Coach Of The Year

Morehead State College basketball Coach Bobby Laughlin is quite a kidder. Following his win over Eastern in the Morehead Fieldhouse recently, I interviewed the boss of the Eagles before filing my report over WHAS. I wanted to know how Bobby had been able to go into the state of Kentucky to recruit his pair of 6'8" players, Ed Noe and Norm Pokley, who had just finished dominating the boards. "I was up there on vacation," Laughlin told me seriously, " and I was out swimming in one of those nice lakes they have up there. Way out in the middle, in the deep part, I saw two heads bobbin' up and down. When they got closer I saw that they were Noe and Pokley, and that they were waddin'. I just decided to bring them back to Morehead." It was only one of the many ways that the affable Eagle coach likes to kid with acquaintances and friends.

But no kidding about it. Bobby Laughlin richly deserves recognition as "Coach of the Year." In 25 years of coaching Laughlin has only twice been faced with a losing season. Last year was his biggest coaching disaster when his Eagles could chalk only five wins against 14 defeats. His colleagues in the Ohio Valley Conference voted him no better chance than a tie for fourth in their league in the 1960-61 pre-season poll. But the Eagles have charged into a share, at least, of the title for the third time in the past six years. An outstanding comeback for Laughlin.

The Morehead campus is located in the smallest town of any of the state colleges. There are no bright lights or scenic wonders to attract the prospective athletes. Yet, Coach Laughlin has done a masterly recruiting job through the years. One college official in the Ohio Valley Conference says of Laughlin, "He's the luckiest recruiter I ever saw. Why, he didn't even want those two great guards he's got this season. Granville Williams had to spend some time in a junior college before Bobby would take him, and he only accepted Hecky Thompson because his older brother, Kenny, had played for Bobby at Morehead." The speaker went on to say, "His brother-in-law sent him those two big boys from Michigan. Bobby didn't even see them until they got to Morehead." These were not disparging remarks about Laughlin. He's one of the most respected tutors of basketball in the Ohio Valley Conference.

Laughlin started out to play football at Xavier University in Cincinnati. His athletic career was short lived by a knee injury, and he enrolled at Morehead to get his Phys Ed degree. In 1946 his Breckinridge Training School team won the Kentucky High School Basketball Championship, and is regarded by many as one of the best high school units ever assembled. Laughlin is nearing the end of his 9th season as head coach at Morehead. He's produced such standout players in that time as Sonny Allen, Dan Schwartz and Steve Hamilton. He's turned out some fine basketball teams, and even though Bobby likes to kid a lot he's dead serious about winning basketball games. Serious enough this season to come up with the dark horse champion that should win for him "Coach of the Year" honors.

Industries seeking a location for a branch plant thoroughly investigate local labor supply, nearness to raw materials and markers, transportation, housing, schools, churches and recreation facilities for employers, and the attitude of the community toward industry.

But, they tell us repeatedly, there's one thing they never worry about in KU-served communities. They know there's plenty of dependable low cost power. That power is here, ready and waiting. What's more, there's ample reserve for their expansion plans.

A Total-Electric home, a newly electrified farm, or a power-hungry new industry finds electricity never too little, never late in the 77-county area served by KU.

MOREHEAD STATE COLLEGE

By Ray Hornback
Public Relations Director

Morehead, Ky., March 9—"Under the leadership of Adron Doran, Morehead State College is making as much progress as any institution of higher learning in the U. S. today and the future will show Morehead to be one of the most outstanding colleges in the nation."

Those were the words of Governor Bert T. Combs ashe spoke at the annual Morehead Chamber of Commerce banquet recently.

Governor Combs was lavish in his praise of Dr. Doran and the job which is being done at Morehead as he reviewed the 4-million dollar expansion program underway including structures in the construction stage or planned for the near future.

He reviewed with the more than 300 people in attendance the following projects:

A $1,425,000 four-story classroom building on Second Street, under construction.

A 106-room extension to East Men's Hall, also under construction.

Girls' dormitory to be built at the southeast base of the hill northwest to the rear of the Breckinridge Training School. Architects submitted plans this week for this ultra-modern and unique structure. It will be six stories high and contain 75 units to accommodate 300 women, four to each apartment. Each unit includes sleeping quarters, a study room and combination bath and dressing room. Bids will soon be let. The dormitory will be semi-circular, according to the architect's plans. No cost estimate has been made.

A wing to the girls' dormitory, separate and apart from the East Men's dormitory building, plans for which are being drawn, will be on the terrace, immediately west of Rice-ville. This spot was formerly used for intramural activities.

A home economics and industrial arts building This building, to be built west of the new $1,425,000 classroom building, will be a three-story structure housing both the home economics and industrial arts departments.

Other projects which are expected to get underway in the near future are an administration building, an addition to the Baird Music Building, conversion of administrative offices in the Administration Building into classrooms and faculty offices and additional science laboratories in Lappin Hall

In reviewing the appropriations Governor Combs said the state can be proud of the use made of funds for expansion here and added that in the past education has literally been starved to death. "We have made the biggest appropriation in the history of the state and initiated a revenue program to finance it. I make no apology for having done this—it had to be done," he added.

FARM BUREAU in Action

Kentucky Farm Bureau Fed.

by J. E. Stanford

It appears the "powers that be" in Washington are trying to ride two horses going in opposite directions. An outstanding example is the bill to raise the minimum wage from $1.00 to $1.25 per hour.

At this time, the administration officials are bemoaning the fact that there is an unusually large number of unemployed people and that business in general is lagging. They are seeking various means to put people to work and spur up business in general. We can think of no way to counteract all the efforts to stimulate business and put people to work, than to increase the wage level. It would be just as reasonable to expect a car dealer to increase sales of cars by raising prices $200 per car.

In other words, this wage-raise bill is nothing short of an effort to legislate inflation instead of curing it. Its enactment will simply add fuel to the fires of inflation and unemployment. The effect of an increase in the minimum wage would be to force the whole wage level up as workers seek to maintain customary differentials.

This would cause everything the farmer must buy to be higher, such as farm machinery, equipment, supplies, feed, fertilizer, and hired labor. And farmers cannot long endure a continuation of the inflation spiral they have encountered the past several years. Since 1947, U. S. farm production costs have increased around nine billion dollars per year, while farm income has risen only about three billion dollars per year. This has put a tremendous squeeze on all farmers, and has put many out of business.

President Kennedy in his message to Congress on February 6th said, "Our domestic policies — of government, of business, and of labor—must be directed to maintaining competitive costs, improving productivity, and stabilizing, or where possible, lowering prices." Yet, the 25 percent increase in the minimum wage cannot do other than have the reverse effect on the sound objectives so ably expressed by the President.

Farm labor employment is the lowest in history. Thousands of businesses, especially small ones, have been forced to reduce employment (many of them forced to close), unable to meet foreign competition where the labor wage level is much lower than ours. So, it seems very unwise to further increase labor costs.

Ky. Veterans to get 3.9 millions insurance dividend

The Veterans Administration today identified which veterans will get a check—all but about a the more than a quarter-billion dollar GI insurance dividend to be distributed under the President's accelerated payment plan designed to boost the economy.

The Veterans Administration plans to pay the dividend by March 31, 1961.

Sumner G. Owen, Manager, Veterans Administration Regional Office, Louisville, Kentucky, outlined a method GI policyholders may use to find out if they have a dividend coming.

First, note the letter in front of the policy number.

Then, follow this guide:

1) You will receive a dividend —IF the letter "V" precedes the policy number, or IF the letter "K" precedes the policy number.

2) You will not receive a dividend IF the letters "RS" "W" "HR" or "P" precede the policy number. Owen added that—

IF an in-service waiver of premiums is still in effect you will not receive a dividend, or

IF you have already received your dividend for 1961, you will not receive another one.

Owen pointed out that about 3,122 policyholders in Kentucky will participate in the dividend. Approximately $3,934,700 in GI insurance dividends will be received by Kentucky veterans.

He urged veterans to forego bringing their individual questions to VA.

"Veterans will help themselves and VA by not flooding our office with individual phone calls and letters. Answering them will divert personnel from processing the dividend and could actually delay the payments."

4-16-4 fertilizer recommended for plant beds

LEXINGTON, KY.—The fertilizer analysis 4-16-4 is recommended for plant beds, the UK Cooperative Extension Service says.

It is applied at the rate of 30 pounds for beds 100 feet by 9 feet and 40 pounds for beds 100 feet by 12 feet, says Ira Massie, specialist.

This rate, though apparently low, actually is proper, Massie says. That's because the fertilizer is applied to the top half-inch of soil. It is to be mixed in lightly, NOT disked in. In the top half inch, such amounts of fertilizer are equivalent to 1,500 pounds an acre.

Massie also recommends that pesticides be applied to bed sites now and that the fertilization be done at seeding time. Complete control of insects will not be gained this year if the pesticides and fertilizer are applied at the same time.
