Hearing handicaps overcome by KCCC services

Recognizing the special needs of children with hearing handicaps, the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children has been instrumental in providing rehabilitative services which enable these children to make a successful adjustment into school and social life.

At the Society's Hearing and Speech Center in Louisville, services offered include intensive hearing and evalution of hearing problems, training in the fitting and use of hearing aids, and speech correction for children with hearing-caused speech problems. Therapy at the Center is aimed primarily at improvement in communication.

Last year 464 children and 96 adults from 76 Kentucky counties received hearing and speech services at the Center. In addition, the Society paid for services for 22 children at other hearing centers.

Seventy funds provided 17 children who are children whose parents could not afford them. A WHAS benefit for Children Fund administered by the Society funds used for 19 kids and Contributions raised favorably last Fall on a property tax to support the county library system. But no funds will not be available until January 1963. Meanwhile, Miss Wilks said, the Board for books from interested and the need is great." She added that Carlisle will qualify as headquarters library of the new region.

FHA SCHOLARSHIP FUND by Peggy Spencer

The Scholarship Fund is a fund set up by FHA chapters to help give girls the opportunity to further their education in Home Economics.

The state scholarship fund was first adopted at the state FHA meeting in June 1948. It was hoped that one scholarship would be given the next year, but the contributions were so generous that two were awarded that year. The first scholarship was $150, and later it was changed to $200.

The scholarship is a goal for high school girls to work toward. It is a great honor to receive this scholarship and it certainly helps out financially. Even though the amount is small, it does help a great deal.

When you become more interested in this scholarship you may wonder who may receive one. Anyone who Plans to study Home Economics in a Kentucky college or university which offers 4 years of Home Economics is an active FHA member and is well informed about the organization, has a scholastic standing of at least a B for the four years of high school, possesses the following qualities: attractive appearance, poise, good manners, good health, and good character and holds a state homemaker degree.
