School started with a bang this year and all 331 of us—including 107 eighth graders are ready to go. Go where? That's a silly question but maybe we can answer it next May. We hope so!

The first day an assembly program was held. The ministers of the different churches visited us and gave a few words of advice for the comiog year.

We were especially glad to have Brother J. B. Smith and his wife. Gladys is sing and give a dramatic reading for us. They are holding a revival at the Carlisle Christian Church along with Mr. Duke Jones.

We have a new principal this year, Mr. Charles Wilson. He came to Nicholas County from the Bourbon County schools.

Other new teachers are Mrs. Thomas Johnson and Mr. Glenn Dorroh. Mrs. Johnson is teaching English and Mr. Dorroh is the new coach and physical education director.

Two courses have been added to the school curriculum. French, under the direction of Mrs. Wesley, will be taught for Juniors and seniors. Freshmen and sophomores will be able to take general agriculture. Mr. Pumphrey will teach this class concerning gardening and landscaping.

The band along with director Caroll Hall, left early Friday morning, September 11 for the Kentucky State Fair. Nicholas County was just one of several bands that marched around the exposition center and the fairgrounds.

Many of the band members attended the Rosemary Clooney Show.

Joyce Price, a majorette in the band, was what I consider lucky. She had her picture made with Fabian!

Esther Buckler and Kay Duncan accompanied the band on the trip.

The group returned to Carlisle about 7:30 Friday night.

CONCRETE

can save Kentucky $20,200,000

on its new Interstate Highways in 20 years!

A study of Highway Department records for the heaviest traveled roads built in Kentucky since 1936 proves concrete costs 75% less for upkeep than asphalt.

The same rate of savings can be applied to our state's new Interstate Highways. In 20 years concrete can save $21,000 per four-lane mile, or a grand total of $20,200,000 on the System's entire 840 miles.

Remember, too, while the Federal Government pays 90% of the original construction cost, it does not pay one single penny for upkeep. You pay it —along with all the other Kentucky drivers. The money comes from the state road fund that is financed by the tax on every gallon of gasoline you buy.

That's why concrete's true economy and quality are so important—why every mile of Kentucky's Interstate System should be paved with modern concrete.

AGRICULTURE!

Farming, the marketing of farm products, and the processing of these items constitute the major industry in Kentucky. The welfare of every citizen in the Commonwealth is deeply affected by State and Federal programs in these areas.

Your Democratic Ticket is alert and aggressive in both Washington and Frankfort, pledges you this 5-WAY PROGRAM OF

ACTION:

A TICKET PLEDGED TO:

- Expand research programs at the U. of K. College of Agriculture and Experiment Station that will pay off in dollars for Kentucky farmers.
- Encourage expansion of extension programs to provide new, useful information to farmers.
- Strengthen the program of Vocational Education, 4-H Club work and the Future Farmers of America organization to provide our young people with greater opportunities.
- Make the State Fair the greatest in the nation and develop a county-fair program equal to those of surrounding states.
- Expand technical services to preserve our agricultural resources and to improve production and marketing methods.
- Support the Kentucky Department of Agriculture in its service programs.
- Develop a balanced marketing program to improve the quality and handling practices of Kentucky farm products and explore new market outlets. "Grown in Kentucky" must become a recognized symbol of quality.
- Attract to Kentucky more processing plants that use agricultural raw materials and develop a more desirable balance between agriculture and industry.
- Expand the livestock program to realize Kentucky's great potential for this enterprise by increased emphasis on eradicating livestock diseases, completing the Area Brucellosis Program and providing more services for the industry.
- Continue and accelerate Soil Conservation, Flood Control and Water Usage Programs.
- Strengthen and reinforce the state Forestry program to capitalize on our greatest renewable resource.

Beware of those who consistently supported the Republican farm program sponsored and administered by Secretary Benson!

Support the party that has consistently understood the needs of Kentucky farmers—the party which has preserved our tobacco program and supported all other basic farm commodities at prices fair to the farmer.

257 roadblocks held first six months in 1959

Frankfort, Sept. 1 — Kentucky State troopers held 257 safety roadblocks during the first six months of 1959 and made 1,061 roadblock arrests.

State Safety Commissioner Don Sturgill, said troopers issued 1,907 warning tickets at the roadblocks.

He pointed out that 478 of the road block arrests were for no operator's license while 302 were for defective brakes, 27 roadlock subjects were arrested while driving intoxicated, 61 for improper headlights, 39 for improper registration and 39 for inadequate silencers.

Sturgill explained that 687 of the 1,907 warning tickets issued at safety roadblocks were for persons having only one headlight. He gave this breakdown of other warning tickets issued at roadblocks: 42 for defective brakes, 196 for inadequate silencers, 351 for no taillights, 293 for no stoplight, and 239 for other improper equipment.

THE ATTIC CLUE

By William L. Roper

THE true sportsman cannot but wonder at times what our early ancestors (and the Indians who owned this land before them) would think if they could return today and see what our ever expanding civilization has done to this country that was once all sprouting fields and virgin lands.

Man and his mechanical machines have cut away mountainsides, leveled forests to bring more than a sea of stumps, fastened and diverted streams that for ages had been unmolested.

Were one of our early ancestors to return today he would certainly be amazed by all the changes that generations of industrious and progressive people have achieved upon the face of earth. But he would also ask a question. "Will it ever stop? Will man's great need for growing room continue until he has pushed in all the mountains filled all the swamps and leveled all the trees?"

The answer, of course, would be "no"—for man has learned the meaning of the word conservation. He knows that if he is to have anything for tomorrow he must save something from today. If he eats a tree, he must replace it with a sapling. If he bends the animals of the world outdoors into a few remaining concentration points, he must protect them with laws and regulations.

The answer is "no." It has been, for man has learned his ways well. For the most part he has learned it. There are still some who think only in terms of profit and gain for today and who would take all they can now no matter worrying about leaving anything for anybody in the years that are ahead.

WINCHESTER Jerry Mathers, who co-stars as "Beaver" on ABC-TV's "Leave It to Beaver," started in television because a personality waiting on his mother's department store. Then both parties The Mathers family had newly arrived in California from Iowa. Jerry also was born in Sioux City on June 2, 1948 was a year when the talentedly s suggestion was heeded and accepted. Immediately Mrs. Mathers started making the rounds of TV producers.

A year and a half later, when Ed Wynn sought a child to appear on his show, Jerry was well enough known on television casting to get the job. His appearance with Wynn brought him to the attention of Sophs James, who engaged him to play "Little Nora Dan" the following week. The next two years Jerry was a subject for a great deal of commercial photography, working with his younger sister Susie. Shortly after his fifth birthday motion pictures beckoned. With Susie, who was then three, the two were signed to appear as the children of Faith Domergue and Dan Dureya in "This Is My Love."

This led to further television appearances and Jerry's discovery by Alfred Hitchcock. The noted director signed the lad for the role of Shirley MacLaine's son in "The Trouble With Harry." This part proved Jerry's real start as an actor and led to his Beaver role, which gives him co-star billing with Barbara Billingsley, Hugh Beaumont and Tony Dow.

With one successful year in the series now behind him, Jerry remains modest, unassuming and a normal American 11-year-old.

He collects toy soldiers and has several "armies" of them. . . He likes baseball and hopes to be a pitcher . . . He has a good fast ball but his control needs developing . . . Jerry, his mom and dad, Marilyn and Norman Mathers, Susie and a little brother, Jimmy, live in Canoga Park, Calif.

Why Catholics Believe As They Do

People on the outside often wonder why Catholics keep "running" to church.

And many of them erroneously conclude that this devotion is prompted by fear rather than faith, and by a sense of obligation rather than a spirit of piety and zeal.

Catholics, they have heard at least, go to church because they are obliged to do so. The priests keep telling them it is a sin if they don't—that they risk eternal damnation if they don't obey the Church, Catholics are a people of fear.

It may be possible to fool all of the people some of the time. But it is never unbelievable that literally millions of people could have been deceived over a period of nearly 2000 years. Could Catholicism have held the loyalty of eminent philosophers, scientists and other intellectuals down through the centuries if all it offered was a doctrine of fear and superstition?

No, says Catholic neighbor down the street. He goes to Mass and Confession and participates in other religious practices merely because of an obligation imposed by the Church. It is he believes, an obligation imposed upon him by God, and it isn't fear, but the desire to serve God that prompts his religious life.

Religion to a Catholic is not merely a worthy and virtuous activity. It is an absolute duty. It is, we believe, the means provided by God for the fulfillment of the God-given purpose of our lives. It is the channel through which we acknowledge our utter dependence upon God, and by means of which we give expression to our love, faith and gratitude.

Catholics believe further that we must honor God in the way revealed through his true Son, Jesus Christ. Who commanded that we "hear the Church." We believe that Christ established the Catholic Church and that it bears the only distinguishing marks which Christ said His Church would bear. We accept the teachings of the Catholic Church, therefore, because we believe that it is Christ's Church. It isn't fear or superstition that impels us to do this, but clear historical fact and our own reason and intelligence

If you would like to know all about the basic Catholic beliefs and the solid reasons behind them . . . write today for our free pamphlet.
