Ike would wreck tobacco program

(The Lexington Herald)

The nation's tobacco growers, who so far have been immune to the disastrous economic situation, would be brought to last year's level of production by the Eisenhower administration, according to a report by the House of Representatives. The report says that the federal program for burley could be brought to a halt by the Eisenhower administration, which would mean a 35-cent-a-pound increase in burley prices. The report also says that the federal program for burley could be brought to a halt by the Eisenhower administration, which would mean a 35-cent-a-pound increase in burley prices.

Here is what the program, acting on recommendations of Secretary Benson, proposes to do to the tobacco program: To reduce the federal program for burley to 90 percent of parity and to put it on a fixed basis, ranging from 60 percent to 90 percent.

Give the Secretary of Agriculture authority to increase tobacco allotments, up to 50 percent above levels now provided by law. To increase the federal program for burley to 90 percent of parity and to put it on a fixed basis, ranging from 60 percent to 90 percent.

Below the only reason that Secretary Benson might give for higher burley prices is that they would make it easier to sell burley to foreign customers. However, the big obstacle to export sales of burley is not the price, but the quality, and the high quality burley growers could rather the high import duties charged by other countries.

Tobacco growers favor reduction; Ira Hunter gets patent on dater

Thursday, January 23, 1958

In support of cooperative tobacco marketing, the National Tobacco Growers' Association has filed a patent on a dater for tobacco leaves. The dater is a device which would automatically date tobacco leaves as they are processed.
