National Guard unit to hold open house, observe Muster Day

Next Sunday, February 21, the Carlisle National Guard Unit will observe National Muster Day and will be open to the public from 2:00 until 4:00 p.m. (est time).

The idea for National Guard Muster Day" had its origin in Centralia, Washington where the state-hundred men of the community were "mustered" on the village green once a year for a roll call and inspection of arms.

The National Guard, succeeding to the Organized Militia, will celebrate a day each year to the date when the original Nicholas Continental militia was mustered into service. Each member of the unit will attend.

One leader in the community have been invited as special guests.

An invitation is extended to one and all to visit the National Guard armory on Sunday, February 21st, from 2 to 4 p.m. to observe the facilities, equipment and present members of the unit demonstrating just what and how their make use of the various items of equipment that the local unit has and maintain.

Court term resumes Friday

Monday's meeting of the Nicholas County grand jury was postponed until Friday by Circuit Judge A. B. Barker of Cynthiana. All members of the jury were unable to reach Carlisle due to an accumulation of ice roads.

Just like NYC

New York City hasn't a thing on Carlisle, Rector W. Smart, state highway engineer, had the crews out Tuesday morning spreading snow into a pile along Main street, salting down the two skim, and otherwise making for a smoother flow of traffic. The Mercury photographer thinking this would make a great picture got the crews together, hauled the sled, a load of snow and proudly returned to the office and announced the full Pictorial dish—but a blurred picture. Oh, if I had just kept my mouth shut!

Court hears testimony in fiscal court dog law

The following article which appeared in the Feb. 4 issue of The Mercury is being reprinted at the request of Sen. E. Hunter Blake, who informs us that neither a dog nor a kennel was mentioned in the information from him.

Testimony by C. S. Mercer of a fiscal court law he had introduced to allow counties in their country to comply with the Kentucky dog law.

It was pointed out by the State Department of Agriculture which cited a recent opinion by the Court of Appeals.

It is possible, the court ruled, that the fiscal court has this claim released by the State Department of Agriculture, but the county did not appear in the matter and maintain at this time that it is not liable for the claims.

In such a case, the court believes, the county would be liable for damages from the individual members of the fiscal court who voted for the law and failed or neglected to perform their duties under the law which they are a member. The law also provides fines and imprisonment for members who fail to comply.

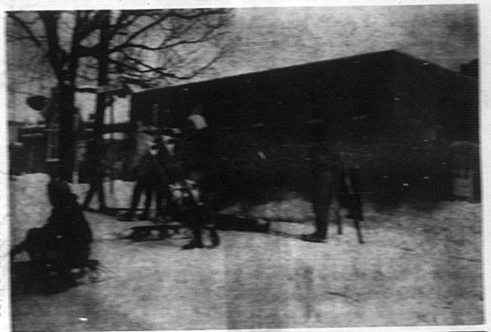
County schools resume classes after two-day holiday, many rural roads impassable; 6-foot drifts reported



CRAWLING IS FUN—At least someone had a good time with all the snow and plenty of children were sledding on the Chapin hill Wednesday and Thursday. Sunday night Ware's weather Observer said will end in the Sun through.—Mercury photo.

Most roads in Nicholas County re-opened from their closure of ice and snow Tuesday afternoon and Nicholas County schools resumed operation Wednesday.

Official meetings of the county Soil Conservation and Extension Service were held in Carlisle with drifts measuring in some sections of six feet. Nicholas County schools remained closed Monday and Tuesday.

Most rural roads were blocked and many farmers were unable to get their feed to their livestock. Many farmers were forced to open a roadway to the main highways.

Schools

Many students returning home early Saturday afternoon found bills impassable and for a while some 25 to 30 cars and trucks were stalled on the Bethel hill on the Moorefield road.

Most rural farmers were able to commence their rural routes Monday with their school buses as each side road was cleared. Bus routes were then used to clear the roads through piled up snow to the roadside and main roads open.

Snow Prepared

In Carlisle Bill Vaughn and Emery Heller used a bulldozer and road grader to clear the streets and keep the fire truck over all city streets. Only a few side streets were not finished by stalled cars, so that the city fire truck could be reached in any section of the city in case of a fire.

One fire alarm was answered Sunday night, when a car belonging to Lennard Fox of Dorcas caught fire. The fire truck was called and extinguished the blaze before it had burned very far.

The power was accompanied by a cold wave Sunday night and the mercury went much below zero Monday morning.

Carlisle was not alone in the snow, however, as Ware's Weather Observer said in his forecast Sunday night, "Our 6 to 12 inch snow will be followed by another 6 to 12 inch snow Monday through Wednesday."

Ware's forecast was correct as to the amount of snow, but the second storm was delayed by the low temperatures which kept the snow from falling until Tuesday morning.

Social Security meeting reset for Wednesday afternoon, February 24

The Social Security meeting that was scheduled for Monday afternoon, February 22 has been rescheduled for Wednesday afternoon, February 24 at 2:00 p.m., CST in the County Courthouse. This announcement has been made because of insurmountable road conditions that prevented many persons attending the meeting held this week.

The Social Security meeting will be open to the general public for the purpose of informing farmers and others of the advantages of Social Security and other obligations and opportunities.

Fewer persons over 65 in Nicholas County are receiving benefits under the Old Age and Survivors Insurance program of Social Security than any other county in Kentucky, it was announced this week by Social Security officials. Only 1221 are receiving benefits in November of 1959 as compared to 1340 in 1958 and 1398 in December and 1336 in September.

"It is probable true that not quite all can qualify for Social Security benefits," a Social Security person, including farmers, can. The latter part of the year, Social Security taxes for farmers and other self-employed persons increased from 3½ to 4½ percent, a requirement and not a change.

Carlisle native testifies before Sub-committee

On January 21 the Committee on Foreign Relations—Subcommittee on Europe—approved a resolution designed to encourage President Eisenhower to invite Premier Nikita Khrushchev of the Communist Union to be Guest of the United States. This action is directly related to a letter written by Pat Cleveland, native of Carlisle, now living in Atlanta, on December 9, 1959 to Senator Sam Ervin, Jr. Senator Ervin's reply and the resolution which was introduced by Senator Fulbright on January 21 and passed by the Committee on January 28.

Mr. Cleveland is employed by the Southern Railway System in Atlanta. He is a graduate of Carlisle High School and attended Georgia Tech. He is married to the former Miss Lucy Ann Hutcheson of Atlanta.

Mr. Cleveland's letter to Senator Ervin and Senator Ervin's reply are as follows:

Atlanta, Georgia
December 9, 1959

Dear Sam:

Because of the closeness and friendship existing between us, I am writing you this letter. I shall take it about time to tell you how we read every one of the Senator Ervin's speeches.

I suppose that the United States Senate is the only place in the world where a man can get up and speak his mind freely and openly without fear of reprisal. That action is directly related to a letter written by Pat Cleveland, native of Atlanta, on December 9, 1959 to Senator Sam Ervin, Jr. Senator Ervin's reply and the resolution which was introduced by Senator Fulbright on January 21 and passed by the Committee on January 28.
