Seek State's Top 4-H Alumni For 1957-58 Honors

WOULD you like to nominate for special honors a former 4-H Club member who has become an outstanding citizen? This is the 4-H Alumni Recognition program being conducted by the State Extension Service, and sponsored by Ollie Mathieson Chemical Corporation, Plant Food Division, Little Rock, Ark.

To be eligible, candidates should have performed some outstanding service, made a notable contribution to the community, state or nation, or displayed exceptional leadership. They need not now reside in the state.

There are more than 2 million former 4-H'ers throughout the country, and undoubtedly the beneficent influence of 4-H training and ideals has affected the lives of every one. Among them are men and women whom you know as friends and neighbors—such as farmers, housewives, the family doctor, teachers, local business men and legislators.

By sending in the name of a worthy 4-H alumnus you may pave the way for well deserved recognition. Two winners from each county will be named for special recognition certificates. Four outstanding persons will be honored in the state, and will receive a burnished copper and walnut plaque.

Eight men and women will be honored at an impressive banquet of the national 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next December. Besides the expense paid trip, each one will be presented with a gold 4-H alumni key, the national award. The 1958 candidates also will be selected at this time.

So don't delay — fill out the form below, clip and mail today.

STOLEN SAFE, PAPERS FOUND IN NICHOLAS

A safe, stolen about three weeks ago from Peck's Farmer Supply Store in Sharpsburg, was recovered on a Nicholas County farm Thursday afternoon, according to Sheriff Emery Williams. The safe which contained valuable papers and ledgers was located by Hanson Judge on his farm near Mt. Carmel field as he and a helper, Charlie Myers were putting up a fence.

The Bath county sheriff's office had previously announced that a $500 reward would be given for the contents of the safe which held records for an estimated $40,000 worth of business.

Judge and Myers discovered the books near the safe half buried under a pile of rock and dirt. The safe had been beaten open and was lying in the field near a branch.

Judge called Peck and informed him of the safe's discovery and Peck notified the Bath county sheriff.

Hit Henbit, Chickweed now

Lexington, Ky.—Control annual weed pests in strawberry patches now, says James Herron, Kentucky Experiment Station botanist, to save much work in spring and early summer.

Two such pests are henbit and chickweed. These plants come up in the fall, grow during the winter and die in early spring, September 1. They are very troublesome in strawberry patches.

Use Crag herbicide in spray form. Take three pounds of Crag and mix it with 40 gallons of water to cover an acre. For smaller areas,—such as 120 feet of strawberry plant rows 2 feet wide—use one tablespoon of Crag in not less than a quart of water.

Start spraying from mid-September to the middle of November. Handweed patches thoroughly before treatment.

Leaflet 164, "Control of Annual Weeds in Strawberries," is available at the bulletin room, Experiment Station, Lexington, Ky.

Pink color in poultry cause found

Lexington, Ky.—What makes some turkey and other poultry meat pinkish, even though it is thoroughly cooked?

Food specialists at the University of Kentucky say that research at the USDA's Western Utilization Research and Development division has shown that certain substances in the atmosphere of a heated oven, or in the hot air of an outdoor fire, may react chemically with substances in the poultry meat to give it a pink tinge. These are the same substances that give a reddish color to smoked hams and other cured meats.

The meat is entirely safe to eat, and is not changed in flavor or food value, according to the scientists.

Due to the thin skins of young birds, they often show the most pink, as the gases penetrate the skin more readily. The amount of fat in the skin also affects the color change. Bones of young poultry that have darkened and reddened result from the freezing and thawing of poultry, breaking down the blood cells of the bone marrow. Studies on this problem were done several years ago at the Iowa Experiment Station.

- Seed is guaranteed. (A guarantee with a meaning.)
- Seed of new, improved varieties available.

Why Gamble?

A very poor harvest season such as we had this year is harmful to the production of good quality small grain seed. Southern States supply is good, but with heavier than usual demand the supply could become short.
