ANSWERS TO YOUR TAX QUESTIONS BY WILLIAM E. SCENT
KENTUCKY'S COMMISSIONER OF REVENUE

Q. What is the sales tax and when does it go into effect?

A. Effective July 1, the new sales and use tax, enacted by the 1960 legislature, goes into effect. To explain briefly the sales tax, it is a "vendor" type tax, which means the tax is paid by the person who makes the last sale before the property is used. This person may, however, pass the tax on to the final consumer. If he does, he will use the bracket prescribed by the Revenue Department. That is:

Sale of	Tax Due
$ .01 to $ .14	None
.15 to .44	.01
.45 to .74	.02
.75 to 1.14	.03 and so forth through each additional dollar.

No tax stamps will be required in connection with retail sales, since it is a 3% tax on the merchant's gross receipts.

The tax applies only to tangible personal property. This means that professional services, such as doctors, accountants, etc., are not taxable as in the case also with real estate, stocks and bonds, salaries, wages, commissions or labor charges.

It does apply, however, to admission to theaters and spectator sports and hotel or motel meals for less than 90 consecutive days.

There will be no additional charges on sales of water, electricity, gas and telephone and telegraph. While the sales tax will apply to these sales, at the same time the gross utilities tax of 3% is removed.

Q. What is the use tax?

A. The use tax is a sort of "back stop" for the sales tax and applies to purchases made from an out-of-state retailer. The rate of tax is also 3% and is paid directly to the department by the consumer of the property unless the out-of-state retailer is registered to collect in Kentucky. You should be careful not to pay the use tax to an out-of-state retailer who is not registered.

Little Rock

by Mrs. Perry Vice

School closed here Friday after a very successful term with Brooks Hinkle as principal. Thirty-two elementary school students from Little Rock received certificates of graduation from the 8th grade Thursday night at the elementary school commencement exercises at the Bourbon County high school, Paris, where 152 students were represented.

The 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th grades of the Little Rock school accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Hinkle, Mrs. Eugene Hyden, Mrs. Lacorda Dale and Eddie Montgomery enjoyed an all day outing to Natural Bridge State Park Tuesday.

"No...Belief in God Is NOT Enough!"

Many people are risking their eternal salvation on a "religion" of their own . . . which is actually no religion at all.

"Oh, I believe in God," they say, "but I don't go to church. I'm just not the religious type."

Almost everybody, of course, believes that there is a God. Common sense tells us that this is so. But if we actually believe there is a God, should not this same common sense tell us we must do something about it? And how can we give expression to our belief in God if not through religion?

Religion is simply the consequence of our realization of What God is. It is our striving to be honest and consistent with this knowledge—to learn and fulfill our duties to our Creator.

Catholics believe that God created us for a definite purpose . . . that He gave us the intelligence to recognize what that purpose is—and the means to fulfill it. It is through our religion that we give evidence of our desire to honor and serve God. It is through religion that we approach God in faith, repentance, love and gratitude . . .

If you are living in the belief that you don't need religion . . . that all you have to do is to believe in God and live a moral life . . . we urge you to ask yourself these questions—NOW: "Why am I living? Why did God create Me?" The most elementary common sense answer is that you are living because God created you . . . and that God has a purpose in doing so. Catholics believe it is our duty to find out what God's plan is for our lives—and do our best to live it.

If you have been living without any deep religious convictions . . . it will pay you to read a specially-prepared pamphlet which we will send you in a plain wrapper, without cost or obligation . . . and nobody will call on you. It discusses such questions as: Can the truth of Christianity be proved? Is it honest to ignore religion? Is science, ethics or education a substitute for the Church? Also other topics that should concern you deeply. For free copy write today . . . ask for Pamphlet No. KC-18.

COOPERATION is a Kentucky tradition!

HOUSE WARMINGS . . . OR WARMING HOUSES!

A new house has always meant a house warming here in Kentucky. Old friends and new neighbors all turn out. All the new modern conveniences from electric heat to built-in ranges get demonstrated. Dinners get cooked and children bedded down. And everyone shows up with one of those small gifts that quickly turn a house into a home. Taking the work out of moving in is another example of neighborly cooperation.

Rural electrification is neighborly cooperation, too. Kentucky's Rural Electric Co-ops . . . created by folks who got together to make a better life for themselves . . . are a good example of how neighborly cooperation serves our Commonwealth. As the countryside has brightened and prospered, so the townspeople have benefitted too. The new rural prosperity made possible by electrification is spent in cities and towns.

Rural Electricity Benefits Everyone

COOPERATION brings electricity to 8,720 rural Families in Fleming, Mason, Robertson, Nicholas, Lewis, Bracken, Bath and Rowan counties.

A PUBLICATION EVERY KENTUCKY BUSINESSMAN SHOULD HAVE ON HAND

Associated Industries of Kentucky has announced the publication of a Kentucky Sales and Use Tax Manual which pulls together in one place the text of the law, all regulations and revisions up to press time, several hundred questions and answers about application of the tax, copies of the major forms to be used, plus comments and tips from the Department of Revenue on things to do.

AIK says that so far as it knows this is the only place that all this information is assembled in one place and made available to Kentucky businessmen. Publication of the manual was undertaken for the specific purpose of making it easier for business concerns to "find out what the score is" on their many problems.

The Kentucky Sales and Use Tax Manual can be ordered from Associated Industries of Kentucky, 201 Commerce Building, Louisville 2, Kentucky, at $2.00 per copy.

County Extension Office Clearing House for Tobacco Plant Distribution

The County Extension Office, located in the basement of the Carlisle Post Office, telephone: 36, will act as a clearing house for Nicholas County tobacco growers who may wish to secure tobacco plants, or who may have extra tobacco plants that will be available to others in the county.

Of course, it is expected that Nicholas Growers will provide plants to neighbors and friends first, but in some cases there may be extra plants that could be made available to someone else in the county. If our Office can be of service in this plant emergency situation, please phone if you have extra plants or if you need plants.

4-H Week Delegates

Eight Nicholas County 4-H delegates attended the 37th Annual 4-H Week held on the campus of the University of Kentucky June 7-11. Attending from Nicholas County was Judy Caswell, Lynda Snelling, Rose Ann Simons, Luann Ellington, James B. Barton, Raymond Manley, Jr., Paul Dampier, Arnold Creech.

The week started with a get acquainted party Tuesday night with folk games and ballroom dancing, movies and singing. As the week progressed the delegates heard speakers talk on important subjects. Some of the speakers heard during the week were: Dr. Frank G. Dickey, President, University of Kentucky, Honorable Bert Combs, Governor of Kentucky, Coach Adolph Rupp, Dr. Charles E. Irvin, from General Motors.

The week was an exciting one filled with fun as well as interesting subjects of discussion. Each delegate was given a chance to voice their opinion on every speaker's message through discussion groups and then reporting their discussion to the entire group. The week came to a close on Friday afternoon as the 4-H delegates were given a free evening to do as they please. Joyland Amusement park offered free tickets for swimming and also for the different rides to the 4-H delegates and a good time was had by all attending.

Recipe of the Week

The simplest way to get all the good from milk is to drink it, but other dairy products, such as cottage cheese, cheddar cheese, ice cream, butter and cream are also valuable and have their special uses.

Dairy products may be added to many foods to increase their flavor and food value. For example, during the strawberry season which comes largely during June, Dairy Month, two of nature's most delicious foods may be combined in a dessert.

Strawberry Cheese Pie

1 baked pie shell
1 qt. strawberries
1 c (8 oz.) Cottage cheese
2 T cream
3/4 c sugar
2 T cornstarch
1/3 c water

Few drops red food coloring

Wash and stem strawberries, draining thoroughly. Cut half the berries in half. Force the cottage cheese through a strainer twice, then whip with the cream until light and fluffy. Spread half the mixture on the bottom of the pie shell, topping with the whole berries.

Blend sugar and cornstarch, add water and the halved berries. Cook until thickened, stirring. Add a few drops of red coloring, being careful not to add too much. Blend and remove from fire. Pour immediately into pie shell and chill. Serve with remaining whipped cheese, to which a teaspoon of sugar may be added if desired.

The home garden

By George A. Marlowe Jr., UK Cooperative Extension Service

Watering is one of the most abused practices in the home garden and persons looking for gardens of less work, more recreation and healthy vegetables should realize water is the keystone of plant growth.

Vegetables are primarily little bags of water. Concentrate, for instance, are 93 percent water. Most other vegetables are 90 percent water or more. A rule of thumb is that most vegetable plants require about one inch of water per week. This means that if it takes 27,000 gallons of water to cover an acre of land to a depth of one inch, we must convert the figure to fit our home gardens. When we break this down to home garden size, we find a garden should have about two quarts of water per square foot of garden space a week. This is a lot of water but watering is important and gardeners should actually apply this amount if rainfall is not bringing it to that level. Newspapers are a good guide to rainfall. They tell how much water has fallen. If only a half inch has fallen, gardeners should apply that other half inch. This means two quarts per square foot of garden space equals one inch of rainfall. Therefore, one quart equals a half inch of rainfall.

There are some tricks to proper water control. As the seedlings come up they require a good bit of water to start with. The next period of most need is when plants are sizing up their fruit. Too much water can damage plants, make the soil waterlogged. Plants cannot breathe through their roots, so to speak. Too little water causes wilting, poor growth, blossom drop and many other things.

Proper watering should be done as early in the day as possible to allow plants to go into the night with their leaves dry. Frequent light watering or infrequent heavier waterings are argued by many gardeners. I personally believe a single watering once a week, to give the garden a good shot of water, along with good soil practices, will be sufficient for high yields.

Do all you can to build up the organic matter in soils. This helps hold moisture, and if we mulch, we cut losses from evaporation. Plants lose a great deal of water each day and this is something we can NOT control. But we can cut down the evaporation from the soil by using mulches. By having sufficient organic matter in the soil, we help hold moisture when it rains.

See Extension Circular No. 539-A on "Home Gardens for Better Living," for hints on watering. It is available at county agents' offices free of charge.
