WIVES OF NON-COM OFFICERS TO HAVE CLUB

Fort Chaffee, Ark. — Wives of non-commissioned officers at Fort Chaffee have organized a club to occupy some of their spare time while they are here with their husbands, most of whom are on active duty with the 100th Division.

In organizing the Fort Chaffee Non-Commissioned Officers and Enlisted Men's Wives Club, Mrs. William T. Beam, Louisville, Ky., president, said the primary purpose of the club would be to afford NCO's wives an opportunity to get acquainted with new friends.

The club will also be open to wives of enlisted men who are not NCO's. Mrs. Beam said. Non-commissioned officers are corporals and sergeants.

In addition to weekly meetings, the club will have a regular bridge game, a bowling league, a sewing workshop and a committee to handle exchange baby sitting arrangements.

The club also will initiate a telephone plan to encourage wives who are especially lonely to call other members and talk. This service will be popular with wives of trainees. Mrs. Beam feels, because trainees are required to live in barracks and, consequently, their wives must live alone.

1962 FEED GRAIN PROGRAM

The Feed Grain Program which was put into operation in 1961 is again available to farmer who produced corn and/or grain sorghum in 1959 and or 1960, and who are interested in the reduction of grain surpluses. Since Nicholas is a minor county acreage reports for feed grain producing farms must be filed by March 21, 1962 in order to be eligible to participate.

In 1961, 191 farmers in Nicholas County participated in the program which resulted in the reduction of 1051 acres of corn and for which farmers received payment in the amount of $33,808.

If you are interested file your acreage report at the Nicholas County Farmers Office. The personnel at the ASCS office will be glad to answer any questions relative to the program.

A HOUSE of twenty-acre, Calhoun County farmer worked out a man for having a garden eaten by deer. Unable to capture some deer, farmer, a retired sheriff, fired his shotgun, which eventually forfeited $25 bail, and he had to also whip himself to hell it was "but it was a nice bit of change for a retired salesman after he picked it up.

Now, a turkey is one bird, a turkey vulture another, but the two don't seem to up a lot of life; the average citizen knows very little about wildlife.

Annually, with the opening of the season in many sections of the country, local newspapers will carry a proclamation of some sort or other which has been identified by various terms—"order" or "edict" printed prominently on both sides.

It's good for a bunch—but the bill of domestic animals killed by hunters who don't know a deer from a Holstein is no laughing matter.

The annual "kill" of protected species is a serious matter that particularly where the dark population is concerned. Some species are protected by federal laws, others are protected only in certain states.

Including the 1956 and 1961 seasons, the carnivorous and the red fox were among the fully protected by federal law. Despite the fact that these are the only two species in commission red markings, apparently it's a sure bet that some guns and reds were killed by inconsiderate duck shooters who had swag long before they were able to identify their targets.

A story out of Missouri last year told about a man who identified his target, but still couldn't hit it. Seems a farmer found a great horned owl about to snatch up one of his young turkeys. The farmer fired away with his shotgun. Three turkeys fell over dead; the owl flew away.

"Okay, get your shoe off and get that pushnut up here where we can get a measure on it, dear."

City officials can't do business with their city

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Members of the city council and the mayors of fourth-class cities may not be interested in any business transacted with the city, the attorney general's office informed Carlisle Mayor William Power, Tuesday. Power had asked whether a mayor or councilman had the right to transact business with a fourth-class city.

Power was referred to KRS 61.270 which reads: "If any officer of a city of the fourth class becomes directly or indirectly interested as agent, principal or surety in any contract with the city he shall thereby vacate his office, and the contract, if entered into while he is in office, shall be void."

The mayor also was referred to KRS 96.050 which stated that no member of the council shall be interested in any contract with the city or in arrears with the city for money collected or withheld without a settlement.

Existence of any of the disqualifications "shall render a person ineligible to be a member of the council and the council shall so declare and shall fill the vacancy," the section reads.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Walter Hordman, who wrote the opinion, stated that the statutes clearly prohibit any officer, including the mayor and councilmen, from being directly or indirectly interested in any contract with the city and provides as a penalty forfeiture of office.

Burley acreage is increased six percent

Burley acreage allotments are to be increased 6 percent for the coming season, Secretary Freeman has told Sixth District Representative John Watts.

The increase makes 340,781 acres available for allotment to burley growers this year, compared with 321,605 in 1961, Watts reports.

The increase is in line with Kentucky Congressional delegation request of 19 days ago to Secretary Freeman.

In a note received Wednesday by John Sherman Cooper (R), Freeman said he was in accord with his recommendation.

Watts says production limits for 1962 burley have been suspended. Last year's suspended 335,000,000 pounds.

Watts says the increase is possible because of increased demand for burley both for domestic and foreign utilization. Watts said.

Flue-cured growers will vote February 20 on whether they want their quota program continued. Quotas must be approved by at least two-thirds of the growers to remain effective.
