A Little Yappin'

Hah! Who Goes There?

Dear Reader: Do you know where a copy of "Trees of Eastern US" (out of print) could be found? If so, please let me know and I will forward your letter to the lady who wrote to this department last week. Along with many, many other books I never heard of it myself.

In Christian Love.

A prayer of dedication was offered at the Methodist Church Sunday morning in love for the late Everett M. Smith who provided for a Baby Grand piano for his church before his passing. Always working and thinking for his church's best interests, Everett will long be remembered with love by a myriad of friends.

When Hearts are Broken.

The phone rang and a man's broken voice told me the tragic story of how he had just found his little Mexican Chihuahua lying in the road breathing his last. "He is gone." Roger Burden said. Micky was 13 years old in January and was getting feeble and slow. It is thought he was run over by a car. He was the well-known pet of Mr. Burden's wife, Louise, whom the couple lived on Locust street a few years ago. After her passing, Mr. Burden moved to his farm and took Micky, the pride and joy of his life and tenderly cared for him the remainder of his life.

The Whole Story.

Please get your last week's Mercury and read again the first item in Comment. Gene Wise, child columnist, tells of my passing out on the job while both worked for the paper years ago, but he did not tell what caused the sudden fade-away. The facts are I was feeding the job press which was run by a gasoline engine when "Bones" could persuade it to run. Things took place so fast I doubt if poor little scared Gene knew what had happened. There was an unscheduled jerking of machinery and my left hand was caught in the press. Three fingers were mashed. When I came to everybody in the office was in a rush except Dr. Reynolds, who had been called and was bending over me with yards and yards of bandage. Gene says I was laid flat on the floor and sprinkled with cold water. True. I was flat on the floor but sprinkled, fiddlesticks—I was almost drowned!

Tired But Happy.

Went to Lexington Saturday—Bessie and I. The day started with snow, wind and ice, but by the time the bus got half way, the road was dry and everybody seemed to be going somewhere—and in a big hurry! It was Bessie's first trip to the little city and we had talked and planned about it for days. We just couldn't back out now. However we turned a few corners thinking we might freeze or be blown away—but she simply had to have a guitar for her birthday!

We could hardly stay on our feet on the street. Holding tightly to my hand, Bessie gazed in awe at the Phoenix hotel and said, "I never saw so many people since the Blackberry Festival but they sure have a ice town though." Just then two midgets and a Jap hustled by but she was more interested in two little dogs trying to cross the street. They seemed to know exactly how and when to cross, so instead of lending assistance, we looked after ourselves. A long freight train was on the crossing, then she said the blind man with his dog looks shivering in the cold and asked for her change. "We'll take his pencils, will we," she decided.

More tall buildings, the courthouse and finally the Dime Stores. At last we found the escalator (with my old dictionary could spell more words). A man going up took Bessie by the arm and they were gone. The next thing I knew she came running up behind me asking if she could go up again "all by myself." It was a great experience.

We had lunch where the food comes by on a little truck something like a roller-coaster. Just then someone called to us. It was our Carlisle neighbor, Mrs. Leonard Fite, operating one of those nickel-plated gadgets. We only met two other home delegations during the day—one spoke, the other didn't! Back we went along Main street looking for an elevator which we soon boarded. A most accommodating colored girl in a spotless white uniform gave Bessie her first ride in one of the contraptions—up and down—and refused a tip!

Bessie was wearing her S. S. attendance pin. In the elevator we met another little girl about her size also wearing a Methodist pin. Sunday School girls!

After getting involved with a revolving door we looked at the courthouse clock and had to ask if it was "fast" or "slow" time. Bessie's only idea for such a day's outing was to get the guitar. The only other thing she looked at was the candy counter and asked for her change again. Then we passed the blind man once more and he told us he was the father of a little baby born this March.

Tired, but happy, Bessie finally said, "Let's go to their Carlisle Drug and eat some candy and watch the people." So without further incident, or accident, we made three more street crossings (guitar and everything) to the bus station and were mighty happy to see Mr. Lykins drive the Maysville bus up to the curb.

Yep—all . . .

No wonder the swing is to FORD for '59!

59 Ford Custom 300 Tudor . . . one of the 23 new Fords that ride on TIREX cord tires.

Ford beauty pays you extra dividends in comfort

Plenty of leg room . . . There's plenty of stretch-out room, in both front and rear seats—even for long-legged six-footers.

Wider doors for easier entry . . . Ford doors are wider than the top competitive make . . . and have convenient 2-stage door checks.

New hood room—even hot room . . . Ford is spacious. Unlike the major competitor you can wear your hat, front seat or back.

Easy to use trunk space . . . Ford's deep-cut trunk opening lets you load or unload with far less "fish" than competition.

6 Passengers, not just 4, ride in comfort . . . Ford's seats are softer, thicker. And the man in the middle doesn't "bottom out" on bumpy roads as in many other cars.

A frame that surrounds you with safety . . . Ferwise rides within the protection of Ford's solid wide-base frame. You will not get this protection in any other low-priced car.

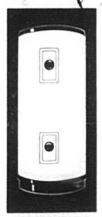
Kentucky's per capita income increased 28 percent in 1950-1956, almost 3 percent above the southeastern average and some 7 percent above the national figure.

Now my faucets really mean it when they say--

HOT

with the New ELECTRIC water heating service



2 cents a bath is all you pay to heat water the safe, clean, electric way. This is the average cost with our low rate.

This new electric water heating service is designed for today's automatic clothes washing and dish washing—and for today's bigger families.

Yes, now you can add to the cleanliness, safety, and carefree service of an electric water heater —ample hot water for every modern household need.

If your use of hot water has outgrown your present electric water heater, call us. Its rate of recovery can be increased at small cost.
