CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Today's need for proofs rather than professions of divine power will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Spirit."

Selections to be read from the Bible include the following pro-

Como, follow me. (Luke 18:22.)

The great Filipino mystic, Dr. Jose Rizal, once expressed his disappointment over the aimlessness of many of his countrymen. In the face of a national crisis, he referred to them as "stones wasted in the fields without becoming parts of any edifice."

Leave a stone alone by itself in the field, and it is trampled under the feet of men, or perhaps becomes lost in dust or mud. Pick it up and make it part of a floor, or wall, or house, and as long as that house stands, that stone has usefulness.

If we take our seemingly insignificant lives and build them into the cause of the kingdom, our lives will have meaning.

In the face of today's great opportunities for investing our lives in this worthwhile cause-seeking to salvage humanity from hate and fear-we are so often found floating aimlessly around. We are overburdened by the petty problems of our personal existence. God helping us, let us forget self and deepen our discipleship.

PRAYER

Our Father, we thank Thee for calling us to be disciples of the Lord Jesus Christ. Help us to hear His call and obey. Open our eyes to the wonderful opportunity to become part of Thy eternal kingdom. Grant us the will to learn of Christ and the courage to follow Him. In the Master's name. Amen.

These proofs consist solely in the destruction of sin, sickness and death by the power of Spirit, as Jesus destroyed them. This is an element of progress, and progress is the law of God, whose law demands of us only what we can certainly fulfil."

Muskies on short

The first quarter ended with the Eagles having sunk 20 to the Muskies 20.

The second quarter started and proved to be the crucial period of the ballgame. The Eagles found the range and hit for a very good percentage of their shots. The Muskies were left behind as the Eagles went on to be the leaders as they ran up 23 points to the Muskies 12.

The hall started with Sharpsburg resting on a 18 point lead but Carlisle played some excellent ball as all the Carlisle players hustled and ran 21 points to the Eagle's 15. It looked as if the Muskies might pull it out of the fire but the third quarter was too much for the Muskies and the buzzer sounded ending the quarter with the Eagles ahead by 12 points.

Then both teams hit about the same as they connected for a combined score of 31 points. Both teams played good ball but the Eagles had too much of a lead and the game ended with Sharpsburg on the top by a score of 73-62.

High point honors went to "Chuck" Vice who connected for 19 points. Next highest was shared by Leroy Hawkins and Oliver Smart who sank 11 each. The rest of the scores were Henry 2, Straw 1, Wilson 1, Meguffey 5, (Charles) Vice 8, and Kennett 4.

For the Eagles top scoring honors was shared as Black and Leggett both connected for 22 points each. They were followed by Bailey with 10, Atkinson 9, Hatton 6, B. Steward 2, and Toy 2.

The score at the end of each quarter was: 1st. 15-20, Sharpsburg, 2nd. 25-43, Sharpsburg; 3rd 46-58, Sharpsburg, 4th 62-73, Sharpsburg.

Compulsory Unionism
OR RIGHT-TO-WORK
Which Shall Apply in Kentucky?

The Right to Work is the right to live and work and enjoy life as a free American, without being forced to pay dues to any organization as a condition of employment. The Right to Work has been a fundamental principle of our American way of life from the time of the founding of the nation down to the present time.

It is one of the basic freedoms guaranteed every American under the Bill of Rights, originally added by the first 10 Amendments along with Freedom of Religion, Freedom of the Press, Free Speech and Free Assembly as the heart and soul of this freedom loving republic.

HERE'S WHAT IT MEANS

Right to Work, as its term implies, means simply that employees may join a labor union — or any other private organization — in order to get a job or to hold a job.

Right to Work involves a single issue — COMPULSORY UNION MEMBERSHIP.

Right to Work does not interfere with lawful union activity in any way. It does not prevent or limit the right of employees to bargain collectively.

The question is not whether unions are good or bad — it is whether an American can be compelled, under the threat of loss of his livelihood, to join and support any organization, any church, union, bowling league or garden club — in order to get or retain a job.

Right to Work, in essence, is the employee's guarantee of the fundamental American right of free choice.

HERE'S WHY it is needed

Compulsory unionism under the closed shop is outlawed under the 1947 Taft-Hartley Act — but compulsory unionism under the union shop is still legal in 18 states. Experience is only the matter of a few years for the press to learn the same).

The closed shop demands that an employee be a member in order to get a job, while the union shop demands that an employee become a member in not time to hold that job.

Right to Work laws now effective in 18 states stem directly from the 10th Amendment of the Bill of Rights. They have been upheld repeatedly as consistent with federal and state constitutions.

The basic right of an employee to join a union is adequately protected by law—as it should be.

But that same basic right in reverse—the right of an employee to refrain from joining a union—is not adequately protected as a principle MOST protected by law and is NOT protected at all upon both by union leaders and employers who many times force unionism on them against their will.

The battle of the Kentucky Labor Committee for Right to Work is in behalf of the worker's right to choose.
