

Carlisle a city of trees

HOW MANY TREES?—It would be interesting to know how many trees there are per inhabitant in the city of Carlisle. From atop the court house most of the city's homes are obliterated by trees. In New York City it is reported that there are four trees for every inhabitant.—Mercury photos

FACTS ABOUT HAILSTORMS

Since the beginning of history man has sought ways to prevent hailstorms without success. One of the most interesting methods was devised years ago in France where giant lightning rods were installed. These rods were made of iron and were placed in the path of the storm clouds. The rods were connected to the ground by a wire. The rods were supposed to attract the lightning and prevent it from striking the crops. The rods were used for many years, but they were never successful in preventing hailstorms.

The only way to protect your crops against hail is with adequate Crop-Hail Insurance. Call us for full information.
