COAL CONFERENCE TO BE HELD AT UK

Efficient combustion of coal, whether it be for heat power or other purposes, will be the predominant theme of the Industrial Coal Conference scheduled for March 1-2 on the University of Kentucky campus.

The conference, first of its type to be held at UK, is sponsored by the College of Engineering and the Extended Programs division of the University, in cooperation with the National and Kentucky Coal Associations. The program will be presented by speakers who are specialists in coal and modern coal-burning equipment.

UK SHOWS COLLECTION OF POSTAGE STAMPS

An extensive exhibition of postage stamps issued in honor of 22 librarians and archivists is on display at the University of Kentucky's Margaret I. King Library. The librarians and archivists represent countries on England, Belgium, India, China, Germany and the United States. John Henry Richter, an Australian born librarian at the University of Michigan has written a guide to the UK stamp exhibit.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Views of all mankind of the healing ministry of the Master will be stressed at Christian Science church services Sunday, in a Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Christ Jesus."

Luke's account of the healing by Christ Jesus of the man with the dropsy will be included in the Bible selections.

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this citation will be read (p. 109): "When man is governed by God, the ever-present Mind who understands all things, man knows that with God all things are possible. The only way to this living Truth, which heals the sick, is found in the Science of divine Mind as taught and demonstrated by Christ Jesus."

The Golden Text is from Colossians (2:7): "As ye have therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk ye in him: rooted and built up in him, and established in the faith, as ye have been taught, abounding therein with thanksgiving."

Protection of Farm Animals

Fallout may be dangerous to cattle, sheep, horses, pigs, and other livestock, as well as to human beings, if they are out in the fields, pastures, and other unprotected areas. Animals can suffer skin burns if the fallout settles in the coat.

If you receive enough warning that fallout is coming, you can take certain precautions to protect your livestock and require the losses.

The livestock housed in barns and other buildings can stand a better chance of surviving the effects of radiation than those that are not sheltered. A reasonably well-built shelter provides fallout from settling on the animals bodies and will protect the animals from eating contaminated food.

CAUTION DO NOT let your animals go without water and feed too long. It is better to keep them alive on contaminated food than to let them die of thirst and hunger.

Give your livestock the uncontaminated food. If the fallout particles settle on the hay and feedboxes, the particles will only cover and contaminate the outer portions. Because the outer portions of hay and the outer bags of feed, use the inside feed. It is unaffected.

You may have to give the cows the contaminated food if no other food is available, although the milk from these cows may not be usable, since the cows are back on clean food the amount of radioactive materials will progressively diminish. Authorities will measure the fallout in affected areas and warn the farmers when the milk is unsafe.

Dairy cows should receive special treatment.

Give the dairy cows the most preferred shelter, clean feed, and water. If possible milk these cows before fallout occurs. You may not be able to do so for a day or two afterwards.

The protection of poultry is the same as for the other animals. Flocks housed in concrete buildings would be better protected from fallout than those in wooden buildings.

Radioactive fallout materials might show up in the eggs of the hens that eat contaminated feed. But most of the fallout will collect in the shells; very little will collect in the yolk and in the white.

For further information about the protection of animals. You can get a booklet called "Radioactive Fallout on the Farm."

Cut that Cleaning Time

Did you know that nutts made out of terry towels can make quick work of cleaning. Venetian blinds? Just run a damp cloth of the slates at one time.

Hang a towel rod in the bathroom door. It's possible for each member of the household to run it over the door as a glassed-in shower stall to keep it clean.

Remember shelves and racks from the refrigerator as long as they can be washed.

Clean the kitchen cabinets a section at a time right after meals. They'll all be done within a week or so and you won't be worn out.

Attach a magnet to the handle of your dustpan so this for pick ing up stray nails or pins It will certainly save bending!

THURSDAY, MARCH 1
Read: Luke 12:13-21

Jesus' life contained not in the abundance of the things he possessed. (Luke 12:15)

A parable has been compared to a mirror in which we see ourselves. Jesus told this parable to illustrate His teaching.

Did not the Lord tell the parable of the rich man who planned to build larger barns to hold more goods laid up for many years to come? He could take his ease, eat, drink, and be merry.

But God said to him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: Jesus concluded the parable saying, So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God.

What an example of our world today! People spend so much effort and worry accumulating material possessions, and increasing wealth. They give so little time and attention to laying up spiritual treasure, which cannot be taken away, even by death. These are the treasures of love, mercy, kindness, forbearance, truth and faithful followers of God, the seeds of life.

PRAYER: Our Father, forgive us for striving for earthly things. Help us to constantly turn our minds and hearts to seek those things which are worthy possessions. Trusting Thee to supply our needs in Christ's name we offer our prayer. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth. Col. 3:2

PRESCRIPTION PRICES

How are prescription prices determined? We have a policy in this matter, the only one we can follow. We do not offer bargains in prescriptions—there is no cutrate way to health. Nor do we pretend to under-sell. Prescription prices simply are determined by the cost of the ingredients and operating expense. The prices we charge are as low as satisfactory service and effective drugs will allow.

There is nothing either good or bad but thinking makes it so." Thus speaks Hamlet in Shakespeare's great play of the same name, and thinking is reflected in evil action. For instance, a criminal act requires lawless thought to precede it. Conversely, loving thoughts are evidenced in loving actions.

Without Prejudice

"Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it."
Proverbs 22:6

HAS it ever occurred to you that a child is born without a single prejudice?

We begin to form our prejudices in childhood. We develop them from what our parents say and do, the actions of neighbors and friends and relatives.

That is why it is so important as a child develops and uses to understand the world and people, that you help channel his thinking. His entire life depends upon you.

You can help your child tackle life by helping him find faith and truth in the church of your choice.

Worship with your family this week and help your child find himself.

"Dear Mr. Genius: My Friend Barbara's over in Pima County received a one thousand dollar check from the government this year for not raising hogs. So I am going into the not raising business next year. What I want to know is, in your opinion, what is the best kind of farm not to raise hogs on and the best kind of hogs not to raise?

I would prefer not to raise rutabagas, but if this is not a good breed not to raise, I will find another.

Hooked rug designs second lesson is given

Creative A Design" was the lesson given the members of the Hooked Rug Workshop, held Thursday, February 22 at the Bridge Street Church.

Some suggestions to keep in mind when creating a design for your rug are: Plan your rug before you start hooking. Shut it all in right size and shape and so that the design will be in scale with the furniture with the surround ings. The size and proportion of the rug must be in relation to the furniture with which it is to be used. Consider the proportions 2 to 3, 3 to 5, or 5 to 7 are good with 3 to 5 proportion better in most places.

The rug may be either a blocked or a floral design. Remember brighter colors will appear to stand out while darker colors will recede.

Be sure the design is suitable for the method of hooking you will use.

PRICE MAKES NOT A BARGAIN!

Price IS important, as any wise shopper will tell you.

Yet price is not always the factor which brings a consumer to decide on a particular brand or trade name.

Price affects choice only when two items under consideration are of equal value and reputation. If one of the items is inferior, then a lower price is nothing more than what the customer expects

Older Boy Stops Being Friendly

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

By C. D. Smith

THE WEEK'S LETTER: I am 15 years old and I will be 16 in March. I like a boy much older than I, in fact, he is 20. I always thought he liked me because he would always say "hello" or talk to me when he could. I hardly ever see him since I go to school. He is very kind and nice to little children. Whenever he sees me, it seems he turns his head and he never waves to me. I am not the prettiest girl in the world and not the worst looking. People say he is too old for me, but I figure when two people like each other age doesn't really matter. Do you think he is too old and whether I should forget about him and just call him a friend?

OUR REPLY: You should call him a friend, and give up any idea of getting "serious." Age does make a difference, particularly when the spread is from 15 to 20 years. Later in life, a spread of seven years is not so great, here it is just too much.

This, we believe, is the reason your "friend" no longer waves to you and appears to look the other way. he wanted to be friends, you wanted to get "serious."

With some people, being friendly comes as natural as breathing. They like everyone; they want to be liked by everyone. Apparently, your friend is this type. He wants you for a friend; he does not wish to date you, or any such thing. He realizes that you have other ideas, and that is why he is not as friendly as before.

Teenagers like to know "you doesn't make any difference," yet they are as age-conscious as their elders. For example, you would not go out on much social difference between your son and his girl friend, would you? Of course not. What if he were four, five, six years younger than you are, and just as friendly as he is now—wouldn't you consider him only a "friendly little boy"? Certainly, he would be no "young" man who you absolutely brought to him as a boyfriend.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to Editor, Older Boy, Box 1, Nicholasville, Ky. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
