Ever wonder what happened to the old fashioned general store? Just look around they are still right here Not in the country anymore—they have moved to the city and have taken on a new appearance They are the supermarkets where you not only buy food but can buy clothing, furniture, household utensils, flowers, records and supplies for the medicine cabinet—even the cashier. I have even seen washing machines and speed boats offered! With all these items there is still something missing. The pickle and cracker barrel! Maybe if they appeared in Space-designed dress they wouldn't look out of place and would make the supermarket into a social force equal to that of the old general store.

Conservation reserve deadline extended; Vice announces

The Nicholas County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office today announced two important changes in the 1960 Conservation Reserve of the Soil bank, as follows:

1) Basic annual rates will be established by the same method used for 1959 contracts and

2) Farmers will have until October 9 rather than Sept. 30 to take the first step in applying for the 1960 program.

These changes have been made following enactment of a new law passed shortly before the recent adjournment of Congress and signed by the President September 21. The added time will enable farmers to study the new rate arrangement and determine the advisability of coming into the program.

The new law, according to H. S Vice, Chairman of the Nicholas County ASC Committee, removes the legal requirement that the annual payment rate must depend on actual crop production during the period 1955-59 on the land placed in the reserve. Many farmers regarded such rates as unfair because of the effect of drought and other natural disasters on crop yields during one or more of those years.

Under the new law, basic annual rates for 1960 will be determined chiefly on the basis of the productivity and value of the land for agricultural purposes, just as they were for 1959 The basic rate may not exceed 20 percent of the value of the land offered and may not be higher than the basic annual rate that would have been established for the same farm in the 1958-59 program.

In every case where a farmer has already been informed of his basic 1960 rate and where the change will result in a different rate, the farmer will be notified and will have an opportunity to submit an application for a contract on the basis of his new rate.

Another recent program change that may affect some farmers in this county permits a contract with a land owner where a tenant leaves a farm voluntarily and the owner finds it necessary to take over the operation. Originally, a farm which was operated by a tenant or sharecropper in 1958 or 1959 could not be placed under a 1960 contract unless a tenant or sharecropper was designated to share in the payment.

The purpose of the Conservation Reserve program, Mr. Vice explained, is to bring about the withdrawal of cropland from production, helping to adjust total crop acreage more nearly in line with needs. Land placed in the reserve may not be cropped or grazed and must be protected with a conservation practice.

A basic per-acre is determined for each farmer who requests it. The farmer may offer land and apply for a contract at any figure below that basic rate. In case funds are insufficient to permit acceptance of all applications, priority in accepting offers will be based on the rate at which the farmer offers his land.

Farmers who have not previously requested a rate determination but now believe that the program will be of interest to them should visit the county ASC office as soon as possible to obtain full information, Mr. Vice said.

WRITING STRESSED

At the Youth Fair one of the outstanding features from the schools was the best example of writing from grades one through six. The Blue Ribbon winners were as follows; grade 1, Parks; grade 2, Carlisle; grade 3, Carlisle; grade 4, Moorefield; grade 5, Nicholas County Grade and grade 6, Moorefield.

Each school was a winner in one grade or the other which illustrates that writing is stressed as one of the important subjects taught in school. This year the first grade is furnished a new writing manual. The beginning student is taught manuscript until the second half of grade 2; then cursive writing is begun. Writing manuals are furnished through grade 6 and a definite period set for their use. Improved writing in school training was emphasized just recently in an article written by Robert O' Brien, "Can You Read What You Write?" condensed in the August issue of Readers' Digest.

The article stresses the importance of better handwriting and that the rewards of readable handwriting can be very tangible. Quote: "In a recent Handwriting Foundation survey of several hundred personnel directors, 88 percent regarded legible handwriting as an important factor in landing a job. Twenty-nine percent used it as a standard for promotion."

Parents, take more interest in the way your child writes. Can you read what he writes?
