ONS AT THE U. N.

is that point on.
ick in Washington, Gen. ... rge Brinton McClellan kept ose touch with the new com- ders in the West, and con- ed his preparations for an sive in the East.
t Richmond, too, Confeder- President Jefferson Davis lied the changing events on two fronts and tried to fig- their meaning. That same k, he heard, a hard snow- m had struck Washington, he was relieved. Winter was dly approaching, and with new snowflake, the chances an 1861 federal offensive ost Richmond diminished.
ext week: New state called st Virginia."

latural wonders 640-acre area ear Cumberland umberland, Nov. — A mas- formation of sandstone , jutting up at a 45-degree le some 300 feet into the air, the focal point of the many ral wonders in a rugged 640- area near Cumberland ch has been presented to the e of Kentucky for develop- st as a State park.

he huge chunk of sandstone, wn as Raven's Rock, is im- ded atop Pine Mountain at st 3,000 feet above sea level. its isolation has caused no rth of legend and interest n through the years.
his scenic wonderland of ex- ive caves, a natural bridge, natural amphitheatre, and s which appear to be petri- trees is only three miles n Cumberland. But so rugged he terrain that the park area y is accessible only in dry ther using a four-wheel- e vehicle.

itation

Chatter Room
D DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

y, spoke in English, which y translated into Japanese by pastor. The Scriptures were d in Spanish, and the songs re sung in Japanese. Prayers ered in those three tongues. t was a truly ecumenical vice. The real common link Christ's language—His love. only when we forget our de- minational and national pride, d when we all learn Christ's que language, will all the ple praise Him unto the ends the earth.
PRAYER: Gather, O God, all r churches, by Christ's love, o one, universal, holy church, t all the people of the earth y know and love Thee. In rist's name. Amen.
THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: ou are all one in Christ us."
—Sante Uberto Barbieri (Ar- tina).

the generations. But there are no reveus to be found today.

A fanciful legend is that a bonanza of silver is hidden in the area. Capt. John Swift, who allegedly discovered a silver mine in the Cumberland Mountains, is said to have told a confidant that treasure was hidden in a cave near a stream that took origin in a pattern much like a turkey's foot. A number of streams in the Raven's Rock area are fit the description.

Geology students from all over the nation have been coming to the area for 50 years or more to study the rock formations in the caves surrounding Raven's Rock.

The land, was presented to the State by the Cumberland Lions Club and by A. J. Creech, a Cumberland lumber dealer. The State Parks Department has as yet set no timetable for developing the area which includes acreage in both Harlan and Letcher Counties, but Gov. Bert Combs in formally accepting the gift said he hopes to dedicate the park during his administration.

Subscribe Today to
The Carlisle Mercury

ACROSS the DESK

IDEAS FROM OTHER EDITORS

From the Desert Journal, Jashua Tree, California: To SEE is to BELIEVE. This is both the basis and the watchword of advertising appeal. It is acknowledged that a picture is worth a thousand words. In Advertising it might be said that a printed ad has far more value than a sales talk by the spoken word alone.

Whether an ad reproduces a picture of a product in four colors, or simply brings a clear message in words and figures of what the public desires to know, it creates a picture which the eye can take in and thoroughly understand.

Market special, drug special, furniture sale, real estate bargains—all these and many more are presented in your newspaper for careful study by prospective customers. They are a gallery of masterpieces which merchants display with pride, saying "See this and believe!"

This matter of belief is one of establishing reliability and confidence. A reliable merchant will advertise only what he is confident will appeal to the public. Otherwise he wastes his money. The public accepts the reliability of the merchant is backing up the statements he makes. The visual message is by way of a guarantee of the merchant's honesty. Once presented as visual form, the truth of this statement cannot be challenged through possible inaccuracies of sentence comprehension.

We know things half-heard often get garbled. Witness the bewildering power of spoken rumors. Therefore the accuracy of the visual advertisement will always carry a more powerful appeal to reason than the noisy spiel of the barker at the County Fair Midway.

The showcase method of merchandise display is far better than the more statement that a merchant has a "line of goods" stored away on his shelves. The merchant knows that what he puts out in the open moves faster than stock which remains hidden away.

The newspaper brings a showcase from the merchant's store right before the eyes of the public. "Seeing is Believing," in this sense, becomes a known fact on which the value of all printed advertising is based Should 17-Year Old Go To School Prom?

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I have a problem. I am 17 years old and a senior in high school. I have never had a date or went to a prom at school, never to the movies, or to any social event at school. I asked my mother if I could go to the school dance with other couples and she said that I really didn't want to go. Do you think I should date, or do you think mother is right?"

OUR REPLY: A boy or girl who is 17 and a senior in high school should be allowed to go to a school prom. But, if this individual has never been allowed to date—or has not wanted to date—then parents should provide supervision, even if it is a "Double-Date."

Starting to date is not just a privilege that comes when a certain age is reached. Parents have an obligation to see that their children are properly supervised at all times. They must see to it that their children select the proper associates and friends . . . not just when they start dating but as long as they are under parental authority.

Many parents try to keep their children from dating as long as possible, and we must grant that it is not wise to allow them to date too early. On the other hand, we must also realize that an 18-year-old who begins dating needs just as much counsel, guidance and supervision as a 16-year-old.

So, our reply to the question is (Ida: Ask your mother to serve as a chaperone at some school function. Ask her to let you give a party at home for some of your school friends. Or, if you are invited to some school affair, ask her to go if she can; if not, ask her or your father to take you there and come back for you when it is over.

Above all, remember this: your parents are interested in doing what they feel is best for you. Take your problems to them. Don't hesitate to ask for permission to go to a school affair or social.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or question to ask, address your letter to TOM, WORLD WIDE TEEN TIMES, 1128 WEST BROADWAY, LOUISVILLE 3, KY. THE FRANKFORT, KY.

With Thankful Hearts

"Give thanks always for all things unto God and the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ." Ephesians 5:20

THIS is the time when we in America pause, as did our Pilgrim Fathers, to give thanks for our blessings: the harvest, our homes, our freedom, our friends and the numerous material things we possess.

But as Paul the Apostle says, we should give thanks for all things unto God.

This year go to God's house and give thanks. An hour of meditation and prayer of thanks will make your holiday a memorable one.

There, for only the asking, one can find peace and strength and courage, and, perhaps, the greatest moment of beauty that can be experienced by man.

Read your BIBLE daily and
GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

JUST BRIEFING
by Evelyn Brierly

Christmas is not too far away, and the greeting cards are already beginning to arrive through mail order and Christmas books and so and so much about what they would like for old St. Nick to bring on the night of nights, Christmas Eve. Usually the list is made up of dolls, dishes, furniture, rings, watches, tractors, ball bats and gloves and many things that appeal to children.

As I hear such discussions it brings memories when I was a child attending the Old Wilson School located on Somerset Creek not too far from our home. It was a one room school where all eight grades were taught. The children ranged in age from 6 to 16 years. When the Christmas season drew near the teacher started planning a program of songs, recitations, acrostics, dialogues and plays, something suitable for each grade and child represented.

My father, Will Brierly who was trustee for several years, usually cut the Christmas tree and hauled it on the sled drawn by his favorite team of horses, Dick and Tobe. The tree was placed on the left corner of the stage and decorated with tinsel, red and green roping and popcorn. Electricity had not come to the rural areas so we missed all the modern lighting fixtures of today. However, it was very pretty to the enraptured children who eagerly helped with making the room in keeping with the beauty of the Christmas Spirit. There were no curtains across the stage so sheets brought by the children were suspended on a wire to curtain off the stage. Red and green crepe paper was twisted into ropes and stretched diagonally from corner to corner of the room with a big red bell in the center. Cedar was used also as a room decoration. The room was lighted by several lanterns which were hung on the wall.

Since all the children were represented in the Christmas program it brought out all the parents and friends of the community. The weather did not preclude the attendance either for they came by buggies, horseback or walked. I remember the horses were hitched along the fence out the road from the historic old school. Parents assumed it was their duty to the children and loyal teacher who had given so much time and pains to the event. The house, therefore, was packed and all enjoyed the starry eyed children as they recited. When it was time for Santa Claus to enter and talk to the children suspense was at its height. All the smaller children were wondering what gifts the brightly tinseled tree might hold for them as a gift from old St. Nick.

Times have changed so much since the days of the one room school yet the Christmas Spirit is much the same and children still thrill at the magic of the night.

Yes, Christmas has been celebrated over and over again in simple ways and mid pomp and splendor but the true meaning must not be forgotten "The Birth of Our Savior".

Farm-City Week is Nov. 17-23

The Carlisle Mercury is pleased to announce the observance of National Farm-City Week, November 17-23.

This annual observance, now in its seventh year, should carry special significance to all farm residents and city dwellers in this time of increased world tension. Let us apply ourselves to the job of promoting better understanding between farm and city people in bringing all Americans into close harmony for the preservance of freedom and the strengthening of democracy.

The interests of the farmer and the city resident are more closely allied than may be generally realized. While the production record of the American farmer has world-wide recognition he must rely on the jobber, retailer, and consumer to complete the final steps in the process of commerce. The city dweller in turn must look to the farmer for much of the raw material that is essential to health and prosperity.

Farm-City Week has become one of the most significant and rewarding efforts to come along in recent years. It has enjoyed particular success in Kentucky owing to the fact that many city residents have a rural background and have not forgotten some of the more pleasant times at "the old homestead".

The activities of Farm-City Week in this community are designed to foster goodwill and brotherhood for all citizens. Plan now to take part in these activities and find out how pleasant it can be to enjoy good fellowship with your neighbor whether he lives on the farm or in the city.

Saltwell

by Mrs. Fred Heller

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hicks and children of Louisville are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Hicks.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Gumm and baby son spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Gaunce.

Mrs. H. A. Gaunce Jr. and Deloris Gaunce entertained with a stork shower on Monday night at the Headquarters grade school honoring Mrs. Raymond Green. Refreshments were served and Mrs. Green received many lovely gifts.

Miss Alma Mattox spent Monday night with Louella Cain.

Miss Martha Kennedy spent Sunday with Miss Frances Barlow in Carlisle.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Gaunce of Paris rendered a musical program Sunday night at the Wesley Chapel C. M. E. church. Sponsored by the C.Y.F.

Mr. and Mrs. Randall Ritchie visited his mother, Mrs. Hobert Ritchie a patient at Harrison Memorial Hospital on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Gaunce visited Clark Taylor on Sunday. Mr. Taylor is a patient at the Johnson's Convalescent home in Carlisle.

Rev. G. C. Gaunce returned home on Monday from a two week revival in Petersburg, Ind.

Mrs. Effie Barlow remains ill at her home here.

Don't forget the Thanksgiving Day supper sponsored by the Methodist men which will be served in the basement of the church. Rev. Gayle Gillispie will be the speaker. Everyone is invited.

Henryville News

by Harrison Hamilton

Miss Charity Marks is visiting in Chicago. Her sister Miss Catherine Marks remains very ill.

Mr. and Mrs. James Layne and daughter of Mt. Sterling visited here Sunday.

Lenard Avery of Millersburg visited here over the weekend.

There will be a Stanley party at the home of Mrs. Cleola Thompson. Mrs. Martha Edwards, hostess.

Walker Williams, Dayton, Ohio, is visiting here with his children, friends and relatives.

Ed Keys was in Lexington Saturday on business.

The American Legion Chorus of Paris rendered a musical program Sunday night at the Wesley Chapel C. M. E. church. Sponsored by the C.Y.F.

THYLATE, ZINEB AND CAPTAN BEST FUNGICIDES ON RED RASPBERRIES

Three fungicides — Thylate, Zineb and Captan — used on red raspberry plantings at the UK Ag Experiment Station, Lexington, gave the best results last season.

These were the best of the seven materials tried, says C. S. Waltman, researcher. Ferbam was fourth best; Manzate, Dyrene and Cyprex followed the top group.

Waltman said yields were lower this year than in 1960. He attributed this to unfavorable weather which affected fruit set. Fruit set of the reds was not affected as much as the blacks; the latter bloom earlier than the reds.

Thylate plots averaged 400 of the 24-pint crates per acre in 1961, compared to 655 in 1960. Other yields (with the 1960 yields in parentheses) were: Zineb, 380 crates (548); Captan, 379 (575); Ferbam, 349 (491); Manzate, 313 (486); Dyrene, 298 (515) and Cyprex, 298 (411).

Waltman noted Ferbam replaced a material called Phix in the middle of the 1960 season.

Three of the sprayed plots, Waltman said, did not equal the unsprayed (check) plots in yields "though the differences were not significant."

Subscribe to The Mercury

If gum were to get into your carburetor, it could lead to unexpected repair bills like this. One of the nine ingredients in today's Super Shell fights gum to give you top performance.

ANCIENT HISTORY:

Gasoline gum used to cause unexpected repair bills. Today, one of Super Shell's 9 ingredients fights off gum —to save you money and give you top performance.

The gum preventive in today's Super Shell is so powerful that one thousandth of an ounce is enough to treat a gallon. Read how this "chemical policeman" works.

THE MECHANIC in our photograph is about to go to work on a gummed-up carburetor. A nice little repair job.

But to Shell scientists, gummed-up carburetors are ancient history.

And so are other gum troubles. Such as sticky intake valves. And fouled automatic chokes. Here's why:

1. Shell uses refining processes that hold certain gum-forming gasoline components to a minimum.

2. Shell guards all tanks, pipes, and trucks against dirt and other gum-forming contaminants.

3. Shell includes a powerful gum preventive in Super Shell's nine-ingredient formula.

"Chemical cop" at work

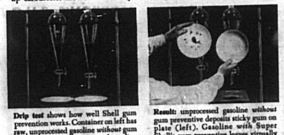
The gum preventive in Super Shell is so effective that a thousandth of an ounce is enough to treat a whole gallon of gasoline.

This remarkable ingredient has been described as a "chemical policeman." It helps to keep unstable elements in gasoline from sticking together—the way a skilled policeman prevents trouble by keeping a crowd from forming.

Hot Weather Blend

For a quick run-down on the other eight ingredients in today's Super Shell, see box at right.

And for top performance all summer, keep your tank filled with Super Shell's Hot Weather Blend. It's specially formulated to fight engine flooding and other hot weather troubles. At Shell stations now.



Drip test shows how well Shell gum prevention works. Container on left has raw, unprocessed gasoline without gum preventive; on right, processed gasoline with Super Shell's gum preventive. Gasoline drip cans heated, plates and evaporate, simulating long storage.

Result: unprocessed gasoline without gum preventive deposits sticky gum on plate (left). Gasoline with Super Shell's gum preventive leaves virtually no trace of gum (right). No gum, no gum problems. One reason why Super Shell can promise top performance.

Here are the 9 ingredients in Super Shell—and what they do to give your car top performance

#1 is TCP*—for power, mileage, and longer plug life.
#2 is Pentane mix—for fast warm-up.
#3 is anti-knock mix—for knock resistance.
#4 is Alkylate to control "high-speed knock."
#5 is Butane—for quick starts.
#6 is "cat-cracked" gasoline—for power.
#7 is an "anti-icer." Added when cold weather sets in.
#8 is gum preventive—for clean carburetors.
#9 is Platformate for extra mileage.

*Trademark of Ethyl Corporation for its fuel additive. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U.S. Patent 2898215.

SHELL

At Shell, 1997 scientists are working to make your car go better and better

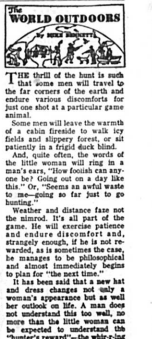
BULLETIN:

Rex & Paul Shell Station win praise for old-fashioned service

Stop in at your Shell Service Station for a tankful to today's Super Shell and enjoy good old-fashioned personal service. We clean your windshield and headlights without being asked. We automatically check your oil, tire pressure, fan belt and battery, too. These may seem like small items. But they can help give you top performance on the road.

You'll never drive away from our Shell Stations, straining to see the highway through a dirty windshield. We clean it without your asking. In fact, we won't let you leave before we've thoroughly serviced your car. You'll never wonder if you need oil or water or new windshield wiper. Our stations are more than "filling" stations; they're truly service stations. With us, service is not an effort. Service is our business.

Fill up with Super Shell from this dealer



The WORLD OUTDOORS
by Hank Brierly

THE thrill of the hunt is such that some men will travel to the far corners of the earth and endure various discomforts for just one shot at a particular game animal.

Some men will leave the warmth of a cabin fireside to walk icy fields and slippery forest, or sit patiently in a frigid duck blind.

And, quite often, the words of the little woman will ring in a man's ears, "How foolish can anyone be? Going out on a day like this." Or, "Seems as awful waste to me—going so far just to go hunting."

Weather and distance faze not the misled. It's all part of the game. He will exercise patience and endure discomfort and, strangely enough, if he is not rewarded, as is sometimes the case, he manages to be philosophical and almost immediately begins to plan for "the next time."

It has been said that a new hat and dress changes not only a woman's appearance but as well her outlook on life. A man does not understand this too well, no more than the little woman can he expected to understand the "hunter's reward"—the whir-ring blast of a flushed covey of birds; the fleeting glimpse of a rabbit or a bear; the whistling sound of wings in the sky.

The beauty of a sunset is available to all without effort and the magic world of books opens great avenues of adventure; but the hunter must go in search of his chosen reward and whatever discomforts encountered are all part of the game.

FOR ALL YOUR OIL PRODUCT NEEDS
SEE or CALL
STEWART MOORE
Your Nicholas Co.
SHELL OIL AGENT
PHONE 369
(SERVICE IS MY BUSINESS)