Dear Subscriber:

This four-page supplement was begun in April. Pasted-up and photographed the second week in May with the expectation that it would be sent out with The Mercury, either the last of May or in the first issue of June.

Such was not the case, those "lumps" we spoke of having in our story on page two, have dogged us every step of the way. Maybe we can outline them for you at a later date.

There are still numerous defects to be overcome before we convert The Mercury to the offset process.

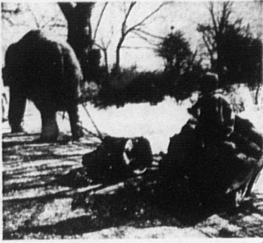

We are thankful, however, for the many friends and relatives, who never lost faith in our ability to succeed -- their prayers and ours will see us printing by this new method.

Whether the change meets with your approval, is one thing, only time will tell.

We trust you can see the difference, we have faith the change is a step in the right direction . . .

THE EDITORS

P.S.: This addition was typed on a mechanical negative and stripped into the page.

TWO TRUNKS — In Stockholm, a helpful elephant who lives in the Skansen Zoo aids a local woodcutter had some chopped tree trunks down the road.

STRANGE PET — Ernest Albera of Oberlin, West Germany, peers closely at one of the 20 large venomous tarantulas he breeds in his home.

FLIPPED OVER THE GIRL — The boys are flipping for Vivian Ellis, 20, who is a fashion model standing Jude from Jim Moore, 21, in England.

TUMBLING WALL — Part of Berlin wall erected by East Berlin Communists was toppled over by strong winds, some West Berliners hopelessly view this as a symbol of things to come.

About Prayer

"Our prayers are answered." — Mrs. John H. Glenn, Sr., mother of astronaut Lt. Col. John H. Glenn, Jr.

OF all the thousands of words written about Lt. Col. John H. Glenn's flight into space, the above are the most poignant to appear in print.

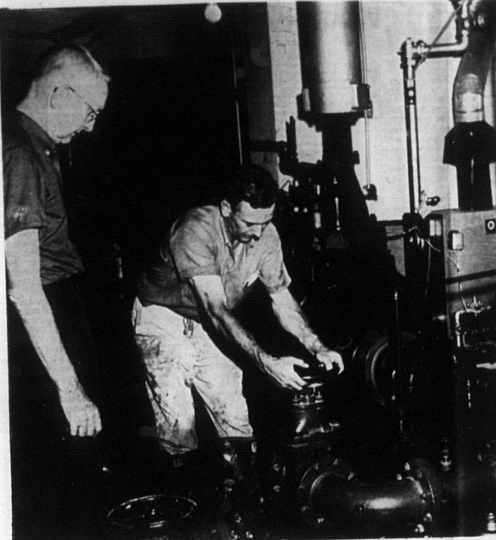

This simple statement, uttered with calm dignity, reveals this man's background and the rock upon which his family and he have built their personal lives and, as a result, from which has come a great contribution to mankind and our country.

A famous writer once wrote that after prayer he had a curious feeling of hope in his heart; not peace, but confident expectancy of peace.

Prayer remains today, as always, the greatest force for world good.

Water, Water Everywhere

Where did the water, go?

by Tabith Elder

Time 7:00 a.m. Monday. Place, city water works. Trouble, low water pressure. That is what city water works superintendent, Oliver K. Vice, found at the city water works plant at 7:00 a.m. when he went to work Monday. According to Mr. Vice the water works is at the present time, pumping out one of the two 63,000 gallon storage tanks for repairs. When Mr. Vice came to work, the water pressure was down to 40 lbs. which is below the normal 65 lbs. pressure usually maintained. There was no pumping done on Sunday which caused the pressure to be low. The suction pipe had to be extended because the lake water level was down and more water was necessary. The suction pipe being used at the lake has been in service since about 1914. The threads cracked on the extension and Bunton's Garage had to be called for equipment to heat the pipe so that the section could be taken off. Due to an old check valve which was not working properly, a new joint was necessary. The normal time for the operation of extending the suction pipe is 30 minutes, but with this breakdown it was delayed two hours. By the time the operation was ready to be resumed, the pressure was down to 20 lbs. By the time the low level pumps were primed for regular operation and the plant ready for regular service the pressure was 0. To provide water for Carlisle, Mr. Vice switched to a 30 horsepower auxiliary emergency diesel pump which pumps around 275-300 gallons per minute which is slow, but brought the pressure up to 65 lbs. The diesel ran from Tuesday to Tuesday and maintained a steady pressure of 67 lbs. Mr. Vice stated that due to low pressure that occurred in the Clearwell

BULLETIN: State Highway Department issued a work order on the Lake Project Tuesday, Aug. 7. Contractor plans to begin concrete work within next 10 days.

COUNCILMAN HARPER — Watches as Oliver Vice opens valve to start diesel pump Monday and restore city water pressure.
