Text Freedom Day

This year, Text Freedom Day falls on May 13. It bears that name because it was the first day of the year on which you could call the money you saved your own.

Here's the story: Statutes say the personal income of everyone in this country will come to $300 billion in 1938. The Federal and State tax will add up to $125 billion—36 per cent. So on the average, each of our 120 million people will have to pay the government before there is anything left for ourselves.

Water safety is needed

Over a period of two days four persons were drowned in Fayette County in other sections of Kentucky the day before. The same loss of three persons would have been reduced to the age of five years had the water been safe. The drowning again point up the vital need for regulations and laws covering the boating problem.

Like Topsy, boating grew up almost overnight. There are laws and rules and regulations which have been superfluous, the same as a 40-mile an hour speed limit would have been ridiculous in the age of the horse. The same is true of laws governing the water of Kentucky have become a moot.

Boating organizations and our lawmakers are interested in these laws. They have been made and laws offered for this purpose. But it will take time for such laws to be enacted and implemented. And so, until such a time as they are enacted, the boater, himself, must make his own law, the best of which is common sense on the water.

Perhaps after the laws are enacted, bottling regulations will occur. We will have the same laws as in other states. The regulations were made for the other states. It is deplorable that so many persons drown in Kentucky each year. There is real danger in Kentucky. It often has been said that

THOUGHTS FOR FATHER'S DAY

INTEGRITY STARTS IN THE HOME

There is no such thing as an accident occurring that an individual makes them occur. So, for a happy day on the water, at family home, we must respect the rights of others. Until laws are passed this warning will have to do.—Continued
