Little League season ends

Little League baseball ended its first successful season last Wednesday, and much of its success can be credited to Martin Sims, who spent many fine hours keeping Little League going.

According to Capt. T. H. Sims, who was entrusted with many problems and appointments but through hard work and much diplomacy was able to bring the season to a successful close.

The value of Little League to the youth of the community would be hard indeed to measure. It will go down in years to come as a fine chapter in the history of the community.

"Cover-to-cover readers"

From the Belmont, Ohio, Chronicle: "A strong voice of approval for advertising in weekly newspapers spoke out recently at a Midwest Press Association meeting. According to a front page editorial in the Belmont, Ohio, Chronicle, the publisher's auxiliary, Alan B. McCann, chairman of the board of a Midwest advertising agency, stated: 'It is my opinion, although not officially endorsed by the members of weekly newspapers will come through by being covered by the press. I don't subscribe to the thought that the way to get maximum readers on the client side is by advertising in the press. It is a circulation as possible.'"

"The long and short of it is that the amount of reasonable column inches is the fact that a

QUESTION FOR LABOR DAY

How long will we walk in the mud? The illustration shows a man struggling through a thick layer of mud. The text asks how long this state of affairs will continue.

to say that modern mechanized equipment is essential to successful farming today is to say the obvious. Among other things, the machine has made the sowing and harvesting of the family farm, by making it possible to handle a greatly increased acreage with a diminishing amount of expensive human labor.

Very marked progress has been achieved in improving the equipment in its production efficiency and safety. It is desirable, therefore, that we have a policy which will encourage the farmer to use modern equipment and to use it to the best advantage.

For instance, one of the leading machine owners and operators, a 41-acre farmer in the middle west, has written a policy which will encourage the farmer to use modern equipment and to use it to the best advantage.

Other makers take and develop their machinery. It is not surprising that the makers from farmers are always welcome in the community. It is not surprising that the makers from farmers are always welcome in the community.

I came down from heaven, not to do mine own will, but the will of him that sent me. (John 6:38)

Here Jesus speaks of two wills, separate and distinct. His own will and His Father's will. We are free to do His will or our own.

I have a friend who has the great purpose of his life to be the will of His Father. We also find the purpose of our lives when we think with harmony with God's will.

He will do the will of His Father. We also find the purpose of our lives when we think with harmony with God's will.

Good fishing is predicted for autumn

Frankfort, Aug. 28—Experts believe fall will offer the best fishing in Kentucky this year and may be caught in much the same manner as in the early spring months and deep runs.

Although fishermen have frequent summer benefits, the fall offers new lures as good as in the spring. The catch will be in the fall.
