East Union home destroyed by fire windstorm unroofs business houses

Thursday, November 30, 1939

The home of Gilbert Terrell in the East Union section was completely destroyed by fire of unknown origin Monday night of last week. All of the furniture in the home was burned, members of the family being able to escape in their night clothing. Only a small amount of insurance was carried.

Frank Gudgell, who resides near Sharpsburg, is confined to his home from injury received when he was kicked on the leg by a mule.

Meat hogs are selling on the local market for 5 to 6 cents per pound.

L. M. Gaffin, farmer of the Headquarters section, suffers painful injuries late last Wednesday when the car he was driving overturned near Colville in Harrison county.

Rufus L. "Rusty" Yates, formerly of Carlisle, reported to Lexington police Friday night that he had been abducted by two negro men and robbed of $13.

BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. Illbrs (Hutch) Gaunce of Locust Grove road, on Nov. 28, a son.

—To Mr. and Mrs. Claud Clayton, of Morehead, on Nov. 27, a son, Claud Purcell Clayton.

MARRIED — Miss Mandy Conn of Wyatt, Ky., and Al Thielmann of Columbus, Ohio, on Nov. 22nd—Miss Lollie Wells and Stanley Caswell at Cynthiana Saturday afternoon. —Miss Pruda V. Barndollar of Bluestone, Ky., and Everett B. McClurg of Connersville, Ind., Monday night—Miss Opal Scott of Carlisle and Glenn Clark of Augusta, Ky., August 22nd.

DIED—Mrs. Patty Frances Campbell, 58, last Wednesday. —Billy Greene, 20, Mt. Sterling, Tuesday afternoon at Johnson Memorial hospital.

Thursday, December 4, 1919

Windstorm strikes Carlisle Saturday, unroofing a number of business houses.

Tobacco averages $56.05 per hundred on opening sales of Lexington market Tuesday.

Rhoads Burton purchases home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Holmes on Sycamore street for $8,000.

M. V. Bostain, Paul Darnall and H. B. Bryson appointed by Mayor as city board of tax supervisors.

Upon orders of Southern Fuel Director, Carlisle business houses are closed at night, without lights.

MARRIED — Miss Elizabeth O'Neal and Kerney Thomas, both of the County, on Nov. 29th.—Miss Mary Lester Smoot and Charles Parsons, both of Carlisle, on Dec. 3rd.

DIED—J. D. Gaunce, 62, at his home near Barterville on Nov. 27th.—Mrs. C. E. Cooper, 40, at her home in Carlisle on Nov. 28th.— Arthur Bradley Lawrence, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lawrence, at their home near Ellisville.—Infant of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Kennie at their home at Little Rock.

Ass't. County Agent Reports

by Luther Whitaker

A week of excitement began Friday, November 27, for 29 of Kentucky's outstanding 4-H Club members. These boys and girls are attending the National 4-H Club Congress, being held in Chicago, November 29-December 4.

Although Congress officially opened Sunday morning, November 29, Kentucky's delegates came to Lexington Friday night for a delegate-honor dinner. They left for Chicago by chartered bus at 5:00 a.m. Saturday morning.

Representing the 78,000 4-H Club members in Kentucky, these young people were chosen for the Chicago trip mainly because of superior 4-H project work, but participation in school, community and other 4-H activities and evidence of leadership ability were also considered. Selections were made from written records submitted by the members of the Cooperative Extension Service.

Miss Rose Ann Simons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Simons Route 3, Carlisle, will be representing Nicholas County for her outstanding work in the Housekeeping project.

Help support the Community Birthday Calendar project to raise funds for the 4-H program in Nicholas County.

A LITTLE YAPPIN'

by Nellie Crump

There's More to Follow.

Had no idea so many people plant their gardens and flowers in the moon and believe in other "signs." Have had several calls since last week and all agree with Yappin' except one. Oh well, we can't please all the people all the time. According to one belief, we will have 24 snows this season. Two of them have been the past week. Calendars say Winter does not even begin until December 22, so be in no hurry about your red flannels. Just follow the "signs."

—Yap—

A Time for Everything.

Children had the time of their young lives the past weekend—no school — visiting —Thanksgiving—all the cooking and good things to eat. Besie baked her first cake (a bit crumbly, but delicious) and her baby sister came to spend the weekend. She reused from sleep about two o'clock Saturday morning and inquired sleepily, "Miss Nellie, are you fixin' to cook sumpin' now."

—yap—

Family of 15 to Feed.

The time of year I enjoy most is now at hand—hog killing. Quite a bit of it is going on. Have heard of one fellow who made a whole day of the job by butchering 27 head. Sounds like a "whole passel" of meat. Man alive! That's over a hundred hams and shoulders, quite a batch of sausage and just gobs of lard, besides the 101 other good things about a hog. It's a sight on earth what a housewife can make by taking a little of this and a little of that and adding fruit, sugar and spices. O, I forgot to say this man's family consists of his own "baker's dozen" plus a married son and his wife—15 mouths to feed for a whole year! The corn and wheat were raised by the family on the farm, so naturally there'll also be beef in the locker, besides dozens of chickens, ducks and a few leftover turkeys running all over the place. To use common, everyday slang, this man "has it made."

—Yap—

There Is Another Man.

Heard of another farmer who is moving his family to Carlisle just as soon as we get through stripping tobacco and kill hogs." The fat fellow!

Yaps—all . . .

Deer hunting December 4-6

Open season for hunting deer with gun in specified counties is Dec. 4-6, with certain exceptions, the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources says.

The archery season for deer closed Nov. 19.

Regulations concerning hunting areas, weapons, permits, hours, tagging reporting, check stations and such may be obtained from the wildlife agency or from the Kentucky Department of Public Relations.

KENTUCKIANS IN WASHINGTON

By Gil Kingsbury

ATTORNEY GENERAL:

Kentucky has a new Attorney General—and we are not speaking of the Honorable John Breckinridge of Lexington.

M. Jack See, who calls Louisa, Kentucky, his home, has been named Attorney General of the Trust Territory in the Pacific Ocean.

Those islands, scattered thousands of miles apart, are under UN trusteeship. But the United States runs the show.

GETS PROMOTION:

Jack, who got his law degree at the University of Kentucky, earned his present post. He served as the Assistant Attorney General for the past two years.

General See reports to the Interior Department and recently was here for a four-month vacation, interrupted, of course, by conferences concerning his work. Then he flew 8000 miles away to Guam where he has his office

LOUISA TO GUAM.

It's a far cry from Louisa and Lawrence County to Guam, but the experience gained as county attorney and city attorney in eastern Kentucky is now put to use in the western Pacific.

For the folks back home, who might be wondering, we can report that General See still has that bushy mustache he cultivated at the age of 19 before he entered U.K. in the class of '40.

HIS TERRITORY:

See's territory covers some historic spots, places well known to many Kentucky war veterans. There's Truk, Marshall Islands, the Carolines and the southern Marianas.

In spite of all his travels, the Attorney General still maintains a home in Louisa. Mrs See is still there but she plans to join her husband after the first of the year. A son, M. J. See, Jr., practices law and another son, C. F. See III, is in Lexington at law school.

Farm Facts

by William C. Johnstone

DECEMBER 1959

CONGRATULATIONS, FARM BUREAU! Members of the Kentucky Farm Bureau took two major actions at their recent convention that required leadership, courage and sacrifice. In one, they recognized the need for additional revenue for education and other legitimate state functions and recommended the use of a sales tax to provide it. They were right, too, in not recommending the complete removal of the state income tax as seemed morally wrong to have a sales tax which taxes all the income of the low income group without compensatory tax which touches that part of high incomes not used for ordinary living expenses.

The other action called for the termination of the Bureau's fight against extending the eastern time zone westward. This movement really required sacrifice on the part of the farm people because from time immemorial they have been against piddling with the clock" and, in some cases, the change to faster time will actually work a hardship on crop producers but the Bureau recognized the change taking place and the desirability of the city worker having more daylight time at home in the afternoons. In the long run many country people will be benefited by fast time because the more and more of them and their families are supplementing their low incomes with work in the cities. Fast time will permit them to maintain and improve their farm operations during the long summer afternoons.

The Farm Bureau is right in opposing the many variable time areas in the state. In some cases there are two time zones within a county and it is impossible to know at what time to arrive at a given place for an appointment. The action of the Farm Bureau should be a challenge to civic leaders and public officials in urban centers to establish definite and distinct lines on either side of which there are uniform times zones.

By these two actionis the Federation showed itself to be interested in the general welfare of all the people and not merely in the welfare of agriculture and it makes one proud of being a member of the organization.

ALARMING: In recent weeks it has been alarming to see a rather concerted effort against federal farm programs. Within the last month I have read articles, heard speeches and seen advertisements lambasting the Federal Farm Program in general and price supports in particular. All were concerned about the high cost of the farm program—none seemed to care about the low income of the farm people, of the disparity between prices paid and prices received by farmers.

Farm people, generally, would prefer freedom of production and marketing if the price of labor and other production costs were also free and unregulated. They are not pleased with the farm program as it now operates but are reluctant to give it up until a better way of preventing a complete breakdown on farm prices, such as followed the first World War, can be assured.

TODAY'S meditation

Thursday, December 3
Read John 1: 11-14

As many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name. (John 1: 12.)

It was nearly midnight when my plane circled over Phoenix, a city spread out like a vast checkerboard of light in the darkness. I thought of the thousands of people unconcerned about my coming. Then I rejoiced that there was one family expecting me and waiting for me with a warm welcome.

It was the Christmas season. While I was looking out over the city, I thought also of God's giving His only begotten Son to a world that paid so little attention to His coming.

In this generation, Christ is looking for homes where He will be welcomed. He longs to enter our hearts that He may forgive our sins and change our darkness into light. We must make the choice. We may either crowd Him out or open the door.

"Where meek souls will receive Him still.
The dear Christ enters in."

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we praise Thee that Thou hast come to abide in our hearts. Through faith in Thy Son Jesus Christ, keep us ever in fellowship with Thee. Help others to make room for Christ that they may know His peace. We pray in the name of Thy Son, our Redeemer, Amen.

What Does A Girl Stand To Lose?

By C. D. Smith

This week's letter: "Ever since I started high school, my parents have been strict with me. Maybe it's because I rode home from a ball game with three boys that were pretty wild. Nothing happened, honest, but someone started stories about me. When my parents asked me about riding home with those boys, I lied. My brother said he heard someone say they saw me with them. Finally, I told the truth—that I did ride home with them. I have tried to make friends with nice kids so I could win back my parents' confidence. I won back my mother's, but not my dad's. Before all this happened, we were pretty close; now he acts like he hates me. He says I should forget all about boys. Recently, some wild boys asked me to go riding with them. I refused. Afterw ards, I asked myself why I didn't. I had nothing to lose."

This young lady is apparently very much hurt by the fact that her father continues to be displeased with her because she made a mistake. But, she is very wrong when she says that she has "nothing to lose." If she continues to be friendly with those boys or goes riding with them, she will certainly lose forever the chance to win back her father's trust and confidence.

All of us make mistakes, at one time or another. And we generally must pay for these mistakes in one way or another. But when we recognize that something is wrong, and then continue to do it, we are no longer making a "mistake." We are deliberately doing something that we know is wrong. There is a big difference.

We think the young lady can win back her father's confidence —if she keeps the right kind of company and proves by her actions and attitude that she is striving to be the type of daughter that he wants her to be. She must not let that one "mistake" turn into a habit.

If you have a teenage problem you would like discussed in this column, write to C. D. Smith in care of this paper, and address it to "TEEN AGE TEENAGERS, NATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION, 1201 EIGHTEENTH AVE. SOUTH, NASHVILLE, TENN."
