Telephone East Division hdq. to be Richmond

Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company has selected Richmond as its headquarters for its East Division because of its geographical location in relation to telephone operations, it was announced today. This new setup will enable the Company to better serve the increasing number of telephone subscribers in the Eastern part of Kentucky.

The East Division of Southern Bell comprises the Frankfort, Winchester, and Danville Districts and covers roughly the territory east of Louisville and extends from the Ohio River to the Tennessee line. The Division was established on August 1 and has been operating on a temporary basis in Louisville.

A number of large projects are under way in the area of the East Division, both local and long distance. Long Distance Dialing allows many customers to dial their own out-of-town calls direct. This type of communications service has recently been placed in operation in Winchester and Shelbyville. Customers in these towns enjoy long distance dialing as part of the service.

A large radio relay system of communications has been established between Winchester and Pikeville. This system has resulted in many additional trouble-free circuits in eastern Kentucky.

Smith attends Fellowship Conference

Clyde S. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Warren Smith, Route 1, a student at Eastern Kentucky State College attended the 1959 Discipleship of Christ Student Fellowship Conference, August 25-31, at Association Camp near Estes Park, Colorado. The conference included 500 students from 100 college and university campuses from the United States as well as several foreign countries.

The theme for this year's conference was: "The Mission of the Church in the Whole World". Drs. Walter Virgil Sly, and William Hall presented the morning study session's consideration of the theme.

Drs. Sikes and Sly are professors at the Christian Theological Seminary in Indianapolis, Indiana; while Dr. Hall is professor of Missions at Brite College of the Bible, Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, Texas.

Dr. Daniel D. Williams, New York Theological Seminary; Third District Congresswoman Edith Green, member of the Portland, Oregon, First Christian Church, Dr. Barton Hunter, and Dr. Robert Tobias, Indianapolis, were among the speakers for the evening sessions. These sessions considered special problems of the church's mission today.

Mr. Bola Ige, an Anglican layman from Nigeria and recent graduate in law from the University of London, will speak to the conference as the overseas secretary for the Eighteenth Ecumenical Student Conference on Christian World Missions to be held during the Christmas holidays.

Delegates to the Ecclesia conference participated in regular study sessions, state and area meetings, action groups, fireside chats, and recreational activities.

Deaths

Charles R. King

Charles R. King, 71, retired business man, and veteran of World War I, of Sycamore street, died at the Nicholas County hospital Friday night after a five day illness. He had been in failing health for several years. He was a son of the late John O. and Mary Prather King of Carlisle, and was a member of the Methodist Church. He graduated from the Carlisle high school in 1907 in a class of fifteen members.

Surviving is a sister, Miss Jennie King of the home, and a number of first cousins.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Monday at the Mathers-Shearer chapel. The Rev. G. H. Bierley officiating. Burial in Carlisle cemetery. Pallbearers, were George Moreland, Nathan Young, Roger Womack, A. R. Fisher, George Gaffin and James D. Patton.

Mrs. T. P. Scott

Mrs. Emma Mathers Scott, 78, wife of Dr. Thompson Parks Scott, of Locust street, died at 12:50 p.m. Friday, August 28, at the Nicholas County hospital, following a five days illness. She had been in failing health for several years.

She was born in Nicholas County, daughter of Silas Winslow and Virginia Boone Rice Mathers, and was a loyal member of the Christian Church, active in all organization, and for many years was teacher of a young ladies class in the Bible School.

Besides her husband she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Charles H. North, Cincinnati; a niece, Mrs. Clark Corbly, Cincinnati, a nephew, Marion Mathers, Carlisle; two great nieces, Virginia and Janice.

State farmers used 99,460 tons fertilizer

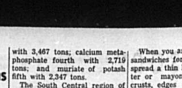
State farmers, between July 31, 1959 and Dec. 31, 1958 used 99,460 tons of fertilizers, the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station feed and fertilizer department said this week.

Of this total—representing both mixed fertilizers and straight materials such as ammonium nitrate—71,638 tons were the mixed type, or 72 percent of the total. The straights accounted, thus, for 27 percent.

The mixed fertilizer known as 4-12-8 (ratio 1-3-2) was high with 23,420 tons bought. Analysis 3-12-12 (ratio 1-4-4) was third with 6,974 tons; analysis 6-12-12 (ratio 1-2-2) was fourth with 6,550 tons; and analysis 5-10-15 (ratio 1-2-3) was fifth with 5,059 tons.

In the "straight materials" group, ammonium nitrate was high with 9,785 tons; rock phosphate second with 4,666 tons; superphosphate third with 3,407 tons; calcium metaphosphate fourth with 2,719 tons; and muriate of potash fifth with 2,347 tons.

The South Central region of the state was highest purchaser with 19,215 tons. This area is Warren, Allen, Monroe, Simpson, Logan, Butler, Edmonson and Hart counties. Second high was the Pennyroyal region, with 15,794 tons; third high was the Green River area, with 13,855 tons. The Purchase area purchased 5,873 tons, the Central Bluegrass, 8,034 tons and the Northeast Bluegrass, 5,189 tons.



When you are asked to make sandwiches for a large group, spread a thin layer of soft butter or mayonnaise to cover crusts, edges and corners of the bread. This prevents soaking the bread.

"Friends and Enemies" What I learned in Russia by Adelai E. Stevenson

For everyone who is looking for a concise rundown on the Soviet Empire today, the real threat it presents and the sound way to meet it, here is an astute observer's lively, authoritative and notably shrewd report of what he learned during his recent 7,000 mile journey.

He evaluates the seriousness of Russia's bid for foreign trade and aid, the formidable growth of her industry (as well as its cost in human terms, to her people), and the threat her industrial and scientific development poses for us in the underdeveloped countries.

Stevenson came away with some disturbing and some hopeful conclusions, convinced that the battle of the future is economic and political and that the major battleground is in Asia and Africa, where the Soviet Union is exploiting to the fullest its enormous appeal as a backward country that has made good. Nevertheless, he concludes, co-existence is possible if we face the facts; and he suggests what the free world must do to meet the Soviet challenge, which it has long misunderstood.

A personal, immensely readable and thoughtful book, "Friends and Enemies," offers a fresh assessment of Russia and the Russians which is vitally important for the American people.
