KENTUCKIANS IN WASHINGTON

By Cal Kingsbury

KENTUCKY WOMEN:

Kentucky women have been getting a good share of attention here in the national Capital.

Mrs. Lee Walsh, woman's editor for the Washington Star, is the new President of the Women's National Press Club. At her inauguration party the other day, the former Kentuckian had as special guests Mrs. Fred Vinson, Senator John Sherman Cooper, and Justice Stanley Reed. She is a native of Carroll County.

As a part of the ceremony, the club held a Kentucky Story Telling Hour. And the clubroom was named—for the day, at least—Blue Grass Country.

NATIONAL PRESIDENT:

Miss Chloe Gifford of the Union of Kentucky is another Kentuckian getting attention. She is the new President of the General Federation of Womens' Club with headquarters here.

She was asked why she—charming as she is—has remained an "old maid."

To which she replied "I never realized that my last chance WAS my last chance"

TALK OF TAXES:

Taxes, in small bites, sure do mount up. The other day lawmakers were discussing excise taxes and one congressman proposed a cut in the tax on telephones.

He cited how much people pay, and we were surprised to learn that Kentuckians in 1957 alone paid almost five million dollars to Uncle Sam in federal tax on telephones, Ohio paid 25 million, Indiana 9 million, and West Virginia 4 million.

PLAUS AS GIFTS:

Kentucky congressmen — as well as those from other states —like to present American flags to the folks back home. Flags which have flown over the Capitol.

Comes word now that last year more than 3100 banners went to various organizations. A saga boy has the job of raising the flag, allowing it to flap in the Washington breeze a few times and then lowering it again.

One thing to remember: If you want such a flag, your congressman can get it for you. But it is not free! If you don't pay for it, your representative does. And they cost $6.50 each. All of which runs into real money if too many requests are received.

Wesley has demanding Methodist Church role

Raymond Wesley of Carlisle, superintendent of Nicholas County schools, has a time-demanding church role, too—one that will require driving 500 extra miles and participating in numerous meetings this year

And that's only part of the 46-year-old educator's duties as a Methodist district lay leader working under his denomination's new accelerated program for laymen.

As chairman of the Board of Lay Activities of the Methodist Kentucky Conference's Maysville District, Mr. Wesley directs the work in 11 counties. With his counterparts in the other six districts of the conference, he serves on the Conference Board of Lay Activities. He also is a member of the Conference Boards of Education and Social and Economic Relations.

He and his associate lay leaders confer at least quarterly with their district superintendent for promotion of the lay program.

His lay work takes him into the following counties: Bracken, Robertson, part of Bourbon, Nicholas, Bath, Fleming, Mason, Rowan, Lewis, Greenup and Elliott.

There's home work, too. The district lay leader is required by the Methodist Discipline to make written reports to the district board and district conference. He also must submit a detailed report to the conference lay leader at the close of the conference year.

Since his election by the Kentucky Annual Conference in 1956, Mr. Wesley has had the satisfaction of seeing several of his goals accomplished. Two of these have been training of lay leaders in every church and supplying lay speakers for the Mt. Carmel Charge to make possible Sunday services at each of its three churches.

A native of Pulaski county, Mr. Wesley transferred to the Somerset Methodist Church in 1941. He moved his membership to the Carlisle Methodist Church in 1946.

Chairman of the official board of the Carlisle church for six years, he was serving in that capacity when the new education plant was built. He has served as church lay leader at both Somerset and Carlisle; was president of the Maysville District Methodist Men in 1955-56, and was associate district lay leader in 1954-55.

As a school superintendent Mr. Wesley is affiliated with the Kentucky Education Association and district and local education groups. He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa.

A former Boy Scout committee member for Nicholas County, he trained Cub Scout leaders.

During 16 years as an educator in the Pulaski county schools, he taught in the elementary and high schools, served as high school principal, and was superintendent of schools from 1942-46.

Mr. Wesley is married to the former Miss Faye Wild, and they have two sons, Raymond J. Jr., 16, and Ralph Edwards Wesley, 12.

His family shares his interest in church work. Mrs. Wesley is leader of the Junior Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Carlisle Methodist Church and a district director of youth work. The sons are active in the M.Y.F.

For a hobby, the school superintendent and lay leader refinishes furniture and antiques and repairs anything electrical—or mechanical, for that matter. "I like to see and know why things tick," he commented.

His favorite project is building rock walls around his home which is located on a hillside—a project he says he'll never be end.

Mr. Wesley's philosophy of life is to make the most of one's potentialities, whatever the resources.

"Most people have some powerful potentials even though their resources are limited," he said.

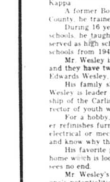
He makes a study of people—what they look like, where they live, what they say and do—trying never to ignore them but helping them with their problems and getting help for his own.

What concerns him most is the situation to which there seems to be no solution, such as cancer, poverty and lack of foresight to use available help.

The school and church leader is fearful that the masses work of the church has been neglected to the point that the whole world is endangered.

"The basic principles of Christianity are the solution for world peace" he said. "We are not ready for defense which only hopes to secure safety, but Christian principles would insure both peace and safety."

Miss Nicholls resigns from school staff



Miss Kathryn Nicholls who has been a member of the teaching staff at the Elmsville elementary school for the past eight years has resigned effective at once. Before going to Flat Rock, Mich., where she has accepted a teaching position in the schools there, she will receive her A.B. degree from Georgetown College in August.

Miss Nicholls is a native of Manchester, Ohio, and came to Carlisle after graduation from the high school there, and she will be greatly missed in our town and community as she has made many close friends, and served in religious and civic activities during her stay who wish her much happiness and success in the new field of duty

To observe conservation week

Soil Conservation Week, July 20-27, 1958 has been proclaimed by the Governor of Kentucky and by Nicholas County Judge Floyd Clark.

In the Governor's proclamation, he points out that the conservation of our soil and water resources is basic to public health, safety and welfare of all Kentuckians Furthermore, he states that the Commonwealth's rich top soil, most prized of all endeavors is being washed away faster than current conservation practices can save it. He advises that the wasteful action can be halted by establishing complete soil and water conservation programs recommended by soil conservation districts, with assistance from State and Federal Conservation agencies.

Judge Clark requests all persons and organizations concerned with the land to unite with the local soil conservation district supervisors in an effort during the period to stimulate among the county's population a full realization of the desperate need for conserving our soil and water resources.

Mr and Mrs W B. Parker and little son, left this week for Fitzgerald, Ga., where he will be a buyer on the tobacco markets. They will later go to the North Carolina market.

THESE JUNIOR CONSERVATION MEMBERS were ready to leave Monday morning for Camp Earl Wallace at Lake Cumberland for a five-day fun filled vacation. The boys were accompanied by Harry Duncan, local conservation officer. Thirty-eight boys in all went on the trip—Mercury photo

Bargains for sale

Many are the bargains aimed at Mrs. Housewife this week in the columns of The Mercury. From the grocery standpoint, Mrs. Housewife's attention is especially directed to the food ads. Although food is life's mainstay, Mr. or Mrs. Customer can find bargains that run the gamut from orchids to clothing to refrigerators, plus washing machines, automobiles or what have you — thrifty shoppers read The Mercury every week and only do prosperous merchants use The Mercury's advertising columns to drive their sales messages home? Because: They want to take advantage of an A.B.C.-audited circulation.

Variety store closing-out

John W Campbell, manager of the Carlisle Variety and Jr. Dept. store for the past two years announced Wednesday that the store would be sold out.

The chain began operation here in January 1954.

Mr Campbell stated that the variety chain had acquired two new stores. One in Morganfield and one at Wickliffe and that he and his family would be moving to Wickliffe in the near future to open that store.

COUNTY ATTORNEY MOVES OFFICE

County Attorney Charles M. Cox has now moved his office to the second floor of the court house. Mr Cox extends a welcome to the public to visit him in the newly appointed office space which he now occupys in the court house.

The fiscal court has recently made considerable improvements in the office in its continuing efforts to improve the public property of the County.

Local-option petition filed here Tuesday

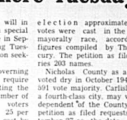
Residents of Carlisle will in all probability vote in a special local-option election on Jan in September due to the filing Tuesday afternoon of a petition seeking such an election.

Kentucky statutes governing local-option elections require that petitions requesting the special voting bear a number of names of registered voters equivalent to at least 25 per cent of the total vote cast by the geographic unit at the last previous general election.

In last November's general election approximately 517 votes were cast in the city's mayoralty race, according to figures compiled by The Mercury. The petition as filed carries 203 names.

Nicholas County as a whole voted dry in October 1942 by a 301 vote majority. Carlisle, now a fourth-class city, may vote independent 'of the County. The petition as filed requests September 27 as the date for the special election, but the Nicholas County Court must set the date.

Committee selected for Aug. 8 hospital benefit



General Chairman

Do you have a wet field?

Do you have a wet bottom? Is your tobacco lagging because of excess water on fertile but poorly drained land? Too much water may be more destructive than too little.

Excessively wet season has demonstrated to a number of farmers that they acted wisely when they tiled their poorly drained bottom land. Field tile will not solve all drainage problems, but it will solve many.

The effectiveness of tile may be observed by driving along the roads and observing the tobacco on the farms of James Gaunce, Russell Ritchie, Paul Day, Elgin George, D. L. Baker, Robert Wilson and perhaps others. These systems were designed by Soil Conservation Personnel in this county.

James Gaunce has a typical example of tobacco being grown on tile land. tiled last year, and untiled land that he planned to tile this year, but could not get it done. He plans to tile it this fall. It is well worth a trip up the Bartersville road to observe the effects of tile on his farm.

Russell Ritchie reports that he is growing tobacco on tile land, installed last fall, where tobacco usually is a failure, even in dry years.

Paul Day has good tobacco on a tiled bottom that frequently was unproductive, prior to tiling.

Elgin George has improved his tobacco land by interseeding wet weather springs.

D. L. Baker and Robert Wilson on the East Union road had wet land that was tiled within the last two years and indications are that tile has "saved" their crops.

Tiling is eligible for crop sharing under the Agricultural Conservation program. For further information, farmers may contact the Soil Conservation Service, A. C. P. Office, or the Extension Office.
