CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Christ Jesus' inspiring mission of healing and redemption will be the central topic at Christian Science church services this Sunday.

The Lesson-Sermon entitled "Christ Jesus" will include this passage from John (10: 37, 38): "If I do not the works of my Father, believe me not. But if I do, though ye believe not me, believe the works: that ye may know, and believe, that the Father is in me, and I in him."

And from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, this citation will be read (26: 14): "Divine Truth, Life, and Love gave Jesus authority over sin, sickness, and death.- His mission was to reveal the Science of Celestial being, to prove what God is and what He does for man."

returned an indictment against James C. Neisius for failure to comply with orders of the court for support of his children.

Commonwealth of Kentucky vs Don Smart. The grand jury examined one witness and returned an indictment against Don Smart for failure to comply with orders of the Court for support of his children.

Commonwealth of Kentucky vs Harold A. Hog. The grand jury examined one witness and returned an indictment against Harold A. Hog for forgery.

The grand jury also heard other witnesses in connection with the failure of Virgil Townsend to properly support and provide for his family. The grand jury recommended that this case again be investigated by the grand jury which will convene at the May term of the Nicholas Circuit Court and if the conditions at the home of Virgil Townsend have not improved this grand jury would recommend an indictment or him.

Members of the grand jury visited and inspected property owned by Nicholas County. They recommend that the Fiscal Court investigate what appears to be an over-load on the wiring at the Johnson Memorial Hospital, and make certain improvements in the walls and ceiling of the kitchen at the jail.

All of which the grand jury of the February Term, 1960 respectfully reports to the Court and having completed its duties on February 18 respectfully requests that it be discharged.

East Ky. RECC to build $25 million plant

H L. Spurlock, General Manager of the East Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation, Winchester, announced Friday that the East Kentucky Board of Directors has selected Burnside, Ky., as the site for its proposed $25,000,000 electric generating station. Certain related transmission facilities are included in this figure.

Spurlock stated that several sites in the Burnside area are under consideration. He added that construction of the station is scheduled to start during 1960, with actual operation of the station as a generating unit expected in 1964.

East Kentucky RECC with general offices in Winchester, Kentucky, supplies the wholesale power requirements for 16 distribution rural electric cooperatives serving some 130,000 farms, homes, schools, industries, and business institutions in 80 Kentucky counties.

The East Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperative presently operates the William C. Dale Power Station, located at Ford, Kentucky, 10 miles south of Winchester on the Kentucky River. The Dale Station, the largest rural electric generation in operation, has a capacity of 110,000 kilowatts. A fourth unit is under construction at the Dale Station, which will bring the capacity of this facility to 176,000 kilowatts. This fourth unit is scheduled to go on the line during the second half of 1960.

The Burnside generating station is necessitated, Spurlock added, due to the increased use of power by the members and receiving service and the increasing number of consumers being served from the 16 distribution cooperatives' lines.

It is estimated that the Burnside Plant, with an initial capacity of 100,000 kilowatts, will reach a capacity of 500,000 kilowatts by 1975. When completed, the total investment at the Burnside Plant may exceed $80,000,000. This figure would include certain related transmission facilities.

The coal requirements of the Burnside Plant will be met from the south-eastern and eastern Kentucky coal fields. It is estimated that the coal consumption will be approximately 250,000 tons per year during initial operations, and may reach the one million tons per year figure by 1975.

The initial unit of 100,000 kilowatt capacity will utilize approximately 40 employees on the operating staff. This will mean an estimated annual payroll in the initial unit of approximately $200,000. The ultimate employment at the plant may reach 150 or more by 1975 with an annual payroll of approximately $750,000.

Black shank incidence higher in '59 crop

More than 1,900 tobacco farmers reported presence of black shank, destructive tobacco fungus, during the 1959 crop year, the UK Cooperative Extension Service said this week. The fungus caused an estimated $269,180 loss in income from tobacco, the report said. A few fields were destroyed.

It was present in 53 counties. 680 farms reported its presence for the first time; but 456 farmers, who had moved their tobacco production to new, "clean" land reported no losses from the fungus.

At the same time, the service's tobacco specialists said, 924 farmers used infested fields for their 1959 crop.

The 1959 monetary loss was the second highest in the last four years, but the loss was slightly more than half as high as 1957, when the loss was estimated at $475,971.

"Black shank was found on many upland fields this year (1959) for the first time," said Ira Massie, specialist. "Black shank is spreading rapidly. Farmers are not paying enough attention to controlling this disease. Burley 11A, and 11B have been giving good results where they have been used with rotations and clean equipment."

The 100-foot Broke Leg Falls is created by the spilling of a mountain stream over a rocky shelf three miles east of Frenchburg, Ky.

Unusual coral formations on the bottom of the Ohio River are visible in the vicinity of the Falls of the Ohio at Louisville. This also is a favorite fishing spot.

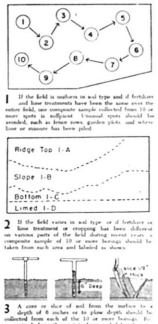
just as soon as possible in order to avoid the last minute rush. It is anticipated that there will be considerable rush in securing and applying limestone.

"Don't Cheat Yourself — Take Good Soil Samples," Says Your County Agent

A soil test is the best guide to determine what plant nutrients to buy and apply so that those nutrients in the soil will be balanced for the crop that is to be grown. The soil test is a guide in determining when and how much limestone should be applied so that the greatest returns can be obtained from the fertilizer bought

The test is no better than the soil sample taken from the field or area to be treated. The accompanying illustrations show how to get good soil samples.



1 If the field is uniform in soil type or if fertilizer and lime treatments have been the same over the entire field, one composite sample collected from 10 or more spots, as shown in the illustration, should be avoided, such as lister rows, garden plots, and where lime or manure have piled.

2 If the field varies in soil type or if fertilizer or lime treatments have been different in various parts, a composite sample of 10 or more borings should be taken from each area and labeled as shown.

3 A core or slice of soil from the surface to a depth of 6 inches is the sample to be collected from each area. Use 10 or more borings. To assure uniformity of the sample, mix the soil cores in a bucket before you take out the sample for testing.

4 The numbers count from the 10 or more borings that should be placed in a clean pail or box. Be careful not to lose or leave out any soil from the inside of the container. This will ruin an otherwise good sample. Soil samples can be taken when the soil is wet, but crumbling or pulverizing should be delayed until the soil is partly dried.

5 If the soil crumbles easily pulverize and thoroughly mix the collected borings as above. Then spread on a clean piece of paper or cloth and form a square about one inch deep. Divide square into four equal parts. Discard two opposite parts, including all soil that touches the paper. Repeat mixing and quartering process until you have about a pint of soil left.

6 When the soil is air dried, thoroughly mix again, put one pint in a paper bag or box. Label with your name, address, and the field number. Deliver the sample to the County Extension Office before April 15 and get the soil treatment and enjoying bet ter farm

COMMENT

Kay T. Fisher

This is the first time a recipe has ever appeared in Comment. When I read this one in the Sebewaing Michigan Blade, I thought it rather unique.

To figure out the "puzzle", you'll need a Bible—unless you know your texts a lot better than most people. I looked it all up Sunday afternoon and it is really all there.

Here is the recipe:

SCRIPTURE CAKE

4 ½ Cups of 1 Kings 4:22
1 ½ Cups of Judges 5:25
2 Cups of Jeremiah 6:20
Cups of 1 Samuel 30-12.
2 Cups of Nahum 3-12
1 Cup of Numbers 17-8
2 Tsps 1 Samuel 14-25
6 Of Jeremiah 17-11
Cup of Judges 4-19
Pinch of Leviticus 2-13
1 Teaspoon of Amos 4-5
Season to taste 2 Chronicles 9-9

It's an old, old recipe, and can probably be found in many an ancient cook book

Students visit State Capitol

by Brenda Bach

Tuesday, February 9 58 pupils from the fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh grades took a trip to Frankfort, Kentucky. Marion George, bus driver. Miss Betty Jacobs and Mrs. James Simons, teachers, and Mrs. Malcolm Hardwick went with us.

First, we went to the Old Capitol. Downstairs we saw portraits old toys, the old mail carrier, three cannons, and the Liberty Bell. We had a guide who told us interesting things about each one. She told us who constructed the building and when; she said if the stairs were to slip ½ of an inch they would fall. She took us upstairs and we saw portraits of all the governors. We saw guns and hats of many varieties. Of all, we were most interested in the silver dishes that took two people to lift the largest spoon. We saw uniforms and the coat which William Gobel wore when he was killed. We saw the flags that represented the different countries. There we bought souvenirs. We had a nice time.

We ate our lunch at the Conservation Farm. Inside the building were stuffed animals and birds. Outside we saw peacocks, doves, pigeons, a mountain lion, two bears, foxes, wolves, and quails. We enjoyed seeing these animals.

Then we went down the new highway to the new Capitol. We saw Senator Blake and Representative Brooks Hinkle. We saw statues of great people. We went up into the Senate Chamber to watch the Senators make laws. We saw them vote on the electric voting machine. Gilda Anderson of the fourth grade and Joe Henning of the Seventh grade served as pages. No school could have learned any more than Parks School learned that day.

The day was over all too soon and now to tell our parents about our wonderful day spent in the Capitol.

Glen Lily, home of Simon Bolivar Buckner, Confederate general and former governor of Kentucky, is at Munfordville. The town was also the home of Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, who was killed on Okinawa in World War II.

In October, 1706, one of the worst Indian massacres in Kentucky history occured at the present site of Levi Jackson State Park.

Miss Newton Weds Winfred C. Hughes

The marriage of Miss Betty Ann Newton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newton of Lexington, and Winfred C. Hughes of Lexington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hughes of Carlisle, took place at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Ashland Avenue Baptist Church, with the Rev. Clarence Walker officiating at the double ring ceremony. He was assisted by the Rev J. B. Masterson

The church was decorated with palms, ferns and tapers in candelabra. David Ward of Versailles, vocalist, and Mrs. Patsy Carl, cousin of the bride, presented a program of wedding music

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white lace and tulle over silk taffeta designed with fitted bodice of lace, long sleeves pointed over the wrists, and Sabrina neckline of scalloped lace sprinkled with sequins. A scalloped lace peplum was over the full tulle skirt which terminated in a chapel train Her fingertip veil bordered with lace was held in place by a shell-shaped cap of beaded lace and she carried a white orchid on a white Bible.

Mrs. James Newton was her sister's matron of honor and wore a ballerina frock of blue silk organza fashioned with a high neckline She wore a matching headpiece and carried a bouquet of white American Beauty roses.

In identical ensembles were the bridesmaids, Miss Naomi Riggs of Lexington and Miss Judy Hughes of Carlisle, sister of the bridegroom. Janice Ballard, the flower girl, wore a frock of organza over taffeta and carried a nosegay of sweetheart rosebuds.

Leslie Thomas Edwards of Lexington was the ring bearer

Don Hughes of Carlisle was his brother's best man. Ushers included Jack Debolt of Sharpsburg, James and Carl Newton of Lexington, brothers of the bride, and James Mathers of Pleasureville, the bridegroom's fraternity brother.

A reception was held at the church. The bride's table held a four-tiered cake.

When they return from a wedding trip to Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Hughes will live at 1638 Lindy Lane, Lexington.

A graduate of Lafayette high school, the bride attended Fayanzi Business School and the University of Kentucky She is employed at IBM.

Mr. Hughes was graduated from Carlisle high school. He served four years in the Air Force, and now work for Southeastern Greyhound Lines.
