school this year will not include a section for swimming. Plans for operators as has been the custom in the past. A separate school for sewage plant operators will be held later in the fall.

This year's school has been developed with a singular purpose in mind, and that is to provide as much information concerning those re-occurring problems which have been a constant source of trouble to the operators. Such subjects as filter equipment, water main cleaning, maintenance of elevated storage tanks, etc., will be thoroughly discussed. An examination for water plant operators' certification will be given on Wednesday afternoon, July 9, following the completion of the school. This examination will be optional. A certificate of attendance will be issued to all those attending the school.

The local Health Department would like names of those persons interested in attending the school.

First court house in Carlisle built by Metcalfe in 1816

Construction of the first court house in Carlisle was started shortly after the site offered by John Kincart had been selected for the County seat, records of the proceedings of the County court reveal.

At a meeting of the court in August, 1816, the commissioners appointed by the court to let contracts for the construction of public buildings in the new County seat submitted plans for a court house, jail and stray pen, together with contracts with Thomas Metcalfe and Robert Hamilton for the construction of the buildings.

Detailed plans for the buildings were recorded in the minutes of the court. The plan for the court house specified that the structure should be built of brick, the foundation of stone, three feet thick and two feet beneath the surface of the ground. The brick walls were to be laid in lime and sand, the building to be 40 feet square "from out to out", the walls of the first story to be 22 inches thick and 14 feet high, the walls of the upper story to be 18 inches thick and 9 feet to the joists. The floors were to be laid of tongue and grooved oak or blue ash. Detailed specifications for the interior finishings were given.

The contract was made on the 24th day of August, 1816, between the commissioners and Thomas Metcalfe, who afterward became Governor of Kentucky. United States Senator and a distinguished soldier. Alexander Blair, Thomas West and Samuel Fulton were named as sureties on the bond given by Mr Metcalfe for the faithful performance of the work. The contract specified that the walls were to be completed by the 10th day of November 1816. The consideration to be paid Mr. Metcalfe for construction of the building was $120 to be paid in two months from the date of the contract and the further sum of $1,530 to be paid one year later.

On the same day, a contract was awarded to Robert Hamilton of Bourbon county, to construct a jail and stray pen according to specifications of the commission The jail and stray pen where to be constructed on a lot near Brushy Fork Creek near the site of the present Standard Oil Co plant and the Ratliff Bros Co yards. The plan called for a jail to be built exactly like the jail at Ellisville. The stray pen was to be built four panel square, to be made with locust posts and oak rails of post and rider design, and securely equipped with a padlock. The compensation to be paid Mr. Hamilton was $50 in hand and $450 to be paid on or before June 24, 1817. The work on both was to be completed on or before the third Monday in November 1816 Mr Hamilton executed a bond for $1,000 for the faithful performance of the contract with Thomas Metcalfe and James Hamilton as sureties.

At the November meeting of the court, the minutes reveal, Nathan Nesbett, John Lockridge and John Chaney were appointed commissioners to inspect the jail and stray pen, and the commissioners reported that the structures had been built according to specifications and recommended that they be accepted, which was done by the court —June 30, 1938 file of The Carlisle Mercury

Responsibility doesn't end with payment

Even though a Nicholas County farmer receives his Acreage Reserve Payment his responsibility under the Acreage Reserve agreement continues until the end of calendar 1958, H. S. Vice Chairman of the Nicholas County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee pointed out this week.

Under the agreement, no crop may be harvested from the Acreage Reserve in 1958. No crop may be planted on it except certain crops for harvest in 1958 or later as approved by the State ASC Committee. Also, the Acreage Reserve may not be grazed in 1958 except under certain emergency conditions upon written permission of the Secretary of Agriculture.

ASC starts measuring tobacco, corn and soil bank acreage

Twenty-two Acreage reporters have started visiting Nicholas County farms to determine compliance with acreage allotments and Soil Bank agreements and contracts, H. S. Vice, Chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announced today. Mr. Vice asked farmers to assist the reporter when he visits their farm.

"By accompanying the reporter during his visit, and showing him the crops on the farm, farm operator can help our reporters do a more thorough and satisfactory job of measuring," the Chairman said.

"After inspection and the necessary measurements are made, farmers will be asked to sign a certificate that they believe the measurements are accurate. Before signing, however, they are urged to review the report carefully, to be sure that it is accurate and includes all the acreages."

All farms with tobacco, corn or cotton allotments, Acreage Reserve agreements, and Conservation Reserve contracts will be visited and necessary measurements made. In addition, reporters will measure the tobacco acreage on any other farm where tobacco is being grown this year.

Where the farm is not in compliance with the allotment or the Soil Bank agreement, the ASC office will send to the farm operator a notice informing him about the acreage which must be disposed of. August 1 is the final date for disposing of excess corn, while excess tobacco must be disposed of before harvest and in the presence of a representative of the County ASC Committee.

ACP reopened for sign-up

Cost-sharing for conservation practices for use of liming material, rock phosphate and pasture renovation is available now H. S. Vice, Chairman of the local ASC Committee announced today. Particular emphasis is given at this of the year to those practices which may be performed during the summer and early fall. Cost-sharing to farmers has been made available. Farmers desiring to apply for cost-sharing should take a soil sample of the field to be treated or needed to the county agent's office. Hundreds of acres of grass sod in the county should be renovated and additional seed used. Legumes may be seeded in August and September for counties in the central part of the State, with fairly good results on grass sod fields which have been worked with a disk. Cost-sharing for use of fertilizers will be given according to needs as shown by soil tests.

Mr. Vice, pointed out that the best conservation practice is that of obtaining a good vigorous growth of a grass-legume cover. Lime is an important element in promoting growth of vegetative cover.

By using soil test farmers will be enabled to use lime in fields where needed. Plant foods become more available when acidity conditions of the soil are proper. Lime may be used following a small grain harvest on sod field, or to land which will be worked and seeded this fall or in the spring of 1959.

Mr. Vice, emphasized that requests for cost-sharing should be made at the county AC office before beginning the work in order to be eligible for ACP cost-sharing.
