

Carwood Calls Basketball

by WHAS Sports Director Conrad Lutz

Carwood calls basketball a "public enemy" because it is a "game" which is "played" in a "public" place. He says that the "game" is "played" in a "public" place, and that it is a "game" which is "played" in a "public" place. He says that the "game" is "played" in a "public" place, and that it is a "game" which is "played" in a "public" place.
