"Half an hour on my delivery job and I've paid for this week's electric water heating"

"With a new baby girl and two busy boys, we use lots of hot water at home," says Maynard File, Elizabethtown, Ky., "and the company's low 'off-peak' rate for electric water heating is something we're glad to take advantage of.

"But I never knew how big a bargain it was until I figured it out. The electricity for a whole week's water heating takes only what I make on a couple of deliveries—about a half-hour's work on my Fort Knox dry-cleaning route."

Mrs. File adds: "We never run out of hot water and I do two or three loads in my automatic clothes washer a day. I like the safety and dependability of electric water heating. We've never had a service call for our water heater since we bought it six years ago."
