Twenty and Forty Years Ago . . .

Thursday, August 13, 1942
A fifty foot fall from the roof of the Nicholas county court house roof was fatal to Thomas P. Ellis, 26 year old employee of the Dixie Roofing Company, Tuesday afternoon. Ellis, who slipped while at work, plunged to the sidewalk. He was dead an hour later in the Johnson Memorial Hospital. The tragic accident happened late in the afternoon, and there were several passers who saw the death fall.

Thursday, August 19, 1922

A Little Yappin'
By Nettie Crump
Real Cooperation.
One likely to know, told the column there were only four patients in the local hospital for two or three days all in a row recently. It was good that nobody was sick and the news spread like a forest fire. It seems that a group of expectant mothers heard about it and went into a huddle. Anyway, I now hear that six future citizens line up for roll call last week end—Aug. 3, three; Aug. 4, one; Aug. 5, two. All were boys with the exception of one baby girl. If that is not cooperation, then what is?

A Gift of Value
It is proud that I am to be the new owner of one of the student desks from the Headquarters school, a gift by one who has the need of this here yappin' department. Besides the slant top for writing comfort and a stay put place for pencil and eraser, there is a shelf underneath for odds and ends like—pens, paper and stationery. You just wonder where there is room for it when you sit down, as can be turned up or down, as a spare permit, making an extra chair. A small new boy came in, looked the place over, then asked, "Is this your office, Miss Nellie?"

The Changing Times
A few months ago, my late cousin's granddaughters in Ohio learned that she was to become a mother for the second time. Little Bethany would be one year and one month old. The

Green and family came to the night. He was the longest and loudest Methodist preacher I ever heard pray, bless his heart. He said God would open the hill. Came breakfast time there were the best buttermilk biscuits—and odds of them there. Happy and healthy days more than three score years ago.

MARRIED—Miss Elizabeth Rankin and Mr. W. B. Hill, at Lexington, last Thursday—Miss Sophia Sumpter and Mr. P. D. McClanahan, both of Illinois, at Evansville, Ind., on the 4th.

DIED—Mr. W. H. Brown, aged 79 years, at the Confederate home at Fever Valley, Saturday afternoon.

Young husband was delighted with the possibility of the new baby being a girl. A happy idea entered the year-old mother's mind, so she said to her husband, "Honey, can't you care for our house—we can't care for two babies in three rooms in the country without any conveniences." He saw her point and agreed to it.

Such new travels fast and the word soon got around. They received a good offer for their cottage. Her daddy said it was "good" which made it of fiscal so the tale was made and the erection of a new home began, greater than that of the new grandpater's. Their daughter is an only child and has usually gotten the things she wanted most. Another big help toward home comfort is the installation of steam radiators. You'll like them and they, as well as insulation, will help a good deal with the bills. Remember now is the time for installation.

Spreading Ground
Livestock in the Fall
From now until winter is the best time of the year to spread lime. During the fall, the ground is usually firm and dry so we can get over the land with heavy equipment. During the fall there are usually a few days when work is not as pressing as in the spring. And one great advantage of fall spreading is that it gives the lime time to react with the soil before crops are needed next spring. Intelligent might say that fall spreading gives the lime time to soak in. This reaction of lime with the soil is very important on strongly acid soils for all crops. Even for slightly acid soils it is important for such crops as alfalfa and the clovers.

In Kentucky by Sam Allen

The People
William Bullock was pleased with the Kentucky-Ohio trip. He met on a steamboat on his way to Louisville in 1827, as the following extract from his "Journey From New Orleans to New York" illustrates.
"I must here observe that the society on the steamboats is generally very pleasant, consisting of well informed, intelligent people, attentive and obliging to strangers, readily pointing out to their notice everything worthy of observation or that can be contributed to raise their opinion of the country and its constitution, of which they are with good reason proud. They universally complain of the injustice done them by English writers, who they say, seem to have come among them only to misrepresent what little they know of the country and that perhaps, like myself, are obtained when the limestone is spread and it worked into the soil in the fall several months before seeding.
No limestone is lost from fall applications except that runs off on steep slopes in some cases may actually wash some lime parties away.

Let Us Forget

Research by Raper Wasmak
In the spring of 1862, the Confederate Army was withdrawing slowly southward in Tennessee. Confederate General G. T. Beauregard was trying to save as many of his troops as possible. Nevertheless, as a result of the withdrawal, slices of the Confederate territory had to be abandoned. Maj. Gen. Don Carlos Buell's army had to be sent to Chattanooga. At that time, assigned the garrison of Middle Tennessee to Maj. Gen. O. M. Mitchell, who had a passion for destroying railroad bridges, way of living was excessive and sometimes extremely so. He observed that he needed later by his own side.
