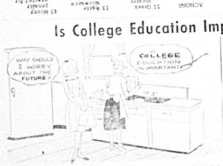
Is College Education Important?



THE WEEK'S EDITORIAL — Today A college education is important to many people. It may well spell failure to others. It is important to those who have the ability to succeed in college and who have the desire to succeed. A college graduate can expect to earn $100,000 more in his lifetime than a high school graduate. In the long run, college graduates are happier.

OUR EQUITY: Unfortunately, the financial circumstances of parents decree our future education for many children. It is not any fault personally if you are unable financially to go to college. If your parents are unable or willing financially, sacrifice—to send you to college, you should consider yourself extremely fortunate.

Dogs Come Calling.

Sheep flocks of South Brushy and Eagene bound on the Conard road were visited by dogs last week. No sheep were killed however, but some dogs that had never been seen around these parts before were caught in the act of running the sheep. It is said a load of lead was shot was fed.

Whether True or Not.

If the old saying is true that a thunder on February means a frost in May, you might as well last saddle the seed catalogue and put all thoughts of gardening behind you for the first of May. Or if the old saying is true that a frost in May means a big crop of fruit, you might as well start thinking about a spade.
