Cawood Calls Basketball

by WHAS Sports Director Cawood Ledford

PEACHES AND PENNANTS

You can't explain it. In the entertainment field it is common place for an unknown to soar to the magnitude of a star overnight. In athletics it just doesn't happen. That is, not often. But at the University of Kentucky this season a 6'4 redhead has soared from a seeming 3rd varsity guard to All-American Wildcat bench into an important starting role for the unusually strong 1962 Kentucky team. The young man's name is Roy Roberts.

As a senior now, Roy started the first game of the current season for Kentucky without ever having scored a single point in a varsity game. As a sophomore he played in only five contests. As a junior he failed to get off to the right start. These are hardly credentials for a starting forward. But Roy Roberts is in there, and he's done a tremendous job for the Cats. He is the only starter for Kentucky not averaging in double figures, but Roy doesn't shoot very often. He's hitting well over forty percent of his field goal tries, but Roy is content to let his team mates gather the scoring roses. The opposition can't ignore him though. Notre Dame elected to drop off Roberts to concentrate on the Kentuckians with his per scoring averages, and the modest reboad poured 14 points through the hoops, 12 of them in the first half. Her told me of that performance. "They weren't bothering with me, and they gave me plenty of time to get set". Even though he doesn't shoot a lot, to ignore his ability of putting the ball in the basket can be fatal to an opponent.

But Roberts chief contributions to the Wildcats have been defense and rebounding. Last season while he was being used entirely in scrimmages against the varsity, Kentucky's lead scorer Billy Ray Lickert named Roberts the best defensive man he faced all season. Most took Lickert's praise of a non playing teammate with a grain of salt, but this season Roberts has made good Mr praise. He is always assigned to guard the top offensive forward with the opposition. He's done a fine job as the Wildcat record shows. Although just 6'4 and 190 pounds Roberts is second in rebounding for Kentucky. A small team, the Wildcats have been outrebounded only once this season.

Roy Roberts is majoring in Agriculture at Kentucky, and after graduation is planning to take over the management of his father's 2,000 acre stock and grain farm. Roberts is single, but graduation may be the end of his bachelor days. He's been pinned for the past year, and I advise the boys to watch out for Roberts when he puts on that diamond.

As we talked before my basketball broadcast over WHAS, I got the feeling Roy Roberts liked his new found success at Kentucky and would like to try it again next year. The decision, I believe, is up to Coach Rupp.

Two Georgia peaches have been sensations with basketball success at Kentucky. Roberts was preceeded to Kentucky by two other Georgia boys, Bill Spivey and Ed Beck. With Spivey the Wildcats won the 1951 NCAA Tournament. With Beck they won the coveted trophy again in 1958.

Perhaps this Georgia Peach, Roy Roberts, will mean another national pennant in 1962.

Telephone Talk

by CHARLES A. HARRIS
Your Telephone Manager

THIS TIME of year you're probably busy with all sorts of new projects, for this is the time we start living up to all our New Year's resolutions! One resolution that's a pleasure to keep is one that I made this year — to keep in touch with old friends! There's really nothing like a Long Distance telephone call to make you "feel good all over" . . . and spread happiness at both ends of the line.

MAKE SOMEONE HAPPY . . .
CALL LONG DISTANCE

• • • •

SHOPPING TO BE DONE? And you can't leave home? Just pick up your phone! Today, more and more busy homemakers are shopping by phone. In fact, latest Bell System studies show that four out of five women purchase goods or services by phone at one time or another! So next time bad weather . . . housework . . . whatever keeps you at home . . . just pick up your phone and go shopping!

• • • •

DID-YOU-KNOW-DEPARTMENT: About 40 per cent of overseas telephone calls are with Pan-American countries; about 30 per cent with Pacific, and 25 per cent with European countries.

• • • •

MR. BUSINESSMAN: Are you forgetting one of your most important Public Relations tools? It's your telephone! For example, the entire sales staff of a Midwestern tire distributor periodically calls customers to see if they have any complaints or suggestions on how service may be improved.

Milady's Memos

BY HELEN HALE

Fashions with a Future

For busy days ahead, what could be more festive than a two piece red wool jersey suit with a tapestry blouse? It can go any place for the afternoon and is perfect for informal dining out.

Fluid crepe in a blouse and pleated skirt combination will look like a one-piece dress. A brief velvet jacket makes an elegant topping for evenings.

Sheer wool crepe is popular for a sheath dress with a minimum of trimming. Even though you choose a color, the style is basic and can be changed with costume jewelry.

Helen's Favorite:
Skillet Apple Ham
(Serves 6).

2 - 2½ pound slice of ham
2 tablespoons shortening
2 cups sliced onion
2 cups canned apple sauce
¼ cup molasses
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
½ teaspoon ground clover

Trim excess fat from ham slice. Saute in fat in skillet, turning to brown on all sides. Remove ham, add onions and saute to golden brown. Combine remaining ingredients and add to onion, mixing well. Add ham slice, cover and simmer for 50 minutes or until tender.

A two-piece velveteen dress is wonderful when you want to go out afternoon or evening. Choose jewel tones in emerald, ruby, sapphire or ever popular black.

For hair styles with hair up in front choose a pillbox which will sit back on top of the head. It won't mean the hair-do.

Suit tops and blouses are cleverly done these days with a mandarin collar as well as with a detachable scarf that ties casually. In this way you get two looks for the price of one.

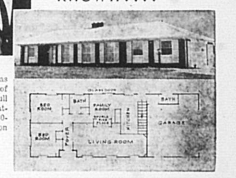
Mrs. Vic Weaver, our precinct committeeman for Democratic Central Committee, calls a meeting of the committee for the purpose of Primary election. The 30 Minute Men will meet at the home of Mrs. Mary Ann Caswell on March 1st. Mrs. Caswell is one of Farm and Home Week, but that certainly doesn't keep her from being a busy person. Because of illness of our secretary, Mr. Hughes, our precinct, we failed to have Home Demonstration Units in the United States each year with Gaston assisted by Mrs. Kathleen Fisher.

Mr. and Mrs. James K. Waddle, Jr., Somerset, says:

"It's the cleanest heat we've ever known. . . ."



The Waddle home has 1250 square feet of living area, and a full basement. It was heated during the 1960-1961 heating season for only $195.

"We've lived in our electrically heated home for more than a year now," says Mrs. Waddle, "and not since I started housekeeping has my home stayed so clean all winter. It's the cleanest heat we've ever known. On top of that there's its room-by-room comfort and flexibility. We're certainly glad we chose electric heat for our new home."

Throughout Kentucky more and more families are specifying safe, flameless electric heat in new homes. It costs far less to install, less to operate than you might think. If you're planning a new home or modernizing an old one, investigate electric heat. KU heating specialists will help you plan your heating layout, and estimate annual heating costs before you decide.
