Little League Day Tuesday, June 16

In observance of National Little League Week, upwards of 5,000 Little League teams throughout the world will participate in games and other activities during the period of June 14-20, 1939.

National Little League Baseball Week has been proclaimed by President Dwight D. Eisenhower on authorization of the Congress of the United States. The proclamation invites the people of the United States to observe Little League Football and to provide facilities for training, research and other aids necessary to meet the growth demands of the program.

Locally, Athletics vs Redlegs, Cubs vs Flyers.

One of the highlights of week will be the occasion of Little League Foundation Day Tuesday, June 16th. On this day, local leagues will have teams in support of the Little League Foundation, a non-profit organization dedicated to raising funds for Little League Baseball and to providing facilities for training, research and other aids necessary to meet the growth demands of the program.

Games played on Foundation Day are regularly scheduled league contests, with game donations in this one-day drive going to the Foundation.

Tomorrow's world is in the making

From our vast resources of youth in the land will come the leaders of tomorrow; the future makers and the constructors, the statesmen and scientists, the builders and professional men of the next generation.

The men who will lead us into the future are learning the art of living today. Their future—and ours—will most assuredly depend on how much we can teach them during the crucial growth years.

The boy who has learned through practical experience, his individual responsibility for others, the value of teamwork in achievement will become men with those same attributes.

This year, more than 5,000 Little League teams throughout the world will be providing opportunities for our youth to practice their wholesome traits on the playing field. Will over a million boys will be assuredly engaged in Little League this year, learning to play—and the leadership.

Little League is building men in your community. You can help too, by supporting your local Little League activities and attending the Foundation Day Game. Your contribution to the National Little League Foundation will be appreciated.

AN ANNIVERSARY. With things in a lull in the capital city, the Kentucky legislature of Congress to look back at an anniversary.

This month marks the 167th birthday of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

On June 1, 1792, Kentucky declared its 15th state of the Union, ending eight years of knocking at the door of Virginia.

On June 20, 1792, Kentucky was admitted to the Union as the 15th state.

After Congress set the date, and the Commonwealth was accepted, the history books show that the first meeting of the first administration was held in the city of Lexington.

Isaac Shelby, a General of the first administration, had been elected Governor of Kentucky.

Bringing Home the Bacon.
There was a knock at the door and the tiniest of my frequent visitors had arrived earlier than usual. "Have you had a drink of ice water, Nannie?" "Yes," she screamed. "I am bit dead," we had frigs, a big dish full and mummy's good."

Qualifications Gate.
Bessie and I were having a few words you know what I mean. Little Nannie was laughing her saucer of "ness" had taken

WHY SHOULD I GO TO COLLEGE?

With only a high school education, you are limited in your choice of careers. You are limited in your choice of professions. You are limited in your choice of income. You are limited in your choice of respect. You are limited in your choice of freedom. You are limited in your choice of happiness. You are limited in your choice of life.

WHY SHOULD I GO TO COLLEGE?

College education is the only way to get a good education. It is the only way to get a good job. It is the only way to get a good income. It is the only way to get a good respect. It is the only way to get a good freedom. It is the only way to get a good happiness. It is the only way to get a good life.
