Why do most dryer owners dry clothes the modern ELECTRIC way?

When in Rome—or Ohio or Atlanta, Parkersburg or Knoxville, Adena, Albion or Parkersburg—American people and teachers do just about as they do at home. They use electric clothes dryers.

Ask your neighbor who owns one...

Do you know you can save up to $10 over flame-type dryers on the purchase price alone—that's enough to pay for the drying time of clothes the clean, safe, gentle electric way. You use all the way you save dollars on upkeep because electric dryers have fewer operating parts than flame-type ones. You also save on clothes—electric clothes dryers mean a much longer life for your clothes. And... you use less energy when you wash clothes.

So your good neighbor knows... you've money ahead with a modern electric clothes dryer. Ask her!

Rural Electrification...good for All Americans!

Business is better today—American's faster, jobs more secure in every geographic area and town. And—there's a good reason why.

This year—16 million's income, now served by non-profit rural electric systems, will buy over a billion dollars worth of electric appliances—made, sold and serviced in these cities and towns.

That was impossible 25 years ago. Then only one of ten American families, outside the city limits, had or could get electric power. That's why rural Americans, by working together, began to serve themselves with this necessity of modern living.

So—we cordially invite all Americans to share our joy as we celebrate the 25th Birthday of rural electrification. We are proud to have played a small but important part in bringing this "miracle" about. We are happy that rural electrification has proved to be "good for All Americans."

FARM BUREAU in Action

As any government program of managed change for agricultural purposes is undertaken, it is essential that the government be able to control the change.

After 25 years of failure, the Federal government has announced that it will change its policy on public lands.
