Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Stone entertained a number of little folks Sunday afternoon, the occasion being Cleve Allen's tenth birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Noble Jones visited Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Cannon and family at Bethel one evening last week.

Mrs. Everett Judge is visiting her son John Allen Eston and family in Frankfort this week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Haselrigg, Paris, Bob Haselrigg Jr., Chicago, Gail Blackburn, Dubuque, Iowa., Charles Haselrigg and son, Winchester, were Wednesday evening guests of Mrs. Addie Reid and family.

Rev. Hill the new Methodist minister has moved into the parsonage here. We regret losing Rev. Cain and family but welcome the new minister.

Mrs. J. H. Bromagen and Miss Lena Haselrigg were dinner guests Friday of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Ramey at their lovely country home near Sharpsburg. Other guests were, Mrs. Frank Dicken, Bethel; Mrs. Earl Maxey, Reynoldsville; Mrs. Stanley Myers, and Miss Inez Day, Mt. Sterling, the occasion being a get-to-gether of the first two graduting classes of the old Bethel high school. Mrs. Bromagen was the first graduate and only member of her class. The second class had five members, all girls and all present at the dinner. The writer was the hostess, first teacher and also Mrs. Dicken and Mrs. Maxey's first teacher. The others present had at sometime been in her classroom. After partaking of a bountiful dinner the afternoon was spent reminiscing about old school days and discussing current events. Before leaving for home we went on a tour of the beautiful yard and garden then bid good bye to each one promising to make it an annual affair. Thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Ramey for a wonderful day.

Let's keep in mind the coming revival at the Christian Church which begins July 15 and continues through the 26.

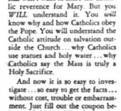
"God's Long Arm Reached Down to Help Me!"



For almost a lifetime, the woman had stood on the threshold of the Catholic Church—uncertain whether to come in or stay out.

"Seemingly," she says, "I was born loving the Catholic Church." This she attributes to a "small miracle," inasmuch as her parents were not Catholic, or even religious; and "our relatives and friends were none of them Catholics."

As a child, she loved to visit Catholic churches, to light candles and pray the rosary. But as she grew older ... and tried to evaluate Catholic beliefs on her own limited knowledge, or upon the mistaken opinions of others ... "a wall of obstacles" kept getting in the way.

In the midst of her confusion and uncertainty, she enrolled for the Knights of Columbus course of Catholic instruction which is given free by mail. And now a Catholic, she says: "I am filled with wonder and gratitude that God's long arm reached down so lift me up so tenderly."

It is unfortunate, but true, that many people seeking knowledge of the Catholic Church encounter a "wall of obstacles" as this woman did. The reason is, usually, the ignorance of the "facts" they hear about the Catholic Church are not facts at all, but misrepresentations or the fruits of misunderstanding. Even those who admire and respect the Church ... and who wish to hold for it only sentiments of tolerance and good-will ... are often confused and deceived.

There is, of course, only one fair and proper way to understand and evaluate Catholic teachings and worship. That is by getting the facts about them from an authentic Catholic source. And that is why the Catholic Church says again and again ... "INVESTIGATE!"

Maybe, after investigating, you still won't want to share the Catholic reverence for Mary. But you WILL understand it. You will know why and how Catholics obey the Pope. You will understand the Catholic attitude on salvation outside the Church ... why Catholics use statues and holy water ... why Catholics say the Mass in truly a Holy Sacrifice.

And now it is so easy to investigate ... so easy to get the facts ... without cost, trouble or embarrassment. Just fill out the coupon below and MAIL IT TODAY, and a highly interesting pamphlet will come to you by return mail ... under plain cover—and nobody will call on you. Just ask for our Free Pamphlet No. KC-7.

Farming changes prompt census every 5 years

Changes in U. S. Agriculture—reportedly to be very significant in the next five years — are the reason the farm census is taken every five years, it will be conducted this October and November over the nation by the U.S. Bureau of the Census.

For instance, the nation has grown twice as many persons to feed and clothe now as in 1900, says Frank J. Welch, director of the Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service. And there are fewer and fewer farm workers each year: in 1910, there were 13 million, but in 1954 (last farm census) there were less than eight million.

As recently as 1940, one out of every four persons in the U.S. lived on a farm; but in 1954, only one person out of eight was a farm resident, Welch pointed out.

Production-wise, each farmer and farm worker in 1850 produced food and other agricultural products for himself and four other persons; by 1900, one farmer and one farm worker provided these items for seven other persons. Now, one farmer produces for 20 persons.

These are facts the farm censuses, held by law every five years, gather. The information is processed and then analyzed. Farmers use this information for long-range planning. It gives them a pretty accurate look at future trends.

Census - takers will collect from each farmer a questionnaire the farmer received two weeks previously. The form asks simple questions about production, harvests and farm operations. Farmers are asked to keep records on these activities until census time.

Welch noted that census-takers are bound to treat census information as confidential; and that no investigative or tax agency has access to census files.

Beautiful gardens may be ugly by August

Kentucky's "beautiful" early gardens frequently turn to ugly ducklings by August due to lack of weed, insect and disease control, says George Marlowe, Kentucky Extension Service vegetable specialist.

Here's how to keep the plots beautiful and productive through the summer:

1) Keep down weeds by mulching (plastic film, straw or sawdust); cultivate by hand as shallow as possible (the top three inches); do hand-weeding to kill incumbent weed and eliminate seeding for future weeds.

2) Use recommended chemicals to keep down insects. And get complete coverage; beneath the leaves is where insects frequently go because that under-side is more succulent, and juicier. Dust or spray every week as a preventive measure, or whenever you see insects attacking the crops.

3) For disease control, there is no compromise. Plants must get treatment every week or 10 days if you want blight-free tomatoes, for instance; other garden plants have similar needs. Complete coverage is necessary, with the plants being well-misted by sprays (not wringing wet); remember, that as the plant grows, the material you applied last week will not cover the newly developed areas.

Disease "seed" are called spores; they cannot be seen like insects or weeds; sprays give the plants an armored surface which is poison to these spores. If plants definitely are diseased, remove and burn them to protect other plants.

THE STARS

By LYN CONNELLY

HURRAY! Eddie and Liz are finally married and will be off the front page for a short while—at least until the divorce. . . . All the publicity certainly helped Debbie get over her heartache in a hurry—even she was sick and tired of picking up a newspaper and seeing the latest doings of the faded pair! And who could blame her? Luckily, her infants are still unable to read . . . One of the greatest acting jobs we've seen in many, many months was that of once-child star Dean Stockwell who portrayed the haunted Nathan Leopold in "Compulsion."

Did you catch the Emmy awards? We were particularly amused by White House secretary James Hagerty's bungling and we couldn't help but wonder when he read off the winner of the best news reporting of the year as "my friend, John Charles Daly," how the actual winner, James Day, knew he should walk up to the stage and claim it . . . What happened to the insistence that winners are a "secret!!!"? Who goofed?

PLATTER CHATTER

WARNER BROS. — Everyone knows how the songs of the Charleston era sounded in the 20's but how will they sound in 1976? Well, try Bob Pelzer's latest—today "Charleston 1976" and you'll be ahead of the times . . . This is the Charleston perfected, jazz style, and it sizzles . . . For real lowdown jazz, Fred Katz comes up with a novel album, "Folk Songs for Far Out Folk" . . . If you like folk songs and you like jazz, you'll be livin', dad!

Still on this hot label, there is Shelly Manne and his Podners' Paint doing a' standards in Gitsland fashion . . . Real gone . . . And there's the music from this year's hottest new TV show, "77 Sunset Strip," featuring the popular trio of Ray Anthony, Shorty Rogers, Jr., Bill (Kenton) Byers and Roger Wagner.
