of farmers in carrying out soil and water conservation practices.

Several years ago the State Legislature authorized and set up a Revolving Fund for Soil Conservation Districts in the purchase of needed heavy equipment.

This is the third bulldozer bought by the Alexander Bros and sponsored by the Nicholas SCD.

Additionally, the Nicholas SCD has sponsored the purchase of two bulldozers by Clifton Waugh.

These operators, and others, render valuable service to land owners in accomplishing conservation work regardless of whether it is a cost-sharing project under the Agriculture Conservation Program, or other work desired by the farmer.

Experimental farm program underway at Morehead

Frankfort, Ky. — Morehead State College has reported it has stocked several farms with sheep and hogs in an experimental program sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Economic Development to find new sources of income for Eastern Kentucky farmers.

With $2,500 in funds provided by the development agency, the college is conducting a scientific feeding and breeding program to demonstrate how good wool and meat animals profitably can be raised on small farms.

5 from County enrolled at Eastern

Five Nicholas Countians are among the 2,784 students enrolled for the spring semester, 1958-59 school year, at Eastern Kentucky State College, Richmond, it was announced this week by college officials.

PTA Sponsors Hearing Tests

Another outstanding project of the PTA in the county is the sponsoring of the Hearing Conservation Program in conjunction with the local and State Health Departments.

A member of the State Health Department instructs how to use the audiometer, machine for testing hearing, and what to look for. The Nicholas County Health Department furnishes the audiometer for local testing.

The volunteer mothers test the hearing. The testing is done in the 2nd, 4th and 6th grades and any special cases recommended by teachers from other grades. After the testing any questionable loss of hearing in a child is retested. After the retest if there is still a question of a hearing loss the retests are sent to the State Department of Health. When the entire list of retesting is completed a trained member of the State Department is sent to the county to check these children who have a question of hearing loss Recommendations are then made as to follow-up on a child as is necessary. This follow-up work is done by your local Health Department.

Loss of hearing could be a reason for low scholastic grading or poor interest in school work. It is important to detect any loss of hearing in our school children.

The Moorefield Parks and East Union Schools have completed their programs and other schools are scheduled.

Schools that have no PTA program are covered by a volunteer PTA.

East Union wishes to thank the Parks PTA for checking their children last week at the Methodist Church in Carlisle.

Inside the walls of C.H.S.

by Harriett Clark

Spring is finally here and am glad. There's nothing like a lovely spring day to make a person feel absolutely wonderful.

Seniors have begun practicing on our Senior play. Our play is a comedy "Too Young, Too Old" personally I think it's going to be the greatest play we've had in a long time.

Don't forget our Variety Show. You that basketball is in the past, you don't have anywhere to go. If you come to the Variety Show, I guarantee you'll really enjoy it. The Dramatic class, the grade children, and the band members, have been working very hard, so take this a success. Tickets are 25 and 50c. We need lots of money to get on that trip we travel to New York. We're doing our best to think of ways to entertain you and make money at the same time, but we can't do it alone. You've always helped us before so be good sports and help us again. Thanks.

The F.H.A. held their regular meeting Tuesday night Everett Earl Pfanstiel showed his slides on Korea. Refreshments were served.

Next year's football team has started practicing football practice. Exsect Carlisle to have a good team next year. Our boys are experienced after last year. There's nothing to hold them back now.

That's the news for this week. The important event don't forget our Variety Show, March 31.

COMMENT

Kay T. Fisher

Territorial disputes are constant in the bird world, but usually are settled more graciously than in the world of men. They normally are resolved by singing duels. Sometimes a disputed territory does touch off a breast-to-breast battle up into the air. The fight will usually be brief. The battle done, each contestant will fly to a tree or limb on his side of the line and click in agitation. Usually there is a compromise and both birds will sing. This personal bird to national anthem is a full and exuberant song.

The song duels of the birds of the same species in the so-called song birds. The only exception is in those few species where the female is the more aggressive and colorful and in which the male cares for the eggs and young. Otherwise it is the male who establishes the property line. Usually the boundaries are observed by his female, who normally remains within them. However, there are blundering or frivolous wives and that leads to trouble.
