no town is an island...
No Kentucky town lives by itself, completely separated from the rural areas that surround it. The farms and country are a vital part of the urban community. The country depends on the town for goods and services... the town depends on the country for farm products and customers. What helps one, is bound to help the other.
So, when the Kentucky farm was modernized and improved with rural electricity... the town benefited. Low cost power made the farm more efficient, more productive... put money in the farmer's pocket... money which he spends in the towns and cities of Kentucky.
Kentucky's farmers originally built their rural cooperatives for one purpose only... to get the electric power they could not buy elsewhere. One of their cooperations has grown a force powerful enough to keep Kentucky's prosperity growing.

I respectfully plead for YOUR vote for my reelection to the Senate for the 7th term promising I will render you the service that my twenty-two years of experience has taught me to give you. Our grateful, devoted and conscientious service to you and our friends who depend upon agriculture for a livelihood. I now gratefully and sincerely thank you for the wonderful privilege of casting your vote for me over all these years. I now promise you to faithfully strive for the best to be had for you and to vote against increasing the sales tax 4% as some people are trying to do in the next year which will work a hardship on my people.
