Undulant fever

in severity and can be fatal. It occurs in meat packers and handlers as well as consumers. An infection is characterized usually by continued, intermittent or irregular fever of variable duration, headache, weakness, profuse sweating, chills or chilliness, and generel aching.

Control measures include the thorough understanding of farmers and workers in slaughterhouses, packing plants and butcher shops as to the nature of the disease and the danger of handling carcasses or products of infected animals. 2) Search for infection among livestock by test and elimination of infected animals from herds and slaughter. 3) Pasteurization of milk and dairy products from cows, or goats is very important. This measure is important not only for control of brucellosis but other milk borne diseases. Boiling is practicable when pasteurization is not possible. This can be accomplished with little change in flavor of the milk by heating rapidly in a water bath to 161 degrees F, stirring continuously, then cooling as rapidly as possible. 4) Meat inspection and condemning of carcasses of infected swine; not a useful procedure for cattle.

Brucellosis can only be controlled by the cooperation of everyone. The disease is not only a health problem but a great economic loss to all producers with infected herds.

The Health Department urges all farmers to have their herds tested and all infected animals removed.

is regulated to favor growth of the best forage grasses.
A farm pond, lower right, provides water for domestic and livestock use; for fire protection, for wildlife, and for recreation such as fishing, swimming and boating.
Contour stripcropping and rotation systems, left and right center, include grasses and cultivated crops in alternating bands. The grassed strips catch and hold soil that may move out of cultivated strips during rainstorms, and they increase moisture inask.
Trees and shrubs control erosion, provide a home for wildlife, and protect the farmstead from the hot winds of summer and the cold winds of winter.
Conservation farming, as depicted in the stamp, gives assurance of a plentiful supply of food and other products of the land for the seven-eighths of our people who live in town, symbolized in upper right.

Couple Weds Saturday At Christian Church
Miss Linda Lou Stephenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Stephenson of Lexington became the bride of Donald Howard Hovermale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hovermale of Nicholas County at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Arlington Christian Church, Lexington. Officiating minister was the Rev. Randolph White.
Miss Jane Montgomery was the bride's only attendant.
Cecil Shroud, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man.
The couple will live in Lexington.
The bride is a graduate of Lafayette high school and is employed by Howard K. Bell engineers.
The bridegroom, a graduate of Nicholas County high school, is an employee of the State Highway Department.

Harmon-Whitaker
The Mt. Pleasant Methodist Church in Russell Springs, Kentucky, was the scene of the wedding of Miss Oredia Harmon and Luther Whitaker, at 4:00 o'clock Sunday, August 9. The Rev. Lynn Harmon, brother of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony.
The bride wore a white satin ballerina length gown with scalloped neckline, high empire waistline and tapered sleeves covered with chantilly lace. The short veil was attached to aitara of seed pearls. She carried an orchid on a white prayer book.
Miss Vannia Boston, Spring field, was maid of honor. Brides maids were: Mrs. Fern Luttrell, Harrodsburg and Mrs. Emma Tucker, Danville. They wore mint green dresses with scalloped neckline and full skirts matching scolloped circular veils and carried bouquets of pale yellow carnations.
Bob Whitaker, Oak Ridge, Tenn., was his brother's best man. Ushers were: Larry Luttrell and Randall Barnett, both of Harrodsburg.
A reception was held after the ceremony at the bride's home.
The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Harmon of Russell Springs, Ky. Mr. Whitaker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Whitaker of Oak Ridge, Tenn.
The couple will make their home in Carlisle, where the bridegroom is employed with the Agricultural extension service.

Miss Gilvin Is Married To Jack W. Randolph
Miss Carolyn Ann Gilvin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Gilvin of Sharpsburg, became the bride of Jack Woodrow Randolph, son of Mrs. Gertrude Story of Lexington and the late Woodrow Randolph, at a double ring ceremony solemnized August 1. The vows were said in Sharpsburg at the home of the officiating minister, the Rev. O. E. Jarvis, pastor of the Grace Gospel Tabernacle.
The bride wore a dress of white lace over taffeta made with fitted bodice, and carried a white orchid on a white Bible. She was attended by Miss Armintia Fannin of Lexington, who wore a sky blue lace dress and a corsage of white and pale pink carnations.
Charles Ring of Moorefield served as best man.
Since their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph are making their home on Elm street in Carlisle.
The bride was graduated from Sharpsburg high school and is a student at the Lexington School of Beauty.
Mr. Randolph is a graduate of Nicholas County high school and has served three years with the Army. He returned to the United States in February, having spent two and one-half years in Japan. He operates a grocery in Moorefield.

COMMENT

Kay T. Fisher

Need rain? Just rail your Senator and federal officials together to discuss an emergency program for your drought area. Senator Karl Mundt of South Dakota had met with federal officials on five occasions to discuss emergency livestock feeding in drought areas. Strangely enough each time they met it rained particularly hard according to the Senator. It was a little embarrassing.
