A useful Halloween custom

The minister and his wife surveyed a battered mass of candy, cookies and apples —the loot their own children had collected at Halloween. What a shame, they thought, that this Halloween custom could not be turned into something useful. "Trick or Treat for the World's Children" is the result of that thinking. The United Nations Children's Fund is supported by this activity.

A penny collected by a child in his evening of fun can mean the vaccine to protect another child against tuberculosis. A nickle can provide 25 glasses of milk or ten bowles of rice. For a child in Thailand or Ghana, a nickle can provide the penicillin for an injection to help cure yaws, a maiming tropical disease. Last year the children of America collected over a million dollars for the children of the world—UNICEF's children—by collecting pennies, nickles, and dimes.

Why can't our children have a part in this wonderful work? For one dollar, a packet is available which contains planning suggestions plus material for twenty-five children for the Trick or Treat. all the World's Children Halloween. Additional supplies of all items in bulk quantities may be bought at a nominal cost. Write to U. S. Committee for UNICEF, P. O. Box 1618 Church Street Station, New York 8, N. Y.— Contributed

The right to speak and the right to know

A ruling of the Internal Revenue Service, holding that institutional advertising placed by electric utilities in opposition to socialized power is not a legitimate business expense, and so is not tax deductible, has brought on a huge amount of editorial comment. Virtually all of it has denounced the ruling, as a blow at the fundamental right of free speech.

However, some people have attempted to present arguments in support of IRS. For instance, Editor & Publisher points out, this question has been asked "Why should the private power companies be permitted to argue against public power projects when the government-owned power operations do no advertising of their own?"

Editor & Publisher has a compelling answer to that. Public power has a forum that is denied to private citizens and private business. That forum is Congress, where public power members constantly praise their pet projects to the skies. This is usually news copy, and finds its way into newspapers and radio broadcasts throughout the country.

Editor & Published adds: "Why shouldn't private industry or private citizens use advertising to tell their story to the public at business expense even when it involves their approval or disapproval of some government action or a legislative matter which affects them?

"Is it evil when the advertiser puts himself on record in the public prints and signs his name to it? We don't think so. It is a straightforward and honest assertion of an opinion for others to accept or reject . . .

The right of people to speak their minds without penalty or hindrance, and the right of other people to know, is at stake in this. A country which accepts censorship by taxation can no longer consider itself free.

The Bible—the world of life

The 18th annual National Bible Week will be observed during the week of October 20-26. Once again it is sponsored by an all-faiths group, the Laymen's National Committee, Inc. This year's theme is "The Bible —The Word Of Life". It is taken from the 2nd Chapter, 16th Verse of the Philippians.

National Bible Week is dedicated by men and women of all faiths as a tribute to the world's greatest Book. By a daily reading and study of the Bible we may hope to ensure a greater and greater spiritual force—a force that is desperately needed in today's troubled world. Those who know and follow the precepts of the Bible will always fight the effort to substitute the pagan state as arbiter of what is right and wrong in our lives.

If there were no oil

Suppose—just suppose—that tomorrow not a single drop of oil or any oil product was available.

All transportation would stop—every automobile, every train, every plane, every truck. In oil-fueled electric plants throughout the country the dynamos would fall silent. Work on the farms, dependent as it is on oil-burning machines, would slow to a crawl. Homes would grow cold, and factories would close their doors.

Without oil total paralysis would descend upon the nation.

This little flight of fancy may serve to help emphasize the significance of Oil Progress Week, which is to be observed during October 12-18 period. It is an annual observance, in which the oil industry reports to nation. It's purpose is to tell oil's own particular story—and also the story of the competitive, free enterprise system that makes possible the existence of the industry.

The Week's slogan reads: "Today—oil builds for your tomorrow". It will be a tomorrow in which more and better oil products will make this country a finer place to live.

ideas from other editors

From The Lincoln Times, Lincoln, N.C.: 1. Keep skid chains on your tongue; always say less than you think. Cultivate a low personal voice. How you say it often counts more than what you say.

2. Make promises sparingly and keep them faithfully, no matter what it costs you.

3. Never let an opportunity pass to say a kind or encouraging thing to or about somebody. Praise good work done, regardless of who did it.

4. Be interested in others, interested in their pursuits, their welfare, their home and families. Make merry with those who rejoice; with those that weep, mourn. Let every one you meet, however humble, feel that you regard him as one of importance.

5. Remember an ounce of well debatable questions. Discuss, but don't argue. It is a mark of superior minds to disagree and yet be friendly.

6. Let your virtues, if you have any, speak for themselves, and refrain from the use of another's vices. Discourage gossip.

7. Be careful of another's feelings. (Wit and humor at the other fellow's expense is rarely worth the effort and may hurt where least expected.

8. Pay no attention to ill-natured remarks about you. Simply live so that nobody will believe them. Disordered nerves and a bad digestion are common because of back-biting.

From the Chickasha Star, Chickasha, Oklahoma: Various problems concerning agriculture are widely and continuously discussed. But there's one major problem that we don't hear enough about—and its name is fire.

The Department of Agriculture tells us that fire losses on the nation's farms have shown an almost steady increase over the past 10 years. In that span of time, the loss has gone up about two and a half times—from $64 million in 1940 to $153 million last year.

Fire is a menace anywhere. It is particularly so on farms. For protective facilities are often of limited value, at best, and in many instances are non-existent or virtually so. When fire strikes, especially in the hot dry season, the chances of a total loss is high.

Inflation has brought with it another and related problem. The house or barn or other structure a farmer built 20 years ago will cost twice as much today if it has to be replaced, and perhaps more. That goes for equipment and possessions of practically every kind, large and small. The consequence is that farmers—like most of the rest of us—are under-insured.

INJUN ON WARPATH

A Little Yappin'

by Nellie Cogar

A Heap o' Eatin',

I was so happy to be in the receiving line Sunday when a friend of a friend of mine arrived on this street with the finest lot of pawpaws I ever saw. Maybe you have seen larger, but I haven't, so just now took measurements of one of the lot picked at random. It is six inches in length and six and one-half inches in circumference and weighs half a pound. Four other "paws" (the one eaten not counted of course) tip the scales at two pounds. Sure is a lot of good eatin' when one likes them—and I do! What section did they come from? Don't ask me —I was too excited in inquire, but have noticed an awful lot of good things have come from "down on the river" this year. With a good frost or two persimmons and wild grapes will be on Nicholas County's menu.

Better than Ever.

The fair was mighty fine, I understand. I did not get to attend at all. It's safe to say it was good for it always is and much credit is due those who work so faithfully for its success.

From Eighteen to Eighty.

A whole lot of eighteen-year-olds were eligible to vote in Saturday's election, but the oldest voter that I know of was my neighbor at long-standing, Mrs. Viola Watkins, who had her say at the ripe old age of eighty-six. Being born in 1872 she observed her birthday last July 29. I had a nice little visit with her Sunday afternoon. Her alert mind clear as a June morning. She can recall many interesting events and how they happened "away back when."

Check and Check Again

With a month of school gone today, the tobacco crop housed and the fair and election over, we can all now relax a bit perhaps before getting everything that is loose under cover by Hallowe'en. I need steam, how about you?

KENTUCKIANS IN WASHINGTON

By Gil Eisenberry

FOOLISH SEASON:

When Congress leaves, correspondents get hard-pressed for news.

The other day, one reporter knocked out a story on the "most handsome member of Congress." Young Senator Jack Kennedy of Massachusetts captured the honor with Senator Smathers of Florida second.

The most handsome pair of senators was conceded to be Kentucky's Thruston Morton and John Sherman Cooper.

BUSIEST OFFICE:

While most of the offices on the Hill are on short hours, the staff of former Senator Earle C. Clements is working overtime. Clements is chairman of the Senatorial Democratic Campaign Committee. It's the job of that group to get Democrats elected to the Upper House.

So, with the November elections just about six weeks away, the Clements committee is working from dawn to dusk getting campaign material into Democratic hands from coast to-coast.

REMEMBER GLUCK?

A little over a year ago lawmakers got all worked up over the appointment of Maxwell Gluck, ambassador to Ceylon.

He's the New Yorker who claimed Kentucky as his home because he owns a Blue Grass horse farm. Gluck, you'll recall, came under senatorial fire because he couldn't remember the name of the prime minister of Ceylon.

Well, Gluck has resigned and he, apparently, acquitted himself well because newspaper editorials have been high in praise of his conduct.

ADAMS RESIGNATION:

When Sherman Adams quit the other day, correspondents got to talking about other men who had been "right hand" aides of other presidents.

Kentucky's late and great Fred Vinson got the nod as being the most quiet and most effective for both Franklin Roosevelt and Harry Truman. Others, such as Harry Hopkins, General Harry Vaughn and Matt Connelly, were in hot water much of the time.

So, another bow to a favorite son of Kentucky. Justice Vinson.

Changes made in social security law

Some important changes have recently been made in the disability insurance provisions of the social security law, according to R. A. Tweedy, District Manager of the Lexington social security office. For instance, a worker age 50-64 is receiving monthly disability benefit payments because he is too disabled for further substantial gainful work, payments can be made to his qualified dependents just like the payments made to old-age insurance beneficiaries. Moreover, a person entitled to social security disability benefits no longer has the amount of his benefit payment reduced or withheld because he is receiving disability payments from some other Federal or State source.

The amended law makes it easier for people whose disabilities develop gradually to qualify for either cash disability benefits or the disability "freeze". This is brought about through a change in the work requirements. It is no longer necessary that the worker have at least 1½ years of social security credit out of the three years before he became disabled. The standards for determining disability remain the same. A person must still be unable to perform substantial gainful work. The new requirement is that the worker be fully insured and have 20 quarters of coverage out of the 40 calendar quarters before he became disabled.

Any individual who may qualify under the changes just mentioned should get in touch with one of our traveling representatives who visits this county at least once each month or call at the district office which is now located at 900 Winchester Road in Lexington," Tweedy said.

TODAY'S meditation

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 2

Read Psalm 119:137-144

If any man will do his will, he shall know the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself. (John 7:17.)

Late one night I walked alone on a narrow path through a gloomy forest and swampy land. In my hand I held a flashlight which lighted my way a few steps at a time. Without that light I might have run against trees or stepped in water. I might even have lost the way.

We all are wanderers along the path of life. Those who spend their lives without paying any attention to the Bible may be compared with a wanderer in the dark and having no light. Whosoever chooses God's Word for his guide goes his way in the light, for God is light. The Bible teaches us to walk in the light.

God's Word guides us to knowledge of truth and righteousness. By reading the Bible frequently the Word opens to us it gives light and understanding to the simple-hearted. To those who have childlike faith

PRAYER: Dear Father, we thank Thee for Thy holy Word. Help us to find in it inspiration, strength, and light for the living of this day. Give us the taste for Thy Word, so that we may be able to acquire strength and light from it. Use us to spread the light of Thy Word to others; through Christ, Thy dear Son. Amen.
