A Look Into FHA

by Ann Williams

FHA is an organization for girls who have taken at least one semester of Home Economics, above the eighth grade.

The emblem of FHA is octagonal in shape and bears the name of the organization, Future Homemakers of America around the top half of the octagon; the motto, Toward New Horizons, is around the bottom half. In the center there is a house which represents a home where there is love, truth, security, and faith. This home is supported by two hands. The hand on the right represents the husband, father or brother in the home. The hand on the left is the wife, mother, or sister. Both hands work together to foster and support strong homes today. The rays extending to and from the home suggest the influence the home has on the community and the community on the home.

The colors of the organization are red and white—red for courage and firm determination to succeed; white is for the purity and intergrity of youth.

The flower is the red rose. It is symbolic of vibrant, glowing health; which contributes to happiness and efficiency in the home and group life.

The motto — Toward New Horizons — is an infinite challenge and expresses the purpose of the organization, to learn to live better today in order that our lives and those of our families may be better tomorrow.

Those are some of the prominent signs of FHA's wherever you see the colors red and white you know that FHA is probably sponsoring it.

Burley farmers will vote Tuesday, February 27, on whether they wish to continue the present three-year marketing quota program or to adopt a one-year quota for the next three years, it was announced today by Ralph Bedford, chairman of the Nicholas County Agricultural Conservation Committee.

He urged all farmers to study the provisions of the two programs carefully before they vote. The Agricultural Conservation Committee does not support price and quota legislation under which Burley allotments or crops would be established.

The three 1963 and 1964 crops are the ones affected by the referendum.
