Why don't they?

As someone said to us the other evening, "Why don't people in Carlisle clean the ice and snow from their sidewalks?" After all there is an ordinance to that effect.

We don't know—but it would be a good idea. They are not physically able to do so.

They do not have sufficient funds to enable them to hire someone else to do the task for them.

Who would they get to do the job, even if they had?

They just don't care if their fellow man is inconvenienced by their inaction.

That maybe it is just because the authorities don't get tough and enforce the ordinance.

Censorship by taxation

The following editorial is reprinted from the American Press:

"The cost of advertising to promote or defeat legislation or to influence the public."

Six to 11 inches of snow falls; one hurt as water heater explodes

Thursday, February 15, 1940

The heaviest snow of the winter fell here Tuesday and Wednesday night and Wednesday morning with unofficial records being made for the amount of snow. The snow was accompanied by a cold wave with thermometers falling to 18 degrees above and below zero Tuesday night. About half an inch of snow was reported by the school teachers who were unable to make their rounds.

Dr. W. H. Hopkins, local physician and surgeon, sustained several fractured ribs and minor cuts and bruises last Thursday night when his automobile collided with another car on the corner of U. S. highway 69 near the home of J. Clarke Lott.

February 15, 1940 was the Ockerman MARRIED—Miss Emma Atkinson. The official recording in Kentucky.

FARM BUREAU in Action

table year for the meat packers, retail outlets that sell the products. The farmer has the most concern that handle the meat products. Between the farmer and the packer, the only weak link in the chain was the extent that they were not getting their own price for the product.

The reason farmers aren't able to hold their own in the meat industry when it comes to prices and profits is the fact that the extent that they are not getting their own price for the product.
