CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
The meaning for today of the book of Genesis will be set forth in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Adam and Fallen Man" at Christian Science services Sunday.
Opening selections to be read from the Bible present these verses: "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them . . . And God say every thing that he had made, and behold, it was very good" (Genesis 1:27, 31).
From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this citation will be read (183: 21-23): "Divine Mind rightly demands man's entire obedience, affection, and strength. No reservation is made for any lesser loyalty. Obedience to Truth gives man power and strength. Submission to error superinduces loss of power."

Unico Premium RFD High Miler Truck Tire

- Smooth Highway Action
- Terrific Off-Road Traction

The RFD is the finest dual-purpose truck tire on the market—a real high miler for use on or off the highway. Extra tread thickness—32/32" as compared to 14/32" on ordinary tire. Also 8/32" undertread to make possible many recaps. The RFD features stress-free construction—runs cooler, resists bruise breaks, heat blows and moisture damage. Reinforced bar type lugs gives better bite where the going is rough, plus added stability on the highway. Non-directional tread provides positive forward and backward traction. Tough tread compounds are highly cut and chip-resistant. An extra layer of rubber on every ply eliminates internal cord chafing. No other tire gives you more service for your tire dollar than the Unico RFD. Get a set today.

650x16 – 6 ply $28.00 700x15 – 6 ply $33.75 750x16 – 8 ply $43.95

Farm housing loans available

The construction and repair of farm houses and other farm buildings may be financed by Farmers Home Administration loans, Rob Roy Norton, the local county supervisor, said this week.

These Farm Housing loans are repayable up to 33 years at 4% interest. Farm Housing loans may be used to construct, improve, alter, replace, or repair farm homes or other farm buildings, or provide water for farmstead or household use. In addition to major construction, funds are available for farm home modernization such as adding bathrooms, modern kitchens, and other improvements to homes as well as enlarging and remodeling other farm buildings.

Although housing loans go only to farm owners, an owner may borrow to repair or build a house or other farm buildings for his tenants. A borrower must be an American citizen. Any farm involved must produce a substantial part of the operator's actual cash income and be large enough to be considered a farm rather than a rural residence. Applicants are cautioned against starting construction work or securing debts for work or materials before their loans are closed, if they expect to obtain their financing through the Farmers Home Administration.

Farmers buy their building plans and specifications from any reliable source they choose. To help the, borrower obtain construction that meets generally accepted standards of soundness, the Farmers Home Administration will review the plans and inspect the construction as it progresses.

It costs nothing to apply for a housing loan, but the applicant pays for legal services necessary to make certain he has a satisfactory title to the farm and for other incidental loan closing costs.

Each loan will be secured by a mortgage on the farm and may be subject to any existing prior liens. The Farmers Home Administration office serving Harrison county is located in Cynthiana, 205 Brumsfield Building. The office serving Nicholas County is located in the basement of the Post Office, Carlisle.

SURPRISE EVENING
By Ella G. Mensman

ALMOST from the beginning things had gone wrong. Lizner Hastings was a mess, after Liz was an expert cook, but afterward the entire evening seemed to have been attacked by gremlins.

Liz felt her throat tighten with unshed tears as she watched Jim's expression with Mr. Moss who seemed deliberately to withhold any warmth that might be part of his make-up.

They had planned with such high hopes only a few hours ago. Jim's company was expanding and Albert Moss, the "big boss," was coming to look over the younger men in search of a division manager.

So Liz subdued her natural informality and acted the dignified rule to the hilt. And here the ice man and the beverage store seemed to have forgotten their promised deliveries. The phone was dead, the TV silent and even the heat seemed to be waning.

She looked about at drinks growing warmer, faces growing colder, Jim looking more desperate, and suddenly something within her rebelled.

Giving Jim a shaky smile, she addressed the group warmly, "I've seem to have run out of ice and drinks and the TV has bugs in it, but we could indulge in an evening of good old-fashioned conversation, and I'll fix some snacks."

In mere minutes Liz had brewed steaming cups of spiced tea, and sandwiches. Soft music came from the record player and the guests had turned out considerably.

The host really had gone off and Jim lighted huge logs in the fireplace Liz had insisted be built in their new home. Liz thought she detected a slight softening in Mr. Moss' eyes as he gazed into the bright flames.

Mary Webster whose dinner party for the same group a few nights ago had progressed like a funeral procession, and which as she glanced at Liz, but the afterward the entire evening fun. Tommy Webster was laughing out at vigorously over his mug of spiced tea as he usually did over his fifth cocktail.

Near midnight the guests left a bit reluctantly, assuring Liz that the evening had been fun. The door closed behind the last guest and Liz decided to face the music bravely. Turning, she looked Mr. Moss squarely in the eye and declared, "I'm sorry things went wrong, but I did the best I could. You needn't be afraid to tell me Jim didn't get the promotion, for I really don't care. Not if it means having to turn into something I am not."

The executive dignity slid from the older man's shoulders like a discarded cloak and he laughed for the first time, as engaging chuckle, "Young lady, I haven't had so much fun in years. I can't remember when I last sat before an open fire and played word games. I want to tell you that you bundled all my obstacles like a professional."

Liz couldn't believe her ears. "Your obstacles?"

Again the infectious chuckle. "Do you think so many things could have gone wrong without some human help? I cancelled your deliveries, cut the phone wire, turned off the heat and sabotaged the TV, too."

With a bit of fire in her eye, Liz exclaimed, "Do you mean to tell me you did all those things on purpose? Had Mrs. Moss taken the same course of obstacles?"

Mrs. Moss slipped her arm around her husband's shoulders and spoke for the first time, "No dear, he is an old demon, but he means well."

Mr. Moss, a twinkle in his eye, said, "Good night, Mr. & Mrs. Division Manager."
