Barterville

Dear Santa,

My name is Lisa Kay Morris. I am 2 years old. I want a doll, a buggy, and a tricycle for Christmas. Santa don't think I'm greedy because my mama and papa Morris are getting part of it for me. Bring my brother, Rocky Lane, a wagon and anything you think is suitable for a little 1 year old.

Don't forget my Great Grannie McKenzie and my Great Ma and Pa Morris. Also my Mama and Pa Pa Kelley. Please bring my Uncle and Aunt something nice too. I have been a good little girl. I will leave you some milk and cookies under the tree.

Love,

Lisa Kay Morris

Lice On Dairy and Beef Cattle

Winter is the worst time of the year for lice on dairy and beef animals. This is because cattle are crowded together more in the winter and are subject to constant reinfestation from lice-carrying animals. Also a thicker hair coat is of advantage to the lice. A back rubber is good as a preventative of lice on beef cattle or on dry dairy cows. However, a back rubber will not prove effective in stopping a real infestation of lice and should never be used on cows giving milk for human consumption.

The best way to kill lice on dairy cows is probably by using Methoxychlor or Malathion as a dust only. Methoxychlor or Malathion dust must not be used on milking dairy animals nearer than five hours before milking. Rotenone may be used on milking dairy animals as a spray or as a dust. Pyrethrum plus a synergist may be used as a spray.

For beef animals there are several materials that may be used effectively as a spray, dip or dust. These materials are the same ones that are effective against flies. At the County Extension Office, we have more information about lice on beef and dairy cattle and would be glad to have you drop by.

Growing Lima Beans In Kentucky

We have a problem in Kentucky, in growing lima beans. The large limas often have a poor set in our state. The v do O.K. but the beans may to set even with the distribu of superphosphate at the of five pounds per 100 feet Forchook 242 is probably "safest" large lima from standpoint of setting beans, it has good flavor and qua Much surer to bear are small-seeded limas such as Henderson's Bush, Clark's Bush Improved Thoroughreen. At Experiment Station at Lex ton some of these small-se lima beans have yielded much as 300 bushels per within pods.
