animals destroyed. The federal-state T.B. program began in 1917 when one cow in every 20 was infected. By 1940 this had been reduced to one in 200.

To be accredited, each county must keep the infection below five-tenths percent.



Lawrence Welk ↑ → his champagne music into tne fight against TB. In a special transcribed radio show, Welk urges support of the tuberculosis associations' campaign to raise funds to control tuberculosis.

Aromatic crop averages $69.42

Kentucky's second crop of Turkish tarcomatic tobacco grown this year on an experimental basis under supervision of the Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service, averaged $69.42 a hundred pounds.

Total pounds grown by the 18 "pilot" farmers: 6,642, acres under cultivation, 12.14; total money, $6,000; and dollars realized per acre, $495.

These figures were released this week by Ira Massie, Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service specialist who conducted the trials.

Massie said the high-money crop was that grown by Elbert Taulbee and Harold Rose, landlord, of Morgan county; 694 pounds on .94 of an acre brought $718 for a price of $1.02 a pound average. Second high crop was that of Charles Walters, another Morgan county man, who grew 318 pounds on .60 of an acre for an average of $1 a pound.

Rufus Boggs, Jackson county, was third high, with 650 pounds from .65 of an acre. He averaged 92 cents a pound. Massie said. Fourth high was W. E. Johnson of Woodford county, who grew 1,000 pounds of tobacco on .65 of an acre for an average of 86 cents a pound.

Throughout the Revolutionary War, Harrodsburg was the seat of Mercer county, which was organized in December, 1778. The town had a population of 198 persons

Telephone Talk

by CHARLES A. HARRIS
Your Telephone Manager

HELLO, EVERYONE! Thanksgiving is almost here, and most of us are already thinking about turkey and dressing, cranberries, and sweet potato pie. But I'm sure, too, this holiday of thanks brings to mind our families—the ones who can't be with us when we sit down to enjoy our turkey. So this year, my family is planning a surprise for the folks away from home. We're calling them Long Distance. You might like to do the same with your family. (Bargain rates apply all day.) Isn't it nice to know that Thanksgiving or any other day, you can say "hello everyone" to family or friends across the miles by Long Distance?

TO SPEED your Long Distance calls keep a list of out-of-town numbers with your new Directory. Remember, calling Long Distance by number means you're calling station-to-station at bargain rates. You save even more when you call during bargain hours—every Sunday, or any day after 6 P.M.

With the opening of Tobacco Sales, our hopes are for a most successful season, and to our many friends best wishes for a Happy Thanksgiving.

MY WIFE SAYS there's nothing like a new hat to cheer her up. I guess men feel the same way about a bright new tie. Well, a little extra color in the house can do a lot, too. And that gets me to my favorite subject—additional phones in color! They not only add a happy dash to a room but make for extra convenience, as well. Why not check with us about installing them in your den, kitchen, bedroom—wherever you like? And, gentlemen, instead of a hat, try perking up your wife's spirits next time she's out of sorts with a color phone or two. They do wonders!

8,760 HOURS TELEPHONING? Who could this be? One of the ladies? A teenage daughter? No, it's men . . . and the average amount of time we spend in a lifetime on the phone. Seems like we're pretty gabby, but maybe that's really not so much talking when you consider the things we accomplish quickly and economically by telephone.

COMMENT

Looking over some old newspapers the other day we commented on the size. It seems that back in the 1850's, the New York Constellation boasted of 13 columns to each page and each column 48 inches long. A rival paper pointed out that it was big enough for a blanket and a pair of pillowcases with enough left over to paper the pantry shelves." In 1853, with publishers capitalizing on size, the New York Journal of Commerce measured 3-5 feet.—From Linotype News

I wonder what they would think of today's tabloid size newspapers?

After seeing the word "sputnik in every newspaper and magazine I've read in the past few weeks, I note that they too can't seem to make up their minds as to whether to capitalize "sputnik" or not

Never tell a young person that something cannot be done. God may have been waiting for centuries for somebody ignorant enough of the impossible to do that very thing.—Dr. J. A. Holmes

It's that time of year when not only "sputnik" but the family budget is soaring into space.—K.T.F.
