three important factors in buying curing, be wet. humid weather.

A high moisture level for 24 hours or longer in the curing barn, for instance, will produce a red leaf which is relatively soft and easy to handle.

When the barn doors are closed, the curing atmosphere is fresh air, and results in a fresh, ruffled, mottled appearance.

Moisture content in barns can be controlled fairly well in good or fair weather by open curing and closing the side-wall.

As a general rule, side ventilators should be open in the morning and closed in the afternoon.

Duck season shortened

Frankfort, Ky. — A shorter duck season with a bag limit of four and a possession limit of eight after two or more days of hunting has been announced for Kentucky's waters by Major Clark, Commissioner of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

The shorter season on ducks and geese was brought about by a drastic reduction in the number of ducks and geese in the state this year.
