hills and the Golden Horn could easily be the Ohio except for the larger ships that come in and out. It is not safe to trust information given you by anyone in Istanbul. One comes to think that they want to mislead one. You will be cheated outrageously. I don't think that even in New York one would find such dishonesty among the people. It makes one tremble to think that our government puts so much trust in a country like this. Expediency is a terrible thing. A newspaper article stated that "All hope is in America, the stronghold of freedom". I wondered if a people could really be free where there is so much dishonesty.

I had reservations for Zurich —but something was wrong with the plane and we were shifted to a Middle East plane —that took us to Vienna. We were put up in a very fine hotel and all of the passengers became friends. The opera was in full swing, and the music lived up to the reputation of Vienna. I had hoped to go out to the Vienna Woods—but it was too far and there wasn't time. We flew to Innsbruck and enjoyed the beauty of this resort place nestled among the high mountains. We had very little time there but flew on to Zurich and got there just in time for church.

Zurich is a beautiful city. I enjoyed the Grossemunster Church, where Zwingli the great Swiss reformer and patriot preached. We had a delightful ride on a ship up the lake, enjoyed the opera but I was in a hurry to get up to the Jungfrau. The fast and comfortable Swiss trains took us up to Interlaken and then the funicular railway slowly but surely took us on up the alp to Weingen where we spent the night. The next morning we went on up, through the ice of the glacier to the Jungfraujoch. There are many things to see up there—but the vast expanse of ice and snow takes your interest and keeps it. I find the "palace" interesting. We had lunch there as near the top of this famous and popular peak as one can safely get without guides and climbing outfits. On the way down the guide cheeked Swiss young man told us of foolish people who try to climb without guides and come to great harm and even lose their lives. He told of many rescue parties he had been on, and of friends and relatives who had lost their lives trying to save people who got lost. He said such activities made you good friends with our fellows "back at home".

I went on to Berne and Geneva. At Geneva I went out to the Chateau de Bossey—the chateau owned by the World Council of Churches on Lake Geneva (Lac Lehman). It was a kind of pilgramage for it was here that I spent three weeks at a meeting for theological students of the World Council in 1950.

From Geneva I flew on to Brussels and then to Amsterdam. In Amsterdam I enjoyed many and various things—from the diamond cutting exhibit to the Ryks, or State museum, which houses a large collection of Dutch and Flemish paintings. Rembrandts are magnificent but I bought a reproduction of the WINDMILL by Jacob Ruysdael which I thought was ways been one of my favorites. The windmills in Holland are few and far between—and those are left only for atmosphere. We took a trip out to the Hague to see the World Court and around the country. I saw them filling in the famous "Zider Zee" to make some more land to grow more grass to feed some more cows to make some more cheese. I bought some cheese and had it sent home. There was a play in Amsterdam called "Gold in Dutch." It was in English and had been running over a year. It was a comedy and depended for its humor on a play on words. I thought the Dutch very erudite to be able to understand it.

Flew to Manchester where I was not surprised to see smoke and soot. From there to Dublin—(I'm sure C. S. Lewis had Dublin in mind when he described the "Grey Town" or hell in his book THE GREAT DIVORCE). Belfast Ireland is a busy and attractive place. Flew to the glacier to the Jungfraujoch and was in Gander, Newfoundland early the next morning. Had breakfast in New York. It was good to get home—but my heart is still in Europe. We trip will always be a treasured memory and a source of inspiration.

Carlisle's city council met in regular session Monday night, February 1 with the following councilmen present:

Robert D. Coatney, William G. Harper, Rector W. Simms, Emery Hollar and William H. Frey.

Appearing before council were Clifford Shumate and Attorney Charles M. Cox, representing the Giffin Manufacturing Company and Factory Insurance Association. Ten specifications concerning fire protection relative to the Giffin plant were noted and two points which had not been complied with, brought to the council attention.

These points dealt with the addition of automatic controls to the present water system. The estimated cost by the engineering firm of Howard K. Bell and Son was between $2,500 and $3,000.

Council on the motion by Councilman Coatney, Jr., voted to purchase necessary controls for the pumping system at the lake, provided the cost did not exceed $3,000.

The matter brought to council attention was the fact, that Giffin's would maintain a watchman on a 24-hour basis and a suitable alarm system could be devised to notify Oliver Vice, fire chief, in the event of a fire. Installation of the automatic controls at the reservoir might result in lower rates for other businesses and residences.

Building Permits

Council granted building permits to Paul Smoot to construct curb and gutter along Chestnut street behind his residence; Paul Tincher to construct a concrete porch and two other additions; Bob Anderson permission to erect a city street with sewer line.

Voted to install a street light in the alleyway behind the residences of Alec Crawford and O. B. Conrad.

To pay $1.75 per month to Elise Cross on each fulltime city employee who wishes to join the group.

Gave Water Works Superintendent Oliver Vice a $400 a year increase in salary;

Donated $16.85, one day's parking meter collection, to the New March of Dimes;

Refused to take action on a proposed gas rate increase;

Accepted the sale of the franchise to the Kentucky Utilities Company which was sold on Saturday, Jan. 23 to KU the highest and only bidder for $260.20.

Conducted routine business and order current bills paid.

4 Parking Meters To Be Removed

Council voted to remove four yellow parking meters from loading zones in front of the following places:

Scott Produce, Townsend Cleaners, Neal's Grocery and the meter between the pool hall and Western Auto. These loading zones have a 10-minute limit for loading or unloading.

Fire Department Report

Council heard report of Oliver Vice, fire chief, on the specifications as recommended by the state fire marshall's office for compliance by the local fire department. No action was taken in this matter.

Bealert, Morris cutting trial set for Friday

The February term of Nicholas circuit court which began Monday has set the trial of Leonard Morris, charged with cutting and wounding of City Patrolman William T. Bealert for Friday morning, February 5 at 9:30 o'clock.

Mr. Bealert was cut with a straight razor wielded by Morris on the evening of Nov. 22 as the patrolman attempted to arrest both Morris and Mrs. Morris, who fled to his home on High street in Jorserville. He was later arrested by State Trooper Ed Post and Carlisle Police Chief Eugene Purvis. He appeared before County Judge Floyd Clark on Monday. Nov. 23 at a court of inquiry where he was held to the grand jury under bond of $6,500 and returned to the Nicholas County jail in default of bond.

Bourbon boy is electricuted

A 15-year-old Millersburg boy was accidentally electrocuted last Friday afternoon while two companions urged him to stop jerking on a wire hanging from a power-line pole.

Roy Allen Booth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Lee Booth, was pronounced dead after his body was brought in a pickup truck —flagged down by the victim's companions—to a Millersburg physician's office.

Deputy Sheriff James Pruitt said Booth and Carl Pergram, 19, and James Ritchie, 16, also of Millersburg, were exploring the countryside" about 2 p.m. last Thursday when they came to a utilities pole at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Pogue just across the Bourbon county line in Nicholas County.

The officers said Booth's companions told him that Booth grabbed a ground wire on the pole and began tugging at it until it came loose near the ground. Booth's companions' warning him to leave the wire alone, the deputy reported, Booth kept yanking at it until he had loosened it a considerable distance up the pole.

While Booth was whipping the copper wire around, the boys told the officer, it came in contact with a power line which sent a powerful current through Booth's body, knocking him to the ground.

Pergram told the deputy that he picked up a stick and knocked the ground wire loose from Booth's hand.

The two boys then ran to the highway nearby and flagged down a pickup truck—whose driver was not identified—loaded their unconscious companion into the truck and started to the Paris hospital.

But when they reached Millersburg they stopped at the office of Dr. V. C. Mosley who pronounced Booth dead.

Deputy Sheriff Pruitt said Nicholas County Coroner Ralph Shearer later pronounced the boys death due to accidental electrocution.

The victim is survived by his parents; two brothers, Raymond Lee and Billy Truman Booth, Millersburg; five sisters, Mrs. Francis Florence, Mrs. Warner Ramey and Mrs. Ronald Perry, Bourbon county;
