SUBSCRIPTION RATES PER YEAR

$2.50 per year; $1.50 for six months

Does your son drive?

If he doesn't now, it will only be a few short years before he will. When he's eleven or twelve his interest in the family car will quicken; he'll sit behind the wheel in your parked car and "make believe", he'll watch you as you go through the routine of starting and stopping, and you'll smile when he says, "I could drive if I had to. It's easy. All you do is turn the key, and . . ."

But pretending isn't enough when he's sixteen. He'll have a new vocabulary of speed and know about "pipes" and "dig out" and "dragging". You'll shiver at the words, but you're convinced that it's vital to his social development for him to drive. So you'll lecture and hope—and pray—and let him learn. Yes, he'll drive.

Yet you wonder about your boy at the wheel. You know that youth is the time of adventure. That young men have always been inclined to accept the challenge, flaunt the rule, take a chance.

Can they be really safe drivers? Yes, they can. But teaching them to be safe poses one of the greatest single problems parents can face, even with the help of high school driver education. Unfortunately, not enough parents succeed.

Does your son drive or is he about to start? Perhaps there are questions in your mind about young men at the wheel. The insurance industry and state traffic officials have studied this problem for years.

1. HOW DO YOUNG MEN UNDER 25 RATE AS DRIVERS?

As a group, they are the worst. From coast to coast, state vehicle records show that they comprise about 15% of the total drivers and are involved in about 20% off all accidents.

2. WHY ARE AUTO INSURANCE RATES HIGHER FOR YOUNG MEN UNDER 25?

They cost the companies more money. State-inspected insurance records are painfully clear in this respect. Comparatively, cars owned or principally operated by a young male, for example, will cause twice as many liability claims and each claim will average 3½ times as much—as a family car with no young male driver.

3 WHY DON'T YOUNG WOMEN UNDER 25 PAY THE SAME RATES AS YOUNG MEN?

They don't cost their insurance companies as much money. Traffic officials explain that young women don't seem to feel the need to "impress" others by daring driving.

4. ISN'T IT JUST A FEW "BAD ACTORS" WHO CAUSE ALL THE ACCIDENTS AND PENALIZE THE BIG MAJORITY OF YOUNG MEN WHO DRIVE?

No. Safety experts say that assumption is part of the problem. Many of us refuse to believe some of our own could be reckless. While there are many very good young male drivers, most of the accidents in this group are "first" accidents. Repeaters may attract public attention, but they are not the major expense factor.

5. WHY DON'T INSURANCE COMPANIES SPREAD THE COST OF THESE ACCIDENTS AMONG ALL POLICY HOLDERS?

Most Americans think it's only fair for each group to pay its own way. In assessing rates according to how the car is used, where it is driven and who drives it, the insurance companies complied with public demand.

6. WHAT CAN WE DO TO HELP OUR SONS IN DRIVING?

Encourage driver education classes. Set a good example. Support strict law enforcement. Make your son understand that a mature attitude in driving is the most important part of safety. Responsibility on the highway "separates the men from the boys."

KENTUCKIANS IN WASHINGTON

By Cal Kingsbury

A WARNING:

An official of the Federal Bureau of Roads had a warning the other day for those rural counties along the big inter-state highways. Much of what he says applies to Kentucky counties.

He warned that more people will be moving into the rural areas. With people will come factories and office buildings. That means problems and, if county officials aren't careful, it could mean slum areas where green fields and winding streams now dot the landscape.

He offers this suggestion: Rural counties should get ready for zoning to solve the problems before they exist.

AIRPORTS, TOO

Federal airport officials had a warning to rural counties, Kentucky, again, included.

With the rush of citizens to rural areas along the superhighways, there will be a need for small airports, including fields to handle helicopters.

Officials in rural counties, he said, should plan for such facilities. And the state must get ready, too.

WE VISIT:

With Congress adjourned and congressional aides on vacation, we took the opportunity to visit Arlington National Cemetery and the grave of the only Northern Kentuckian who was candidate for the presidency.

Green Clay Smith of Covington was a Civil War general, a member of Congress, and a pioneer Governor of the Montana Territory. In the early 1870's he got the nomination of the Prohibition Party. Needless to say, he was defeated.

WELL EDUCATED:

Kentucky congressmen are well educated—so it appears. Fifteen colleges can claim the allegiance of the Blue Grass lawmakers.

Senator Cooper's alma maters include Yale, Harvard, University of Kentucky, Centre, Georgetown. Congressman Natcher lists Western Kentucky and Ohio State. Congressman Robinson claims George Washington University, George Peabody College for Teachers, Centre College and the Jefferson School of Law. And Mr. Siler rejoices at the successes of Cumberland and the University of Kentucky.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 18
Read Revelation 14:1-7

God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth. (John 4:24.)

Only human beings practice worship, for the longing of the spirit toward the Supreme Being is characteristic of them only. Worship is the breath of man's soul and his most valuable prerogative.

This worship is practiced both by the individual in solitude and by the group in a communal service. Whatever the methods of worship may be, God alone must be the center of worship, for He alone is worthy of our praise and adoration.

God abides forever. Whatever else we adore, be it beauty or ambition, possessions of friends, these, like the heavenly bodies, set and disappear. God remains, the son of God, remains, for He is the same yesterday, today, and forever. In Him we find redemption from our sins. In Him the Holy Spirit's abiding presence we have a faithful guide.

PRAYER: Almighty God, cleanse the thoughts of our hearts. May we continually worship Thee and perfectly love Thee through Jesus Christ our Lord, who taught us to pray, "Our Father which art in heaven . . . Amen."

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Let us worship God in spirit and in truth. I. Matar (Lebanon)

There's no "fighting the wheel"
...new-type concrete gives you the smoothest ride ever!

No bouncing and bumping! No dips and waves! Only concrete can be laid so flat . . . placed and leveled to such highly accurate engineering standards—not just pounded into shape.

Expect that smooth ride to last 50 years or more—for two big reasons. The first is the concrete itself, supported by a specially designed subbase that gives it greater strength. Special air "entrainment," a new process, that prevents surface roughening by freezing and de-icers.

Sound reasons why concrete is the preferred pavement for the Interstate System and other vital roads.

Concrete increases in strength year by year

Concrete actually improves with age—gets up to 20% stronger in five years. Here's a durability "bonus" only concrete gives. Crushing tests once tests under laboratory conditions prove its 31's weather resistance why concrete lasts longer, costs less to maintain.
