CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The meaning for today of Christ Jesus' healing mission will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Christ Jesus" is the Golden Text from John (18:37): "To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth."

Selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (32:26-28):

"The mission of Jesus confirmed prophecy, and explained the so-called miracles of olden time as natural demonstrations of the divine power. Explanations which were not understood."

The following will be included in the Scriptural readings (Matthew 4:24): "And his fame went throughout all Syria: and they brought unto him all sick people that were taken with divers diseases and torments, and those which were possessed with devils, and those which were lunatick, and those that had the palsy; and he healed them."

Carlisle beaten

and both teams seemed to be a little on the rusty side as neither Carlisle or Nicholasville were hitting. But the Spiders cracked in 4 more than the Muskies as the quarter ended with Nicholasville 4 points ahead.

The second period at the beginning was very much like the first, both teams not hitting and playing ragged ball, but in the latter half of the third quarter the Spiders started hitting the loop to overcome the Muskies 3 points with 12 of their own ending the ball at 25-14.

In the third period Nicholasville really gave it the gun and started hawking that ball. Carlisle still was ragged and as a result the Muskies were behind 16 points at the end of the quarter.

The fourth and final quarter was evenly matched as both the Muskies and the Spiders were playing good ball but the Spiders cashed in for 15 points to the Muskies 20. The game ended with the Spiders on top 56-45.

Individual scoring honors for Carlisle was "Chuck" Vice with 12. He was followed by Nicholas with 10, Henry 4, Straw 7, Wilson 4, G. C. Vice 4, Kennitt 4, and Smart 2.

In Friday's game Carlisle was topped by Georgetown, 51-50 after a very hard fought game the Carlisle Musketeers were edged by the Georgetown Bulldogs in Georgetown. It was the second meeting of the two squads and the record stands at 2-0, Georgetown.

Even after a last quarter spurt by the Muskies the buzzer sounded with Georgetown leading by one point. It was a good game and a heartbreaker for the home fans.

Scoring honors went to Asbury McGuffey with 12 points. Other scorers were Straw 10, Henry 10, "Chuck" Vice 10, Hawkins 4, Kennitt 2, and Wilson 2.

Grand jury report released

The grand jury of the February Term of the Nicholas Circuit Court respectfully reports that it met in regular session on Feb. 3, 11, and 17.

During the meeting of the foregoing grand jury the following action was taken:

The following indictments were returned.

1. Commonwealth of Kentucky vs William Morris and Billie Craig—The Grand Jury returned an indictment against William Morris and Billie Craig for breaking and entering the dwelling house of David Sundys.

2. Commonwealth of Kentucky vs William Morris and Billie Craig, Jackie Pollard, Joe Spegels and Billy Watkins—We examined two witnesses and indicted William Morris, Billy Craig, Jackie Pollard, Joe Spegels and Billy Watkins for the breaking and entering into the store house of T. F. Curry.

3. Commonwealth of Kentucky vs David Thomas, Bernard Tyree, and Ora Mae Harding—The Grand Jury examined two witness and indicted David Thomas, Bernard Tyree and Ora Mae Harding for breaking and entering the dwelling house of W. C. Sparks, deceased.

4. Commonwealth of Kentucky vs James Howard—The Grand Jury examined two witnesses and indicted James Howard for the willful murder of Eugene Honaker.

5. Commonwealth of Kentucky vs Willie Boyd—The Grand Jury examined three witnesses and indicted Willie Boyd for the willful murder of John Tribble

6. Commonwealth of Kentucky vs James D. Thomas and Nobel Sargent—The Grand Jury examined two witnesses and indicted James D. Thomas and Nobel Sargent as follows (1) For shooting at and wounding of Fred Burnam with intent to kill. (2) for breaking and entering of Buntins Garage.

7. Commonwealth of Kentucky vs Cecil Patrick and Jackie Sweeney — The Grand Jury examined one witness and indicted Cecil Patrick and Jackie Sweeney for operating the automobile of Billie Norton without his consent.

8. Commonwealth of Kentucky vs Roy Fryman—The Grand Jury examined one witness and indicted Roy Fryman for abandonment and failure to support his infant children.

9. Commonwealth of Kentucky vs Thomas Simms—The Grand Jury examined one witness and indicted Thomas Simms for failure to comply with orders of the Court for maintenance of his infant child.

11. Commonwealth of Kentucky vs Garland Vance—The Grand Jury examined one witness and indicted Garland Vance for failure to comply with orders of the Court for maintenance of his infant child.

The Grand Jury hears several witnesses as a result of an inquiry involving some moving wire fence belonging to Badger Hovermale but they did not find sufficient evidence to return an indictment against any person in connection therewith.

A discussion was had by the Grand Jury concerning the recent outbreak of rabies and the Grand Jury voted that strict enforcement of the vaccination provisions of the dog law be provided. It was suggested that the health department make a study of their records to see how many dogs have been vaccinated and compare these records now held by the Sheriff's Office to see if all of those dogs which have been licensed have also been vaccinated. If it is determined that there are dogs which have been licensed and which are not vaccinated appropriate action should be taken by the local authorities to compell the vaccination of those dogs which are not vaccinated and to impose a penalty upon the owners of such dogs for failure to have his dog vaccinated.

The Grand Jury heard reports from the various officials connected with their activities since the first of the year in connection with violations of the law and from number of indictments returned by this Grand Jury it is evident that the local officials have been doing an extremely good job in apprehending those persons responsible for violations of the law and this Grand Jury goes on record as recommending and congratulating the local officers for their work of the past few weeks.

The Grand Jury heard a report on the condition of the county buildings and are satisfied that the Fiscal Court is doing an excellent job in the care and upkeep of the various county owned properties.

All of which the Grand Jury of the February Term, 1958 respectfully reports to the Court and having completed its duties on Feb. 17, 1958, respectfully requests that it be discharged

Home food

In both survey years, more families had more home-produced pork than beef. The proportion having pork produced from 1941 to 1951 went from 91 percent in 1941 to 80 percent in 1954.

Aside from beef, home production in 1954 was down followed a downward trend, although in general, farm families in the South are likely to get more of their food from the home farm and those in the West less, than in other regions

In 1941, farm families received 60 percent of their food on a money-value basis; in 1954 they were relying on home production for only 46 percent. Home-churned butter, for example, was used in 63 percent of the farm homes in 1941 but in only 39 percent in 1954. The change was smallest for the home-grown vegetables—94 percent of farm families having some in 1941 and 89 percent in 1954.

Although American farm families don't depend on home-produced food as they once did, 90 percent are growing some food from the home farm. Also some farm and country families who don't raise crops for sale, do raise food for home use. In 1954 nearly four out of five rural nonfarm families and one out of five urban families had home-produced food. Most of these families grew only fruit or vegetables but a number of rural families also kept chickens for meat and eggs, and some raised other meat animals or kept a cow.

Single copies of "Food Production for Home Use in the United States—by Region" may be had from the Office of Information, USDA, Washington 25, D. C.

Dieldrin best against Bluegrass plant bugs

Experiments in control of two types of bluegrass plant bugs—insects which adversely affect bluegrass seed production—show that Dieldrin will be the recommended material this year.

Kentucky Experiment Station entomologists said the recommended rate will be 3 ounces actual Dieldrin per acre, in sprays.

Dieldrin is cheaper than Aldrin, the previously most recommended material, because it is used at lower rates. Aldrin and Heptachlor, recommended materials, are used at 8 ounces actual per acre in sprays.

Using Dieldrin in the 1957 tests resulted in 99 percent control of the two different plant bugs The larger of these bugs is known as "mirs doloratus" and is sometimes harder to control than the smaller known as "amblytylus nasutus." However, the Dieldrin worked well against both and there are indications it also will control grasshoppers.

The specialists noted that several materials tested were effective against the smaller bug amblytylus nasutus but had less effective control (except for Dieldrin) against the larger mirs doloratus). Aldrin and Heptachlor were used at rates varying from 6 and 8 ounces actual per acre Their control of amblytylus was 99 percent or better

Sawdust proves best mulch

A mulch of sawdust proved the best material of three tried in mulch and moisture studies at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station this year.

Mulches protect soil moisture for one thing, but one of their important functions is to keep subsurface soil temperatures at a lower point in the summer, says C. B. Waltman, horticulturist.

When plots were mulched with sawdust, the average yield was 54 pints of fruit, he said. Ground cork also was a second mulch, on similar plots, resulted in 51 pints of berries; straw was the third material and these plots averaged 46 pints. On the cultivated (unmulched) plots, the average yield was 34 pints.

Waltman's test plots were 15 feet long and there were three rows of red raspberries on each plot. These were grown in a hedge-row system.

The researchers credited temperature control with the higher yield. For instance, when outside temperature was in the upper 90's, Waltman said, the temperature an inch and a half underground on the unmulched plot was approximately 120 degrees. But the mulched plots' subsurface temperatures ran 15 to 20 degrees F under the surface temperature on hot days. These lower temperatures permitted better root development, etc.

Waltman said he noticed the plants in the ground cornsob and the straw mulch plots
