Dam would flood much land; citizens protest high costs

Thursday, September 7, 1939

Possible future inundation of seven villages, thousands of acres of fertile farm lands, and several miles of highway is shown by a map of the proposed Falmouth Reservoir Project. If the proposed dam is constructed it will impound Falmouth, as planned, it would form a lake extending from Falmouth to Farmers in Rowan county.

Sheriff L. B. Barton Saturday was named chairman for the Democratic ticket in Nicholas county for the November election.

The Carlisle school opened with 415 pupils, a decrease of two from the previous year.

At least 75 percent of the tobacco crop in the county is housed.

BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. James Harper, a daughter on Monday.

MARRIED—Miss Mildred K. Curtis of Walton and Carl E. Mastin of Millersburg, Saturday.—Miss Lula Belle Boots and Stanley Green in Flemingsburg, Saturday afternoon. — Miss Virginia K. Seamands and William R. Stinson, Saturday.

DIED—Davis J. Jolly, 76, at his home near Flemingsburg.—Mrs. Mary McConey, 71, at her home in Harrison county.—Mrs. Lela Jane Sugg, 54, Saturday night at her home in Nicholas county.

Attend Funeral in Lexington

Miss Hallye Griffin and sister, Mrs. Clarence Bobb attended the funeral of their uncle, Mode A. Griffin in Lexington Saturday.

—Yep—

Observes Tenth Birthday.

Little Miss Deleite Thompson was given a party by her mother in observance of her tenth birthday Friday afternoon at their home on the Upper Jacksotown road. Favors, ice cream and cake were enjoyed by Delcie's fifth grade schoolmates and several neighbor children.

—Yep—

Entertains for Niece.

Mrs. Stanley Kenney entertained a number of children and their parents at her home on Dorsey avenue in observance of the ninth birthday of her niece, Sandra Collins, of Independence, who has been a guest in the Kenney home for the past two weeks. All enjoyed games after which delicious refreshments of ice cream and cake were served followed by a car ride over town.

—Yep—

Ill in Maysville.

Mrs. Nettie Trumbo, aged resident of Spring street for over 60 years, is reported quite poorly at the home of her grandson, Gene Brothers, in Maysville where she was taken about six weeks ago.

—Yep—

Pull 'er Out Doc.

Jimmy Marshall, eleven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gray Marshall of Morgan street, underwent surgery at the Nicholas County hospital Saturday afternoon for the removal of splinters from his foot. Several days ago he stepped on a worn place in the floor of a local store and a large wood splinter pierced his bare foot. The lad pulled it out himself. However, two splinters, each an inch or more in length, were imbedded deep in the flesh, necessitating their removal by surgery.

—Yep—

Freedom of Speech.

Little Bessie seemed excited and a wee bit shook up, like all near-teenagers, as she opened a cold Coke one night last week while telling me about a new-comer to Carlisle. "He is of course it was a girl is not what I call pretty, now," she declared, "but he is curved like this pop bottle and his new suit fits so nice."

—Yep—

So the Experts Say.

The color of an eggshell has nothing to do with the food value inside, so the experts say, I'm told. Whether it be fad or fancy, for my own use I like the tan or medium brown shelled eggs better than the white. So do some other people. It all leads up to that rainy morning last week. Sometimes it takes a bit of coaxing to get the younger member of this Yappin' to eat an egg for breakfast, so I said sorta matter-of-factly, "What kind of an egg will you have?" (meaning how would she like it cooked of course). "Rubbing her eyes, she replied, "Gimme one of them with the real sun-tan, please."

—Yep—

For Good Luck or Bad.

Well, the bird dogs are moving slowly. But Saturday afternoon a little boy rode his bicycle past and waved to me sitting in the swing. The third trip around he stopped and asked breathlessly, "Will you give me a black cat 'cause black is my favorite color?" When one of the others began rubbing against his bare leg, purring ever so loudly, he decided yellow was his favorite color after all. With the kitten calmly seated in the bicycle basket, he pedaled off as happy as any little boy I ever saw—and left me wondering just who sent him for a black cat anyway.

Yep—all . . .

BY YOUR CONGRESSMAN JOHN WATTS

Tax Reform Explorations

The Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives which has original jurisdiction of all tax legislation, and of which I am a Member, under the direction of its Chairman, Congressman Wilbur D. Mills will commence a series of Public Panel discussions on our tax structure on November 2nd. These discussions will constitute the first step in a comprehensive study which our Committee will undertake in an endeavor to find responsible, equitable and effective means to provide adequately for the income needs of our Government and at the same time provide some alleviation of the terrific tax burdens with which all of us are called upon to bear.

Tax Levies

For Emergency Needs

A revision of tax provisions enacted to meet specific problems in the past, for example during World War II, will be contemplated. Many of these provisions result in significant differentials in what taxpayers pay, depending on their income and the circumstances under which they receive it.

Objective And Purpose

Tax reforms should encourage (1) a tax climate that is more favorable to economic growth, (2) equality of tax liability for equal incomes; (3) a fair distribution of all tax burdens; (4) elimination of burdensome taxes that discourage economic growth and individual initiative; (5) development of free market conditions in our economy, and, (6) a minimum of red-tape in tax reporting and collections.

The Panels' Composition

Qualified and experience experts from all over the country have been invited to participate in the Committee's panel discussions. Professors of Economics, of law, experts in social sciences, agriculture, labor and management will appear. Family income, income tax deductions, taxing the aged, business deductions, pensions, corporate taxation and tax exempt organizations are some of the major fields that will be looked into.

Pooling the knowingness of experts in these particular fields ought to result in solutions to the many and complex problems involved. It is certainly the most sound approach and I know that everyone will be hopeful that the endeavors of our Committee will bring tangible results beneficial to us all.

KENTUCKIANS IN WASHINGTON

By Cil Kingsbury

LOTS OF MEALS:

Someone here in Washington with a sharp pencil and a ream of paper has figured how many meals were served to Kentucky school children last year.

They came up with a total close to 49 million, a lot of mashed potatoes and gravy. Of that number, about six million meals were at reduced prices, or free, under the school lunch program.

Kentucky, incidentally, leads the Southern states in the free lunch program.

THE 50-STAR FLAG:

In case you have a new flag, one with fifty stars, it is improper to display it before July 4 of next year.

That's the word sent out by Uncle Sam.

The White House put together some information on the flag and we found this interesting fact. At one time Kentucky was represented by a new stripe and a new star. However, this changed in 1818 when the basic pattern we know today was approved.

A LARGER HOUSE.

With the admission of Alaska and Hawaii to the Union comes a clamor to increase the size of Congress. One representative wants a House of 438 seats instead of the present size, 435.

Kentucky started off with two congressmen back in 1790 and increased gradually until it had eleven members between 1880 and 1910. Then, as other states grew, Kentucky lost ground. Today, the Blue Grass has eight lawmakers in the Lower House.

GRIM FIGURES:

One lawmaker is pushing hard for a larger civil defense program to protect citizens against an atomic war.

If an enemy dropped a bomb on the Cincinnati area (including Kenton, Campbell, and Boone Counties in Kentucky), 461,000 people would die on the first day," he declared. In the Louisville area, he went on, 284,000 would be killed.

FARM BUREAU in Action

by CH Fields

Kentucky Farm Bureau Fed.

Farmers Have Big Stake In Two Current Strikes

Farm Bureau's national leaders have made it clear that farmers throughout the country are keeping a wary eye on at least two nationwide labor strikes and the contracts that will result from these negotiations.

With the steel strike now six weeks old, farmers are hoping that no contract will be signed by the owners that will result in higher steel prices. If this happens, farmers should serve notice on the steel industry that they will buy even more foreign steel products. They have already turned to imports in many lines. A good portion of the barbed wire is already coming from Europe. Imported farm machinery is beginning to be significant.

Another current labor dispute important to farmers involves the meat packing industry. With hog prices down nearly $5 a hundred in the past 10 months, hog producers are particularly concerned. Their concern stems from constantly increasing marketing costs that cut down their share of the consumers' meat dollar, and the wage-cost-price inflationary spiral that pushes up the price of everything they buy.

Under present market conditions, any increase in labor costs in meat processing or retailing would undoubtedly be reflected in a further widening of the spread between what the consumer pays for meat and what the producer receives for his livestock. During the last 10 years, this spread has widened from 20 cents a pound at retail to nearly 30 cents—an increase of about 50 per cent.

A portion of this 50 percent increase comes from additional services for consumers, but by far the largest increase is the steadily mounting labor costs of the marketing agencies. Wages and salaries represent about half of the total mark-up between the farmer and the consumer.

In the 10-year period from 1949 to 1958, the average hourly earnings of meat packing employees increased 75 percent to an average of $2.49 an hour in 1958—not including the so-called "fringe benefits," which add up to something like 27 cents an hour. On the other hand, meat packing industry earnings in 1958 were 22 percent below the 1947-49 average.

Guernsey breeders sponsor 3d futurity

The Kentucky Guernsey Breeders Association is sponsoring its third futurity at the 1960 Kentucky State Fair, according to an announcement by association secretary Marvin McCullough. The class is one of the highlights of the Guernsey Show which will be Thursday, September 17, and is for two-year-old Guernsey females owned by Kentucky Breeders. Entries must have been nominated and kept eligible for the past two years, McCullough said.

Prize money for 1959 will be over $400 and will be divided into 12 monies with the winner getting 21%. Miss Elaine Kelly, Kentucky Dairy Princess, will present the winner with a silver trophy and wreath of roses.

Eleven females have weathered the past two years and will walk into the ring right after the lunch break on Thursday. They are from the Willow Wilde Farm of Barnett & Hixson, Fulton; one from Danby Cotterill, Danville; Stuart Berryman, Nicholasville, one, Berea College, Berea, one, Richard Van Horne, Lexington, one, and Orleton Farm, Marvin McCullough, Lexington, one.

Method of determining wheat history changed

Chairman Gilpatrick of the Kentucky Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee has announced a change in the method of determining wheat history acreage for wheat farms on which the allotment is underseeded. The change is the result of a law which has just gone into effect and which is designed to help farmers who underplant protect their future wheat allotments.

Under the new law, a farmer who plants to wheat for 1960 harvest may still obtain maximum history acreage credit for 1960 if his actual planted acreage of wheat in either 1958 or 1959—plus any acreage diverted from wheat under the Soil Bank or Great Plains program—was equal to 75 percent of his farm wheat allotment.

If a farmer does not meet this requirement and wants to get maximum wheat history credit for 1960, then he must meet the 75 percent planting requirement for 1960. In other words, by planting 75 percent of his wheat allotment in any of the three years 1958, 1959 or 1960, the farmer assures himself of full history credit for 1960.

In addition, a farmer who is prevented from seeding wheat for the crop because of unfavorable weather can preserve his maximum 1960 wheat history acreage credit if he notifies the county committee by Dec 1. 1959 June 1, 1960 on which add up to something like which add up to something like 87 cents an hour. On the other hand, meat packing industry earnings in 1958 were 22 per cent below the 1947-49 average.

THE WORLD OUTDOORS

by Mike Shandrick

THIS is the season of the year when the pulse of the average fisherman begins to quicken. It's almost, but not quite, the feeling that comes in the spring, when the weather has warmed enough to invite the first cast of the season.

But the weather now is cooling. The night comes earlier, and lasts longer. The angler has a double reason for stepping up his fishing activity. The time of year that most experts consider the best season of all has arrived; the end of fishing for another year (for all but the hardy, cold weather enthusiasts) is but a short time away.

Many have fishermen, particularly in the South, will tell you that September and October are the best months of the year. This is the time for the big ones. In the early, slightly chilled stillness of the hour after dawn, lake waters are quite and placid. But there, in the shallow depths, lurks a hungry predator, lazily watching and waiting, scanning the water below his lofty place with a practiced eye. Then he charges and with tremendous speed. The still surface of the lake seems to explode in one soft sun burst that might mean the end for a luckless minnow, a carp, frog, or, perhaps, Mr. Bass has already claimed the object of his attentions be a hunk of wood and that hook planted firmly in the jaw of his mouth. Regardless of the time of year, it is a thrilling experience. October, good times to be fishing. Time to do the fishing before cold fingers force us from the rod and reel. Time to bid farewell to another season and the shotgun or rifle will take their place.

Regardless of the time of year, there's always a "season" open for the sportsman—for monotony is a word that is unknown to him. Perhaps this is why he is general is a most happy fellow.

THE STARS

By LYN CONNELLY

ALTHOUGH Horace McMahon has been the detective thing he played Lt. Monaghan in "Detective Story" in 1948, he went into ABC-TV's "Naked City" 18 years later still a lieutenant—but this time as Lt. Mike Parker . . . "Bud ustinov played McMahon on Broadway," says McMahon, "I was usually cast as a hoodlum, a killer, a stooge" . . . McMahon started in show business in 1927 with a stock company in Yonkers, N. Y. The visiting actors, noticing his broken nose, invited McMahon to play a bit as a prizefighter.

The following year he was summoned to a road company of the play, "Rivalry," in Pittsburgh, "Broadway" was a daughter . . . His next three later still a lieutenant—but this time as Lt. Mike Parker . . . "Bud ustinov played McMahon on Broadway," says McMahon, "I was usually cast as a hoodlum, a killer, a stooge" . . . McMahon started in show business in 1927 with a stock company in Yonkers, N. Y. The visiting actors, noticing his broken nose, invited McMahon to play a bit as a prizefighter.

The following year he was summoned to a road company of the play, "Rivalry," in Pittsburgh. "Broadway" was a daughter . . . His next three years were similarly colorful . . . Then he joined the Theatre Guild's production of "Liliom" with Joseph Schildkraut's first Broadway role was a negative . . . "Wonder Boy" in 1931 . . . "I had one line—'What's she like?'—and I got it wrong," he recalls. "I properly I had no business being in theatre," he says. Fortunately, he made the grade.

His first movie was in 1935, "Sailor Beware" In 1933, and his next three years were "China Men on a Horse." In which he met his actress who was to become his wife in 1938—Louise Campbell . . . McMahon and his bride went to Hollywood when Miss Campbell signed a movie contract to Paramount and McMahon was temporarily divorced. The day after his arrival, however, he got a "break" and was part in "Double Wedding" and he was the storyboard for their lovely, young girls—Marie Wilson, Ann Sheridan and Jane Wyman.

In his first year in Hollywood he made 36 feature movies . . . By my count, Mr. Lee was as a gangster and that started me on the hoodlum merry-go-round," he said. He has since appeared in about 125 feature movies.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

Must A Girl Be A 'Wallflower'?

A young lady writes: "Last month I went to my first high school dance. Everyone said I looked 'real nice' and the girls were all so nice. The problem is, I wasn't asked to dance—not by boys my age or any of the high school boys. I socialized as best I could, so I wouldn't be left sitting there, but . . . The next dance is coming up soon. Should I go and give them the chance to 'walk all over me' or stay away altogether? I want to make every dance I can but I don't want to get the reputation as a wallflower."

The high school dance represents one American arena that hasn't changed much since the days of the straw hat. There is a ring [one commonly involving dancers on the floor while girls sit it out, wishing someone would ask them to dance. Some boys are so busy showing off their dancing abilities others even though they come in the door, they're afraid to ask a girl for a dance, even if she is "sitting it out." And, let's face it, some boys just come to hear the music, not to dance, without any intentions of dancing.

Sometimes a girl has to take the initiative. The girl could, of course, in a "date" for the dance. Most of the girls do not the dances are those who come alone. This is especially true as the boy who brings a girl to a dance feels obligated to see that she doesn't sit too many of the dances. Sometimes a girl has to come alone. If so, she should forget about being a "wallflower" and set out to enjoy the evening by dancing with one boy after another, making conversation, just being friendly. Sooner or later, someone will ask for a dance. Or—along will come some boy that the girl knows well enough to politely say "Charlie, aren't you going to ask me to dance?"

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation you'd like to make, write to "Teen Talk," Box 99, Radio City Station, New York 19, N. Y. Letters will be answered in this column. Unfortunately, it is impossible to answer individual letters.
